SPAIN TO SEIZE BELONGINGS OF OUSTED RULER

Decree Follows Further Burning and Sacking of Churches.

ARCHBISHOP LEAVES AND CROSSES BORDER

Cabinet Asks Provincial Governors to Resign; Policemen Deposed.

Madrid, May 13 (A.P.).—Following further anticlerical riots in Spain today, in spite of the strict watch of soldiery, the Government tonight decreed the confiscation of the private property of former King Alfonso, pending an investigation.

Meanwhile Cardinal Primate Segura, Catholic Archbishop of Toledo, whose pastoral letter created a stir over a week ago, had crossed the Spanish border and was on his way through France, presumably on a journey to Rome.

Several more churches and Catholic religious houses were burned and sacked in provincial cities today, in spite of the fact martial law had been declared in most of the larger centers.

After a five-hour session the Cabinet decided to place the minister of the interior, Maura, in full charge of maintenance of public order and empowered him to take steps to meet the situation. Maura announced he was prepared to declare martial law throughout Spain if necessary.

Resignations Are Demanded.

The Cabinet demanded the resignation of the provincial governors at Alicante, Cadiz, Cordova, and Malaga for alleged laxity.

Maura informed proprietors of Madrid newspapers the government was considering the establishment of censorship unless "injurious" stories were eliminated and no photographs of the recent disorders published.

At Seville the captain general was informed many farmers were heavily armed, saying they had heard of a Communist revolt and were prepared to fight.

A nation-wide check-up of police forces, civil guards and provincial governors was ordered by the cabinet at its night session.

The action resulted from the government's belief that some of these officials have not been stern enough in dealing with the situation.

Police Chiefs Discharged.

Twenty-nine chiefs of police or their lieutenants, several officers of the civil guards and one secretary of provincial government were discharged for incompetency.

It was reported also some provincial governors were to be displaced.

Cardinal Segura, accompanied by his brother, the canon of the Toledo Cathedral, drove in an automobile to the French border at Hendaye, France, and continued from there to Toulouse. They were accompanied by a police guard from San Sebastian, Spain, to Hendaye. Although they refused to comment on the purpose of their journey or its destination, it was supposed they were bound for Rome.

The cabinet's decree confiscating the former king's property also ordered an investigation into all of the king's acts since the beginning of the Primo de Rivera dictatorship in 1923. It claimed Alfonso had not been legitimately king since that time.

It charged Alfonso with using the royal palace to increase his personal fortune and declared a search of the palace revealed documents to prove this assertion.

Bishops Decided To Stop Cannon

His Action Averted Move to Halt Elevation, Paper Declares.

Richmond, Va., May 13 (A.P.).—The Times-Dispatch says it was learned here today that a decision to deprive Bishop James Cannon, jr., of his succession to the presidency of the College of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, was reached by bishops of the college at an informal meeting held in Nashville preceding the regular session on May 2.

At the regular meeting of the college Bishop Cannon presented a statement relinquishing his claim to the office.

The paper says presentation of Bishop Cannon's request made it unnecessary for the bishops at their May 2 meeting to take the formal action they informally had agreed upon to prevent his accession to the office.

Record Bridge Battle To Begin Here Today

Post's Tournament Will Be Biggest Contest in Game's History.

The biggest tournament ever attempted since bridge became the greatest and most popular of all card games will open today. It is the first annual tournament of Washington players, sponsored by The Washington Post. There will be three major events lasting for three days, and two sessions will be devoted to each event.

The opening contest, at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the new Shoreham Hotel will be pair matches in both forms of the game, contract and auction, and in the two classes which have been arranged so that average players will not be obliged to compete against experts, but will have opportunity to win one of The Washington Post's prize cups by meeting players of their own class. The experts will fight it out among themselves. Trophies will be awarded to the winners in both classes and in both forms of the game.

The pair matches will be continued tomorrow afternoon. There will be no eliminations on the first day, and total scores for the two sessions will decide the pair championships.

This evening will inaugurate the first of the two auction team series in both classes, one for experts and one for intermediate players. As in the pair contests, there will be no eliminations tonight, but the same players will participate on Saturday afternoon at auction, and the combined score made at the two sessions will determine the winners.

Tomorrow evening and Saturday evening will witness the contract team matches in both classes, and as in the auction team matches, the combined score of the two evenings will govern the award of the trophies.

FRENCH NAME PAUL DOUMER AS PRESIDENT

Briand Withdraws After Narrow Defeat on First Ballot.

NEW CHIEF ASSUMES OFFICE NEXT MONTH

White-Bearded, Austere Man Is Veteran Public Official.

Versailles, France, May 13.—(A.P.).—Paul Doumer, white-bearded president of the Senate, tonight was elected thirteenth President of France, defeating Aristide Briand, the predilection favorite.

He won on the second ballot, with 504 votes against 334 for Senator Pierre Marraud, a last-minute candidate, but his victory was assured from the first, when he polled 442 votes to Briand's 401.

Briand, repudiated by some on whose support he had counted, withdrew after the first ballot and the Socialist support swung to Marraud, without giving that candidate enough strength to threaten the winner.

New President 74 Years Old.

Premier Pierre Laval gave Doumer official notice of his election and the 74-year-old president-elect responded briefly with praise for Briand's foreign policies and expressed hope they would be continued.

It was not so certain, however, that Briand, eleven times premier and for the past seven years foreign minister, would remain in the cabinet. He told his colleagues in the afternoon he would go to Geneva tomorrow for the League of Nations council meeting, as he had planned, but whether he goes is a matter for cabinet decision.

Briand's defeat on the first ballot had been unexpected by most of the political experts, who had predicted that the overwhelming vote by which the chamber sustained his foreign policies last week would be repeated in the presidential election.

In Line of Succession.

Tradition may have influenced the result to some extent. The presidency of the French Senate is analogous in many ways to the Vice Presidency of the United States. President Doumergue, who continues in office until June 13, rose to the presidency from that post and others have followed the same path to the Elysee palace.

Doumer himself was defeated for the presidency in 1903, when he ran against "Papa" Fallieres, who was elevated from the Senate presidency.

At any rate many of the electors considered the outcome of the second ballot inevitable and left the election hall immediately after casting their ballots.

Doumer, Briand Cheers Mingle.

The brief notification ceremony in which Doumer's reference to Briand's policies was cheered, ended as the successful candidate and Premier Laval left together to call on President Doumergue.

Mingled cheers for Doumer and Briand came from the throng outside the palace as they drove away. Although they have no direct vote in the election of their president, thousands of French citizens came here from Paris in the morning to be on hand for the event.

The crush was so great that Ambassador Edge, who arrived with Mrs. Edge, Hugh Wilson, American Minister to Switzerland, and Mrs. Wilson,

THIRD RAID REVEALS GIGANTIC RUM BASE

3 More Men, Second Speedboat and Liquor Seized Near Cambridge.

Cambridge, Md., May 13 (A.P.).—Continuing a clean-up of the base of a Chesapeake Bay liquor smuggling outfit declared to have been operating in this section for two years, Federal officers today seized a second high-powered launch loaded with 400 cases of liquor, a third motor truck, and arrested three more men.

The seizures and arrests brought the total in two days to fourteen men arrested, and two high-powered launches, three motor trucks, and automobile, 650 cases of liquor, and a quantity of arms confiscated.

The eleven men first arrested were arraigned late today, and remanded for a formal hearing Friday afternoon after customs officials asked that bail be set at $35,000 each on charges of smuggling.

G. Morris Greenburg, New York attorney for the men, protested, asking that bail be placed at from $500 to $1,000 each, and demanded a formal hearing.

The second launch, a 54-foot, 1,200 horsepower craft capable of a speed of 50 miles an hour, officers said, was captured with three men aboard when it went aground about 15 miles from Taylors Island, scene of yesterday's captures.

A score of customs and prohibition officers, District Attorney Simon E. Sobeloff of Baltimore, and Robert D. Ford, prohibition chief for Maryland, took part in the second day's operations or came here from Baltimore for a hearing before Commissioner Louder T. Hearn.

Liquor for years has been brought through the Virginia capes into Chesapeake Bay from the West Indies or Canada, and transshipped from ocean-going craft to speed boats, which in State Department "Regrets" Attack on Dr. Leiva, in Hospital.

Stimson to Probe Scope of Police Protection Given Diplomats.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

A liquor thief with a bitten finger was being sought by Washington police last night in connection with the attack on Dr. Don Carlos Leiva, counselor and charge d'affaires of the El Salvadorean Legation, 2601 Connecticut avenue northwest. The attack on Dr. Leiva was reported exclusively in The Post yesterday morning.

The thief, one of four, slugged Dr. Leiva with the butt end of a revolver, but not before the diplomat had clutched a finger and sunk his teeth into it.

Dr. Leiva said he could not distinguish his assailant's features, but he added:

"I could recognize his finger, however, because I bit it deeply."

While the police were searching for men who had carried off 17 cases and were about to steal 27 more cases of liquor from the El Salvadorean Legation when Dr. Leiva appeared and engaged them in battle, the American Government was doing everything it could to show how much it regretted the "outrage."

The Republic of El Salvador is only about the size of New Jersey, but its diplomatic representative, under international custom, is entitled to just as much consideration as the representative of the most powerful nation.

Consequently, the administration lost no time in showing its concern over the assault on Dr. Leiva.

Secretary Stimson late yesterday sent a note to Dr. Leiva saying he was "shocked" to learn of the injuries he had received, and expressing regret over the incident.

Earlier in the day, Secretary Stimson announced that he would order an investigation to determine whether or not the Washington police are according diplomats the protection to which they are entitled.

Capt. Joel T. Boone, the Navy physician assigned to President Hoover, called on Dr. Leiva and examined his wounds.

Wounds Require 27 Stitches.

Dr. Leiva, a powerful man of 51 years, was attacked at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. He is now in Emergency Hospital with 27 stitches in his head. These were taken to mend three vicious scalp wounds inflicted by one of the robbers.

Secretary of State Stimson read about the attack yesterday morning, and shortly after his arrival at the State Department he sent Walter Thurston to the hospital to see the wounded man. Mr. Thurston is chief

ESTIMATE CUT DUE IN WELFARE UNITS

One of Major Items Centers on Pleas for Addition of Employes.

Drastic reductions in the total of $6,193,645 estimates asked by the Public Welfare Department will be started today by the District Commissioners following a conference with executives of the leading trade and civic bodies in Washington.

One of the major items, which will likely raise strenuous objections if it is eliminated, is the addition of 189 employes to meet the demands of the Saturday half holiday act. At present the Welfare Department is unable to grant the half holiday to even a majority of its employes because of inadequate personnel. In some divisions the workers are required to labor as much as ten or twelve hours a day, while in others, such as the District Jail, the employes work seven days a week.

Several large construction projects, declared necessary because of overcrowded conditions in public institutions, are also requested by the director of public welfare, George S. Wilson. Among these is a new ward for Gallinger Hospital, completion of the Children's Tuberculosis Hospital and several buildings at the Home for Aged and Infirm.

These estimates exceed the department's appropriation for 1932 by $732,244 and consequently will undergo considerable slicing before going to the Bureau of the Budget in view of the necessity of reducing the total District estimates by about $12,000,000.

One of the greatest divisional increases is asked by the workhouse and reformatory. Sixty-three additional employes, including 44 principal guards, are asked, thus increasing the salary appropriation for 1933 from $297,650 to $403,570. This is also based partly on a conservative estimate of an increase in inmates of 11.7 per cent to a total of 1,900.

Both the Children's Hospital and Emergency Hospital are asking larger appropriations on the basis of a proposed increase in rates of 25 per cent or from $2 to $2.50 a day. The former asks $40,000 as against a $25,000 appropriation for 1932, while the latter requests $45,000 as against $30,000. It is pointed out that the actual cost of caring for the patients is from $3 to $4 a day.

Gallinger Hospital wants 43 additional employes, besides 20 pupil nurses and 4 resident internes, making a total increase in salary estimates of $63,200.

An appropriation of $200,000 is asked to enable the Commissioners

A. F. OF L. ASKS STERN BATTLE ON WAGE CUTS

ATTEMPT AT SLASH IS LAID TO BANKERS

Violation of Understandings at Hoover Conference in 1929 Is Charged.

(Associated Press.)

The executive council of the American Federation of Labor announced yesterday it would appeal to organized and unorganized labor to resist to the fullest extent attempts to reduce wages.

In a formal statement, the council ascribed to "certain banking interests and certain employers" an apparent attempt to bring about a general reduction in wages. It called upon labor to resist such reductions, saying: "This action is inspired by a firm conviction that it is only a step from reductions in wages to continuous, permanent unemployment."

"A wage-cutting policy will positively contribute toward a continuation of the existing unemployment situation," it was warned. "The policy pursued by certain banking interests and employers of labor in attempting to enforce reductions in wages constitutes a public violation of the understanding reached at the President's conference. The council holds that the action of these employing interests is indefensible both from an ethical and economic point of view."

Cuts Declared Announced.

The council said that the Goodyear and Goodrich Tire Companies have announced substantial reductions.

"The significant fact related to this proposed reduction in wages is that automobile and automobile tire manufacturing industries must depend upon a high purchasing power on the part of the masses of the people if a market is to be found for their products. How these industries can find a market for their products if the buying power of the people is still further lowered is difficult to understand."

The situation was emphasized as serious, with unemployment steadily increasing.

Another Hard Winter Seen.

"The stress of almost two years of increasing unemployment," the statement continued, "is being more keenly felt. Suffering and distress prevails, while social unrest is steadily increasing. There are strong indications that we are facing a third winter of distressing unemployment.

"What the country needs is development of buying power, not productive power. The executive council of the American Federation of Labor is of the opinion that the serious unemployment situation which now prevails calls for drastic consideration and drastic action. It firmly believes that the wage cutting policy urged by certain banking interests and certain employers should be effectively stopped."

The statement added: "As usual, labor must be depended upon to save the situation and prevent the further imposition of injustice."

1929 Parley Recalled.

The President's conference referred to was taken to mean that called in November, 1929, when Mr. Hoover conferred with industrial and labor leaders at the White House. More than a score of the Nation's leading industrialists pledged themselves individually not to initiate any movement for wage reduction.

Included in the group were Henry Ford, who announced that an immediate increase in wages among Ford employes had been determined upon; Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric Co.; E. G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation; Alfred P. Sloan, jr., president of General Motors, and Pierre du Pont, chairman of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.

Later the same day the Chief Executive conferred with representatives of organized labor, among them William Green, president; Mathew Woll, vice president, and Frank Morrison, secretary, of the American Federation of Labor.

Labor Makes Pledge in Turn.

The labor representatives agreed that no movements for wage increases beyond those already under way

MINERS ANNOUNCE INTENTION TO FIGHT

Charge That Governor Has Violated His Promises in Every Respect.

Evarts, Ky., May 13 (U.P.).—Within sight of a Kentucky National Guard camp established here to quell coal mine disorders, a fighting declaration was formally issued from union headquarters tonight, saying:

"If we can not get help from anyone, we are going to help ourselves." The statement was issued on behalf of 11,000 unemployed union miners by William M. Hightower, president of the Evarts local, U. M. W. A.

It came at the end of a day which brought reports of slightly renewed employment at mines where wholesale walkouts occurred during Monday. National guardsmen had been placed at some of the mines to avert alleged intimidation of workers.

Hightower charged Gov. Flem D. Sampson "has violated his promises in every respect," asserted the National Guard "has sided with the operators in this fight," and that destitute men had received no aid from the Red Cross.

"We are not going to let our families starve," his statement said. "We love our wives and children just as much as the operators love theirs. We certainly are not going to stand idly by and see them suffer. We don't like to take this attitude, but we feel we have been driven to it by the impossible conditions imposed upon our men in this fight.

"Our backs are to the wall. The governor is against us. The money power is against us. We have got to live. Somebody will have to help us or we will help ourselves, and we mean just that."

Hightower's charges against the governor referred to an agreement he said was reached by representatives of the chief executive and of the union at Louisville a week ago, under which the following was stipulated:

1. No transportation of strikebreakers into the field would be permitted.
2. Arrangements must be made to care for destitute families.
3. The right to organize was admitted.
4. Armed guards at mines be dismissed.

"When these soldiers came in here," Hightowers' statement said, "we hoped things would be bettered, especially our conditions, but the way things are now it has made our conditions worse.

"I blame Gov. Sampson for not living up to the agreement signed at Louisville. He has violated his promises in every respect."

A committee of union miners recently conferred with Col. Daniel M. Carrell, in command of troops here,

PLANS TO MOBILIZE 4,000,000 OUTLINED

MacArthur Also Tells of U.S. Preparations to Draft Industry in War Time.

(Associated Press.)

Comprehensive War Department plans for quickly mobilizing American industry and raising an army of 4,000,000 men at the outbreak of possible future hostilities were outlined to the War Policies Commission yesterday by Chief of Staff MacArthur.

The Army plans conflicted with a statement to the commission from the administrative committee of the Federal Council of Churches which contended that elaborate war plans create suspicion among foreign nations and diminish, rather than increase, the security of the United States.

Gen. MacArthur and other War Department officials, including Assistant Secretary Payne, appeared before the commission, composed of members of the Cabinet, House and Senate, as it resumed hearings in search of a plan to take the profits out of war.

The chief of staff said the War Department is opposed to conscription of labor, favors registration of wealth and plans to draft man power for military service under a selective law similar to that used in the World War.

He opposed the plan presented to the commission by Bernard M. Baruch, former chairman of the War Industries Board, for "freezing" all prices at the outbreak of hostilities, and presented a modified plan. Under it, manufacturers of war material would be limited to 6 per cent profit. Other prices would be gradually controlled, if necessary, by negotiation.

Gen. MacArthur said Mr. Baruch's plan appealed because of its simplicity, but the department believe it would develop injustice and hardship to such an extent as to incite popular dissatisfaction.

He proposed the registration of wealth to facilitate the imposition of taxes by which the burdens of war would be distributed.

"The conscription of labor," the chief of staff said, "the department insists is not a satisfactory solution from any standpoint to the problem of assuring an adequate supply of skilled labor in war.

"It is firmly convinced that aside from constitutional prohibitions, the enforced employment of labor would not receive the support of the public opinion, and even if tolerated by the public at large, would be so resented by the workers affected that they would not lend their best efforts to the production of needed supplies."

Gen. MacArthur recommended an educational campaign to teach the suffering and waste of war and to make it plain that in a future con-

Temple Heights Plan Is Shown to Hoover

Masonic Development Project, Subject of Dispute Between Fraternal Groups and Sponsors and Federal Agencies, Still Awaits Decision.

Plans for development of Temple Heights by District Masons were laid before President Hoover at the White House yesterday by a committee composed of Gratz E. Dunkum, past grand master of Masons in the District; David Lynn, architect of the Capitol, and Harvey W. Corbett, New York architect, designer of the latest plans for the proposed new temple and accompanying buildings it is proposed to erect on the site.

Although the proposed development of the tract has been the subject of dispute between various groups in the fraternity in Washington, as well as between sponsors of the development and official agencies, approval of the National Capital Park and Plannnig Commission has been given to the latest plans drafted by Mr. Corbett and shown to President Hoover yesterday.

Approval of the President was not asked by the committee, which showed him a model of the temple, but it is said that the President indicated he had no criticism of the plan.

Dispute over the proposed development as a joint Masonic undertaking arose primarily over the height to which the sponsors hoped to rear the new temple. Turned down several times by the District Zoning Commission when they requested a rezoning of the tract to remove the existing 90-foot height limit, backers of the project took their fight to Congress, and although the District Commissioners disapproved their bill, Congress enacted the measure allowing construction of a building 160 feet high.

Subsequently Representative Cramton (Republican), Michigan, sought to have the permission revoked, charging that the measure had been put through Congress without disclosure of the actual plans of the backers. He said he had been tricked.

The special height act, setting aside the zoning laws in this particular case, provided that approval of the Fine Arts Commission and the National Capital Park and Planning Commission must be given to buildings on the site.

Disagreement between the planning commission and sponsors over the question of height held up the matter for awhile, but that difference now has been eliminated, Mr. Corbett having modified his first plans, limiting the height of the temple to 90 feet above the curb line opposite the center of the building.

Disclosure of the approval of the planning commission was made yesterday by Frederick A. Delano, chairman of the commission, who added that there was no further opposition and expressed the hope that the plans would be carried to fruition.

What the next move will be is problematical. Temple Heights is owned by the Grand Lodge of Masons of the District. It is the old

Laborer's Rise to Wealth By 'Policy Game' Is Bared

Porto Rican's Contradictory Statements in New York Court Lead to His Arrest; Workings, Centered in Harlem, Extended Over U. S.

New York, May 13 (U.P.).—A 30-year-old Porto Rican, who seven years ago was a day laborer, was confronted with bank records today to prove he had deposited $1,097,245 in the three years after he rose to the leadership of the Harlem "Policy Game." That game's ramifications extended over the United States.

Henry Miro was a reluctant witness when he appeared before Referee Samuel Seabury, investigating the Magistrates' Courts, and his statements wavered and clashed so often with his own testimony, given previously, that late today he was arrested and charged with perjury.

He seemed surprised when bank records produced by Irving Ben Cooper, Seabury's counsel, showed enormous deposits, but willingly admitted his profits in the "good years" had been between $2,000 and $3,000 a day.

Miro's revenue was drawn chiefly from the 500,000 Negro inhabitants of the city who gathered around a scrubby elm—Harlem's "good luck" tree—and purchased advice from soothsayers and mind readers in an attempt to learn the lucky number that would bring them sudden wealth. He came to this country from Porto Rico in 1916, he said, and scrabbled out his living by carrying bricks and digging ditches. After his marriage he turned to dice and the horses as a source of income and was successful enough to accumulate would be started and that every cooperation would be given to aid in the President's program.

Soon after returning from his Caribbean cruise, President Hoover was described at the White House as highly pleased that the leading industries of the country had stood by him in maintaining wage scales during the business recession. It was said he was deeply appreciative of the fact that since the depression there had been no strikes, no general wage reductions and no social disorders.

The President, it was added, would continue to advocate the maintenance of wage scales and had received no indication of any organized movement to bring them down.

Expression on Subject By Financiers Is Denied

New York, May 13 (A.P.).—Fred N. Shepherd, executive manager of the American Bankers' Association, said tonight that to his knowledge no group or organization of bankers had given expression on reduction of wages. Commenting on the statement of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, he said:

"The American Bankers' Association has in no way indorsed any move to reduce wages and has made no comment on such moves. As far as I know no organization of bankers, either State or smaller groups, has sought wage reduction. If such indorsement has been made by bankers it was individual and not organized, I am sure.

"There is a general feeling among most bankers, I believe, that wages should be kept at their present levels, where possible."

An investigation was also ordered into all the activities of the cabinets under Primo de Rivera and Gen. Damaso Berenguer to determine if ground for prosecution exists.

Indictments were returned against the monarchist leaders who were detained following upon Sunday's riots.

The investigation to determine whether Alfonso might be prosecuted on a charge of having a hand in inspiring what the government maintained was a monarchist plot is to begin immediately, the attorney general announced.

Spain's Land Decree To Be Put Into Effect

Madrid, May 13 (A.P.).—The government today notified all provincial governors to prepare to make effective the recent land decree to revitalize the Spanish agricultural industry and to improve the unemployment situation.

The governors were instructed to discuss application of the decree with agricultural experts. Applications will be made first for estates which are not being cultivated now but are best suited for being worked.

capital to start him as a "numbers" magnate.

Tickets were sold, and whoever held the number corresponding with certain figures in the Federal Government's net Treasury balance was the winner.

Obstacles arose when the Government, in an attempt to curb gambling, began giving the balance in round numbers instead of specific figures.

Bank clearings and total sales on the curb exchange then became the basis, but soon banks and clearing houses also began using round numbers.

The game now is based generally on total winnings of a $2 ticket on the first five horse races at a specific track.

Miro said he quit policy gambling in 1928 after he had worked out an elaborate bookkeeping system and employed members of his family as clerks at $30 a week. And he boasted in court today that if any of his operatives were arrested, he not only would provide bail but would pay members of the man's family $25 a week until the charges had been disposed of.

Cooper sought to show the extent of Miro's organization.

Q. How many outside workers did you employ?

A. I don't know. Maybe half a dozen.

Q. Did you move your business quarters frequently in anticipation of police raids?

A. No.

Q. Were your headquarters at your house?

A. Yes.

Q. How many worked inside the office?

A. Over six.

Q. Did you guarantee your workers protection against expenses for arrest?

A. I gave them lawyers and bondsmen and if they were sent to jail I took care of their families while they were in jail.

Q. What would you pay the families weekly?

A. Oh, $20 or $25. Whatever they needed.

Miro made the mistake of depositing his money in the bank of the United States, which failed recently. He said he had virtually no money now.

STEEL PLANT STRIKE HINGES ON WAGE CUT

Empire Chief Proposes 10 Per Cent Reduction to 1,500 Workers.

Mansfield, Ohio, May 13 (A.P.).—With operations in the Empire Steel Corporation plant here at a standstill because of a strike of some 1,500 workers, interest in the situation tonight centered in what action the employes would take on a proposal of the company to cut 5 per cent from the proposed 15 per cent wage reduction.

The men walked out when the company posted notice of a 15 per cent cut, saying they had expected but a 10 per cent reduction. Late today C. H. Henkel, president of the corporation, announced that if the men returned to work not later than Thursday morning, the cut would be reduced to 10 per cent.

Representatives of the workers said the men would take Henkel's proposition under consideration, but they could make no promises until after the employes vote on the proposal.

A threat to move the plant from Mansfield was contained in Henkel's statement. He said if the men did not return to work by Thursday morning he was "afraid Mansfield would lose the Empire Steel Corporation plant."

The day force of 1,000 men at the plant walked out Tuesday morning. It was joined early today by the night force of 500 men. Members of the Mansfield Trades Council, acting as arbitrators, said company officials had agreed to meet with representatives of the workers, but no time was set for such a meeting.

Court Overrules Property Owners

Reservoir Road Widening Is Assured by Ruling of Justice Cox.

Objections of property owners along Reservoir road to the proposed widening of that thoroughfare were overruled yesterday by Justice Joseph W. Cox, in the District Supreme Court, thus paving the way for the District's long delayed widening of the roadway.

The project was first broached by the District government in April, 1927, but it came up for hearing only a few months ago. Almost 60 property owners who objected to the amounts awarded them for land to be condemned were represented in the original protests, but most of them later dropped their formal protests.

As the situation now stands, the original valuations placed on the land to be taken over will be paid by the municipal government on the basis of awards made by a jury of taxpayers.

G.O.P.'s Massachusetts Situation Held Gloomy

(Associated Press.)

Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, Republican national committeewoman from Massachusetts, painted a gloomy picture for President Hoover yesterday of political conditions in the Bay State.

The contest, she said, between factions in the Republican party over a measure now pending before the State legislature authorizing preprimary caucuses, has brought about a bad situation in the party. "Things were bad enough in Massachusetts," she said, "without somebody starting a fight at this time. It makes things look pretty ad for us in 1932. They were ad enough in 1928."

Wickersham's Group Meets; Reports Nothing

(Associated Press.)

The Wickersham Commission met yesterday for a little more than two hours and then adjourned until May 27 without sending to the White House any of the nine reports yet to be made.

Only reports on prohibition and criminal statistics have been submitted to President Hoover. Remaining are reports of police, prosecution, courts, penal institutions, probation and parole, cost of crime, causes of crime, juvenile delinquency, criminal justice and the foreign born, and abuses in enforcement. The life of the commission expires on June 30.

Farm Real Estate Hits Level of Post-War Low

(Associated Press.)

Farm real estate values have slumped to new post-war lows.

A combination of low prices, drought, depression and an already congested market, the Agriculture Department said yesterday, was accompanied by a widespread tendency toward a writing-down of values last year.

Largest declines in real estate value took place in the South Central, Central, North Central and South Atlantic States. Small decrease were reported for the New England, Mountain and Pacific States.

turn load it into motor trucks for delivery to Philadelphia or New York, officials said. The bay is dotted with small fishing ports and other landing places, and there are three excellent north and south highways.

The Eastern Shore is a noted market garden section, hundreds of motor trucks carry produce to Northern markets, and it is difficult to distinguish suspicious vehicles from the legitimate trucks.

One of the seized trucks bore a sign, "wholesale fruit," and was said by officers to be the property of the Lustig-Bergerhoff Co., of Scranton, Pa.

The seizures were the largest on the Eastern Shore since the capture of 28 men and 1,400 cases of liquor two years ago near Ocean City.

Inc., which will succeed the Arthur G. Jones Woolen Mills Corporation, whose three large factory buildings and a number of smaller structures and all modern machinery and other equipment have been bought at a bankrupt sale by a group of local business men.

LIQUOR THIEF, FINGER BITTEN, SOUGHT FOR ATTACK ON ENVOY of the division of Latin-American Affairs.

The note that Secretary Stimson sent to Dr. Leiva read as follows:

"I was shocked to learn of the injuries which you suffered last night and I hasten to extend to you an expression of my regret. I assure you that the police will make every effort to apprehend the offenders.

"I trust that you will recover promptly and I want you to know that you have my deepest sympathy."

Pratt Silent on "Protection."

Maj. Henry G. Pratt, District chief of police, would make no comment yesterday on Secretary Stimson's announcement that there would be an investigation to determine whether diplomats here are given sufficient protection. Maj. Pratt would not even talk for "background" purposes.

In the Republic of El Salvador, whence comes Dr. Leiva, a policeman is stationed outside every foreign legation.

Maj. Pratt undoubtedly would be willing to adopt a similar system here; first he would have to be given additional policemen. Additional policemen mean an increased budget, and the local government, like the national Government, is now engaged in trying to keep its budget down and thus avoid a tax increase.

Anyway, if policemen were stationed outside legations and embassies to guard against rum robbers, the professional drys undoubtedly would let out a yell of protest.

Extent of Diplomatic Protection.

The Police Department here gives special protection to diplomats to this extent: Wherever embassies and legations are located, there the beat of the policeman is shortened. Thus, along "Embassy row," on Sixteenth street, a policeman is only required to patrol a distance of about three-eighths of a mile. The policeman is supposed to be within hailing distance of any embassy or a legation in this neighborhood at all times.

This is the explanation that Maj. Pratt will make when Secretary Stimson sends an emissary to talk to him.

Prohibition and embassy liquor have caused no end of trouble in Washington, but police yesterday could recall no other robbery such as that at the Salvadorean Legation.

Don Roberto Melendez, second secretary of the legation, revealed yesterday, however, that the robbery Wednesday morning was the second at his legation. The first, he said, occurred during Holy Week, when thieves carried off liquor, beer and even olive oil.

Legation Liquor Truck Held.

About three years ago a truck loaded with liquor destined for the Siamese Legation was stopped by a local motorcycle policeman and taken to the Third Precinct station. There the driver and jumper were placed under arrest and the truck impounded.

The legation protested to the State Department and in an hour or so District Attorney Leo A. Rover had ordered the captain of the precinct to release the truck. The driver and the jumper, however, were held, so that a problem immediately arose as to how the truck was to be moved to the Siamese Legation.

The problem was solved in the end by Prohibition Agent Quinn, who volunteered to drive the truck to the legation. He was accompanied by several policemen and reporters. Arriving at the legation, Agent Quinn, the policemen and the newspapermen helped unload the liquor and then went indoors to enjoy their reward.

Marie's Guard Faced Trial Board.

When Queen Marie of Roumania was a visitor in Washington, a policeman was assigned to guard the Roumanian Legation. While thus engaged, he accepted too many invitations to drink a toast to the queen, and as a result was haled before the Police Trial Board.

Former Senator Cole L. Blease, of South Carolina, was forever hammering away at the custom which gives diplomats immunity from local laws and permits them to bring liquor into the country. On several occasions, he accused the diplomats of bootlegging, and he proposed legislation to take their diplomatic immunity away from them.

He was told that American diplomats enjoy the same privileges abroad, and that the custom went back to the days when kings were accustomed to travel more than they do now, but nothing could swerve him from his plan to put an end to diplomatic immunity.

Physicians at Emergency Hospital said last night that Dr. Leiva probably would be able to leave in a few days. His version of the robbery and his encounter with the robbers follows:

"At exactly 2 o'clock I returned to the legation, which was unoccupied. I did not hear any noise or see anything to indicate the legation had been burglarized.

"When I opened the door a man who apparently had been posted as a lookout came down the stairs into the lower hallway with a gun in his right hand and a flashlight in his left. I had no weapon and had to fight with one hand, as the other was occupied in holding his gun hand, which I had grasped.

"He took one shot at me as I grappled with him. Then we rolled on the floor several times. I was struggling for the gun, when we fell to the floor and at that moment he struck at me with his flashlight. I bit his hand and succeeded in striking him back with the flashlight I had taken from him while he was calling to his companions in the rear of the building for help."

Knocks Assailant Unconscious.

The robber's accomplices, the diplomat said, did not heed his cry. Whereupon, he said, he proceeded to render his assailant unconscious.

"I took advantage then to run to the door and give the alarm," Dr. Leiva said. "The struggle lasted perhaps 10 or 15 minutes. I was a bit dizzy for only a second or two. The police arrived in a few minutes, but the man who struck me had revived and had joined his companions in escape before I returned to the legation with the police. I stayed there until the ambulance arrived."

Referring to the man who struck him, Dr. Leiva said:

"I know something about guns and saw it was short and of very large caliber. I did not lose my head, and I observed very clearly each detail, although I could not see my oponent's face clearly enough to distinguish his features. I could recognize his finger, however, because I bit it deeply."

"Nearly Bit Finger Off."

To another interviewer Dr. Leiva said, "I nearly bit his finger off."

One man has been taken into custody for questioning in connection with the legation robbery. He is Bryant McMahon, who lives on M street northeast near Twentieth street. Two other men arrested with him later were released.

NORTH AMERICAN'S SCOPE IS REVEALED

Activities of Company Here Cited by Brookhart in Commission Probe.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

The extent of the Nation-wide holdings of the North American Co., one of the most powerful public utilities holdings corporations, was painted in charts and tables and verbal testimony by commission experts yesterday at the opening session of the Federal Trade Commission's public inquiry into activities of the company.

The North American Co. owns 55 per cent of the stock of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and 2.5 per cent of the stock of the Capital Traction Co., Smith W. Brookhart, jr., commission economist, testified. Mr. Brookhart made no mention, however, of the Washington Rapid Transit Co., local bus company, which was purchased from Leon Arnold and now is held by Harley P. Wilson, director of the North American Co., and its representatives on the board of the Washington Railway & Electric Co.

So far as Washington utilities were concerned, the hearing yesterday developed no new facts, except details of the analysis which was made by Mr. Brookhart. The Potomac Electric Power Co., which is owned by the railway, and the railway itself in 1929 produced 449,794,685 kilowatt hours of electric power of a total of 488,604,763 hours produced in the District. Thus the production of the North American subsidiary was 92.06 per cent of the total power generated in the District for public use in that year.

Shows Character of Company.

The power produced by North American subsidiaries in the District, Maryland and Virginia, Mr. Brookhart said, was 6.64 per cent of the total power generated and sold throughout the country by the North American Co. through its subsidiaries.

Potomac Electric Power Co. lines carrying power into Maryland and Virginia crossed the District line at 29 points, voltages ranging from 13,200 down to 4,000; the Washington Railway & Electric Co. power lines crossed the District line at 7 points, with voltages ranging from 33,000 where connection was made with the W. B. & A. Railway at Seat Pleasant, Md., down to ordinary feeder line volume. The Capital Traction Co. crossed the line into Maryland at one point, supplying itself current for one of its car lines.

Showing the growing interstate character of the power business, Mr. Brookhart told the commission that power lines crossed State lines at 946 separate points throughout the country.

Earnings Are Cited.

Gross earnings of the direct and indirect subsidiaries of the North American Co. in 1930 amounted to $133,751,381 in 1930, as compared with $147,779,869 in 1929, but the 1930 figures did not include earnings of California companies, which were included in the 1929 figures. Judson C. Dickerman, accountant of the commission, presented earnings figures which showed that the parent company earned approximately $5.25 for each dollar invested in subsidiary companies.

W. B. Horne, another commission accountant, testified to the offices held in subsidiary concerns by officers of the North American Co. Sixty-eight were connected with two or more companies and seven with twenty or more, Mr. Horne said. Cleveland will be the subject of inquiry when the hearing is resumed this morning and financial aspects of the Washington concerns are not expected to be touched on at any length until next week.

KENTUCKY GOVERNOR BLAMED BY MINERS

Hightower said, advising him they "would not work under the conditions: that we wanted some freedom and could not get it."

"Col. Carrell replied there was plenty of work here if the men would work under the conditions," the statement said. "He told us 300 men were needed at Black Mountain mine, and 200 at Brookside." We told him we could not work under the conditions; that we could not make a living when we did work.

"We asked him about the aid, after Col. Carrell brought up the subject himself. He asked us 'how do you men expect to live? The Red Cross will absolutely give you no help.'"

"He said it was against the policy of the Red Cross to put out anything to a coal miner on a strike."

"We told him we were not out on strike; that we only quit for a living and until they had taken back the men who were fired on account of joining the miners' union. The colonel said he saw no way in the world to get any help unless we went to work and got it."

Hightower reviewed the history of the present outbreak of trouble here, coincident with which five men lost their lives in gun battles.

The first sign of trouble, he said, came with appearance of "yellow dog contracts, early this year, under which men sign away all of their rights and privileges."

His statement charged: Poor air in the mines, lack of State mine inspection, compulsory trading at company comissaries or discharge, and unwillingness of men to work under armed guards.

"There is no difference between working under the guns of the 'tin-hats' (National Guardsmen) and working under the guns of the thugs (mine company guards)," he said.

"Under conditons existing in the field today, a miner is lucky to get 25 tons a week which at 42 cents a ton average will net him $10.92 for a six-day week.

"There's no need to go into all the detail of company deductions for churches, schools, hospitals, mining supplies, rent, coal, insurance, smithing, check-weighman, to show any fair-minded man that that amount of money is not a living wage."

The only disturbance brought to attention of the sheriff's office today occurred at the Blackjoe Mine of the Harlan Fox Co., where a union miner, O. M. Hicks, was arrested on a charge of threatening an officer, Deputy W. B. McGlamery, who ejected him from company property for "agitating."

Hicks was alleged to have threatened McGlamery's life because of the incident.

U. S. Law Barring Alien Husbands Is Attacked

(Associated Press.)

Mrs. A. S. Baker, formerly an official in the woman's party, and Miss Elizabeth Eastman, both of Washington, called on President Hoover yesterday to urge him to recommend legislation allowing American women who had married foreigners to bring their husbands into this country if they wished.

Mrs. Baker, after the conference, said that if American men marrying foreign women were able to bring their wives into the country, American women marrying foreigners should be allowed the same privilege. She said that the law at present discriminated against women.

ARLINGTON-FAIRFAX RAILWAY TO REMAIN

Directors Vote to Continue Operations; Terminal Plans Considered.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Cla. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The board of directors of the Arlington-Fairfax Railway yesterday voted to continue the operation of the road. Despite all rumors to the contrary, Vice President Dr. J. H. Parmelee stated that the road will continue to operate, and that plans are now being considered for a suitable terminal.

While property owners adjacent to the present terminal are now making plans to vacate their property, in order that the Government building program may go forward, the company will demand at least a 60-day notice from date of being ordered to vacate, Mr. Parmelee stated.

Reports of the secretary-treasurer show that the business of the company is now on the increase.

Fifty students taking the special course in home hygiene and care of the sick, sponsored by the Arlington County Chapter, American Red Cross, were presented with their certificates at Lyon Park Community House last night. Considering the building of a sidewalk leading to the Washington-Lee High School along Clements avenue, from Ballston and Preston avenue to Robert E. Lee School, as most vital to the protection of the several hundred students, the board of directors of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce at its meeting last night took steps to make an appeal to the county board of supervisors.

It was pointed out that with an enrollment in excess of 1,300 students attending the Washington-Lee High School and about 100 attending the Robert E. Lee School, under the ages of 12, and both schools being on main highways which are heavily traveled, it is hazardous for children to be compelled to use the highways to attend school and return to their homes.

President Louis C. Carl last night stated that as soon as the matter can be put in proper shape by the committee, of which Monroe H. Stockett is chairman, it will be presented to the county board of supervisors with a request that they take action looking to the construction of these two sidewalks.

The Boy Scouts of Arlington County, under the direction of Executive Field Director William Leitch, will hold their annual competitive camping contest in the wooded section of Lyon Village Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Harnett and Mrs. Valentine were removed to the Fort Myer Hospital, where they received first aid treatment. Later they were taken to the Emergency Hospital in Washington. While both were suffering from deep cuts about the head, it was stated later that their condition was not serious.

Hopkins was taken to the Arlington County Jail by Officers Raymond Crack and Hugh Jones. He was later released on his personal bond to appear before Police Judge Harry R. Thomas today. No charge has been placed against Hopkins.

The Arlington County Monarch Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting today at 12 o'clock at Windsor Arms in Glebe road.

Commissioner Green states that all persons over 21 years of age must make a return either in person or by agent, on or before June 2. He further stated that he will visit other sections of the county, the dates to be announced later.

Tonight has been designated as "Fathers' Night," by the Parent-Teacher Association of the James Monroe School in Aurora Heights, with a special program to be given under the direction of Mrs. F. J. Donaldson, musical director in the county schools. Preceding the program officers will be elected.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting today at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club. All members are requested to attend as a special program has been arranged.

The Alexandria-Arlington and Fairfax Real Estate Board will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow night at the George Mason Hotel, in Alexandria. Plans to attend the annual national convention, which meets in Baltimore, Md., May 28, 29 and 30, will be completed at this meeting.

Mrs. Helen Hayes was elected president of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Thomas Nelson Page School at Ballston last night. Other officers are: Mrs. Randolph W. Montgomery, vice president; Miss Margaret Isenberg, secretary, and Fred Edwards, treasurer.

Man With $4 Is Killed Because of Tradition

Milwaukee, May 13 (A.P.).—There's a tradition at the old Thompson "flop house" on Florida street, police say, requiring vagabonds to divide their money with their pals.

In some manner, Frank Gagma, 35, obtained $4 today. He displayed it and defied the tradition. His battered body was found on a bunk. Police said he was beaten to death.

Five men were arrested for questioning.

MONTGOMERY PAYS STATE ROAD FUND

Commission Is Blamed by Shaw in Delay in Settling Overage Charge.

Montgomery County's deay in paying the overage charges of the State Roads Commission was caused by lax bookkeeping on the roads commission's part and not by the negligence of the Montgomery County Commissioners, Lacy Shaw, president of the board of county commissioners, said in a statement last night.

When the State Roads Commission presented its bill in February, 1931, it totaled $576,000, Mr. Shaw said, but Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners, protested this amount and pointed out to the auditor that a number of checks paid by the county had not ben accounted for in the roads commission statement.

The commission later reduced its bill to $275,542.72, Mr. Shaw said, and this has ben paid by the county. The county paid its entire bill to the roads commission Tuesday with a check for $276,623.42 and a credit of $232,000 which had ben allotted to the county for 1931 road construction, Shaw declared.

Ritchie Told of Matter.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, who is passing a vacation at Hot Springs, Va., last night said he had first heard of the matter when told by Howard Bruce, of the retiring State Roads Commission. The governor on Sunday called Maj. E. Brooke Lee, county Democratic leader of Montgomery County, who informed him that the bill was to be paid Tuesday. Maj. Lee had been appointed a memebr of the State Roads Commission several days before.

Gov. Ritchie said he was not playing bill collector for the State Roads Commission, but merely had called Maj. Lee to hear Montgomery County's side of the case.

"Naturally I was interested when Mr. Bruce told me a county owed the State something like $500,000, and I called Maj. Lee," Gov. Ritchie said. "He told me the board of county commissioners was going to pay on Tuesday and so I let it go at that and came on down here.

"I talked with Maj. Lee by telephone again today and he told me the details. I had not known anything about the matter when I appointed Maj. Lee to the roads commission recently, but I would have appointed him anyway."

Maj. Lee yesterday said that he had nothing to say about the matter, considering it a closed incident. He referred all inquiries to Lacy Shaw, president of the board of county commissioners.

Text of Shaw Statement.

Mr. Shaw's statement follows:

"Montgomery County has followed the road construction policy of turning the proceeds of county road bond issues over to the State Roads Commission to build additional State roads in the county. The county commissioners would advise the State Roads Commission of the amount of county money so available and request the construction of sections of roads, the estimated cost of which would come within the amount of the county bond issues. The State Roads Commission would advertise and award the contracts, the roads would be built under State specifications and inspection, with the State making the disbursements, billing the county on account of various accounts. As the work progressed, some of these contracts would not be closed out for two consecutive construction seasons, or practically a two-year period.

"The State Roads Commission kept all of the cost accounts for all of the roads so constructed, which represented in recent years a total expenditure of Montgomery County funds of more than $3,000,000. Of the $275,642.72 billed by the State Roads Commission to Montgomery County for the first time on February 27, 1931, as due for construction throughout the years of 1925 to 1928, the board of county commissioners of Montgomery County had only been advised of a probable charge in an estimated amount of $50,000 to complete a grade crossing elimination project finished by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad in 1930.

"Montgomery County consequently did not have the money on hand to meet the unexpected charges for 1925 through 1928. Construction amounted to $225,000 and the board of county commissioners was consequently forced to ask the State Roads Commission to apply most of the county 1931 road appropriation of $232,000 for this purpose.

"When the State Roads Commission for the first time in January, 1931, presented a bill for construction overage occurring in 1925 through 1928 construction, the roads commission presented the bill to the county in the approximate amount of $576,000 whereas a comparison between their account and the county records resulted in the State Roads Commission reducing its bill for the 1925-28 construction overage from more than $576,000 to $275,642.72.

"The county paid the State Roads Commission the entire bill on Tuesday with a cash payment of $276,623.42 and the credit allowed by the State comission of $232,000, or the amount of this year's construction allotment to Montgomery County."

Mr. Shaw said that crediting the 1931 allotment would not mean that the county would be without road building funds this year as a $600,000 bond issue had been authorized by the recent Legislature.

May Air Record Inspection.

He further stated that the county commissioners expect to ask an opportunity to completely inspect the records of the roads commission regarding the county construction, although the present amount agrees fairly well with the records of the clerk to the county commissioners.

The check for the amount due was presented to the roads commission at its organization meeting Tuesday in Baltimore by Maj. Lee, when he took his place as a member of the body. This was the first public announcement that there had been any controversy over the road building funds.

670 PLANES ON WAY TO AIR MANEUVERS

Squadrons Rush to Dayton for Repelling Attack on Chicago and Detroit.

Dayton, Ohio, May 13 (A.P.).—Bivouacked at scattered air fields over the country tonight were 670 planes of the Army Air Corps, ready for the final hops which will bring them here tomorrow and Friday for the annual Army air maneuvers.

Poor flying weather delayed some of the flights eastward today, but all of the planes are expected to reach their destination not later than Friday, when organization of the various units will be formulated for the defense of Chicago and Detroit early next week.

National Guard planes—99 in all—coming from 18 States were delayed by bad weather which hampered flying from Illinois to the east coast. While they were held up temporarily, they are expected here not later than noon tomorrow. It will be the first time since the World War that National Guard fliers have been called on to fly beside pilots of the "regulars."

Varied Planes on Wing.

Planes of every description, pursuit, attack, observation, bombers and training, were on the wing today. Some of the formations on the move were not so large, while others numbered 100 upward.

More than 100 ships left San Antonio, Tex., this morning en route to Dayton. They split into two groups. Transport and observation planes set out for Fort Sill, while a group of bombers were on their way to Shreveport, La., where they headed north.

Forty-eight attack planes got away from Galveston this morning; 29 bombers left Dallas, Tex.; from Omaha 65 pursuit planes headed east over Iowa and 10 observation planes left Kansas City.

Objects of Test.

Air officers hope to demonstrate that by accepting Wright Field and Dayton as the strategic center of the air force activities, the entire fighting units of the air corps could be mobilized here to defend any section of the country within twenty-four hours. Another object of the maneuvers is to demonstrate that large bodies of aircraft can be moved in one hop without serious delay.

BAPTISTS ARE URGED TO REDUCE EXPENSE

Convention Head Stresses Economy and Need of Debt-Paying Drive.

Birmingham, Ala., May 13 (A.P.)—A retrenchment program proposed by Dr. W. J. McGlothlin, of Greenville, S. C., president, to bring the Southern Baptist convention within its income, was before delegates attending the annual session of the convention tonight.

Dr. McGlothlin's proposal was presented in his annual address and the task of finding ways and means of putting into effect an economy program was placed in the hands of a special committee of 19, headed by Dr. J. E. Dillard, of Birmingham.

The special committee was memorialized by the convention executive committee to draw up a plan to be submitted tomorrow afternoon, providing for an every member canvass and a debt-paying campaign to relieve financial distress.

Activities Are Reviewed.

While the committee was laying groundwork for the retrenchment program, the convention tonight took stock of activities in foreign and home missions during the past year.

Dr. J. B. Lawrence, secretary of the home mission board, reported that work of the board was carried on last year with a budget of $434,557.85. The foreign mission board reported a total of 14,415 baptisms in 1930, Roumania leading with 5,000. The board's debt last January 1 was fixed at $945,866.

Following Dr. McGlothlin's address, he was reelected president along with Hight C. Moore, of Nashville, executive secretary, and J. Henry Burnett, of Macon, associate secretary. Four new vice presidents elected were: First, W. C. Boone, president of Oklahoma Baptist College, Shawnee, Okla.; second, George J. Burnett, of Memphis; third, Arch Cree, of Salisbury, N. C., and fourth, J. J. Milford, of Huntsville, Ala.

Auxiliary Elects Officers.

The Women's Missionary Union, auxiliary of the convention, adjourned today after reelecting its slate of executives, headed by Mrs. W. J. Cox, Memphis, president, and naming five new vice presidents: Mrs. R. T. Anderson, Alabama; Mrs. J. B. Boatright, South Carolina; Mrs. A. S. Downes, Virginia; Mrs. L. F. Maynard, Illinois, and Mrs. O. E. Carmen, New Mexico.

A goal of $4,282,634 for all but six of the States embraced by the convention in 1931 was reported by the executive committee.

One of the principal problems of the committee, the report said, has been emergency debts facing most of its agencies and institutions. A meeting last March 5, at which steps were taken to relieve the situation, was reported.

The committee announced that the education board had deeded all its property, including Ridgecrest, N. C.; Umatilla, Fla.; Nuyaka, Okla., to the executive board. All expenses of the committee, it was explained, not to exceed a budget of $30,000, is borne by the Sunday school board.

Dr. White Will Address Medical Arts Society

Dr. William White, superintendent of St. Elizabeths Hospital, will deliver the principal address tonight at the annual spring banquet of the Medical Arts Society at the Shoreham Hotel.

Dr. Carl Heinrich, of the National Museum, widely known for his researches, will be guest of honor. About 100 medical men will attend. Officers of the society include Dr. Joseph J. Greenlaw, president; Dr. Russell Fields, vice president, and Dr. Walter Stokes, secretary-treasurer.

Rat Hole Blamed For Ship's Sinking

Crew Deserts Vessel in Baltimore Channel, Losing Cat.

Baltimore, Md., May 13 (A.P.).—A rat was blamed today by Capt. Albert Justus, Cambridge, Md., skipper, for the sinking of his two-masted craft, the Speed, in Baltimore Harbor Channel late yesterday. The vessel went down with the loss of one life, that of the ship's cat.

Justus and his son, Samuel, 33, and crew, deserted the sinking vessel in a yawl and were landed by a passing ship.

The schooner started leaking during a 30-mile gale in Chesapeake Bay as she neared the mouth of the Patapsco River. The hold, laden with oyster shells, filled rapidly despite desperate pumping. Justus said he believed a rat had bored the hole which grew into the disastrous leak.

Stronger Air Navy Is Moffett's Plea

Admiral Says Planes Are Needed to Protect Surface Ships.

Baltimore, May 13 (A.P.).—An appeal for a Navy built up to the maximum treaty limits and provided with as many aircraft as possible was made tonight by Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the naval Bureau of Aeronautics.

In an address before the American Society of Mechanical Engineers he pictured the "next war" as being fought and decided principally in the air. The old principle of "control of the sea," he said, has come to mean control of the air above the seas as well.

"It is my belief that surface vessels that put themselves within range of large numbers of short-based aircraft, or large numbers of aircraft based on vessels, will assuredly be obliterated unless adequately protected by aircraft."

The husband also alleges that his wife insisted upon living at the home of her mother.

Escape Unintended, Prisoner Contends

Someone Shoved Him Into Car and Slammed Doors, He Informs Captors.

Baltimore, Md., May 13 (A.P.).—James Treacy, 38, escaped from the Maryland House of Correction today in a packing company's truck and was soon recaptured. But, he told officers, it was all a mistake.

"I didn't mean to escape," he explained. "The truck was in the prison yard, and somebody shoved me inside and slammed the doors. I beat on the sides and hollered, but no one came to let me out."

The truck was driven by George Kirby. As he arrived back at the plant, the doors opened and the prisoner leaped out. Kirby and another driver gave chase. Joined by a patrolman, they sprinted three blocks and found Treacy under a bed on the second floor of a dwelling.

WILL OF MARYLAND MAN IS CONTESTED

Hamell's Descendants File Caveat in Alleging Mental Incapacity.

Special to The Washington Post.

Oakland, Md., May 13.—A caveat was filed yesterday against the will of Gilmer S. Hamill, oldest member of Garrett County bar and reputed wealthiest resident, who died March 7. The caveat alleges undue influence and mental incapacity.

After Mr. Hamill's death a will dated January 7, 1930, was admitted to probate in which Mr. Hamill left the bulk of his estate to his son, Stuart F. Hamill, and his family. Gilmer S. Hamill left surviving him two sons, Stuart F. Hamill and H Byrne Hamill, and four grandchildren, being children of his deceased son, G. Semmes Hamill, jr. These grandchildren are James F. Hamill, an attorney of New York City; Gilmer S. Hamill, Illinois, now finishing his term at Princeton University; Edwin C. Hamill and Virginia E. Hamill. The caveat is filed by James F. Hamill, Gilmer S. Hamill 3d, and Paul L. Hitchins, guardian for Edwin C. Hamill and Virginia E. Hamill, who are infants.

Another will of Gilmer S. Hamill was produced by George A. Fraley, of the Garrett County National Bank, shortly after Mr. Hamill's death and filed in the Orphan's Court for safekeeping. This will was made some months before the will which was admitted to probate, and by its terms Miss Virginia E. Hamill is given outright the mansion house in Oakland, occupied by her late father, G. Semmes Hamill, jr., and the four grandchildren are given substantially a one-third of the entire estate.

Miners of the Osage mine, Osage Coal Co.; the Bunker mine of the Davis-Wilson Coal Co., and the Shriver Mine of the Bierrer Coal Co. struck today. Miners struck earlier this week at the Jere mine of the Scotts Run Fuel Corporation and at four mines of the Pursglove Coal Mining Co. Several hundred pickets were stationed along 3 miles of highway in the district. State police were on duty but there was no disorder.

ARMY POSTS.

The possible economy in abandoning Army posts which are of no strategic value seems to have been grossly overestimated. This proposal has been widely interpreted as putting into effect President Hoover's plea for disarmament made before the International Chamber of Commerce. As a matter of fact, it has no connection with any reduction of armaments, and is brought forward by the President as a means of strengthening the American Army through greater concentration. President Hoover hopes to achieve the double purpose of increasing efficiency and reducing needless expenditures.

Whether any actual saving can be effected, however, seems questionable. The average cost of maintaining a fort for one year is about $100,000. But the 20 to 30 posts which would be abandoned under this program are small. It may be assumed that the cost of their maintenance is only a fraction of the average. If the program can be carried out the Government might save $1,000,000. This amounts to about one-fifth of 1 per cent of the Army budget. No one would think of reducing expenditures in such a way as to reduce the efficiency of the extremely meager American Army.

President Hoover has appointed a committee to determine whether some of the unnecessary posts may be used for Federal prisons, veterans' hospitals, agricultural stations or educational institutions for the States in which they are located. If the posts are found suitable for any of these purposes they will certainly have to be reconditioned, and perhaps remodeled. That would entail considerable expense. It is extremely doubtful if any one of the posts could be fitted for nonmilitary purposes for less money than would be required to maintain that post for military use. Economies might be effected in the long run by turning these posts over to other departments, but there seems to be little chance of realizing any saving for the next budget.

One other problem that seems to have been given little attention is the housing of men who would be transferred from abandoned posts. The Army hasn't enough barracks that are fit to house its officers and men. What effect will the concentration of troops in the larger forts have on the housing problem? If additional barracks must be constructed the cost would doubtless be much larger than the savings from this proposed plan.

What is to become of the posts that are abandoned, if they are not suitable for some other governmental purpose? Would not the resulting loss be greater than the present maintenance costs? All these problems must be worked out in detail. When all the facts are brought together this project, if it is carried out, may turn out to be chiefly an efficiency move.

At present the principal significance of the proposal is that it will put Congress to the test. Members of Congress who are sincere in their determination to avoid higher taxes can not consistently demand that obsolete and useless military posts in their States be maintained. Even though it may not result in any substantial economy, this suggestion may be the crux of the fight in the forthcoming Congress to keep expenditures down to a minimum.

THE DISTRICT BUDGET.

Like many other political subdivisions, the District of Columbia faces a critical situation with regard to its finances. Either expenditures must be reduced or revenue increased. It will be difficult indeed to formulate a satsifactory budget from the current figures on anticipated revenue and needed expenditures.

Department heads have estimated their needs for the fiscal year 1933 at $57,097,000. This represents what each department would like to have. But no budget ever gratifies every whim of department heads. These estimates must be materially trimmed, as a matter of course. Nevertheless, it will be extremely difficult to pare them down to the estimated available revenue of $45,618,000. If the tax rate of $1.70 is retained the most rigid economy will be essential.

Maj. Donovan, auditor and budget officer, estimates that by July, 1932, nearly $1,700,000 of the District's working capital will have been used up for current expenses. Since the law requires the District to maintain a working capital fund of $3,000,000 in the Federal Treasury, this sum will have to be made up out of the revenue of the fiscal year 1933. During recent years the District has had a surplus to draw from. Now it has a deficit to make up. Only drastic retrenchment can result in a balanced budget.

It is particularly distressing to find that this rigid economy will bear most heavily upon the public improvements program. The setup outlined by Maj. Donovan cuts in half the appropriations for this purpose. The District is already behind in its building program for educational, library and other purposes. So drastic a cut will probably impose real hardships upon several District institutions.

In view of the fact that a congressional committee is making an investigation of the fiscal relationship between the District and the Government no increase in the Federal contribution can be anticipated at this time. Apparently the District will have to limp along on what revenue it can derive from the present tax law, plus the meager allowance from Uncle Sam. An increase in taxation at this time would be most unfortunate. Once the tax rate were raised Congress would forget its benevolent intentions to deal fairly with the District, and the fiscal relationship survey would come to naught. The wisest course seems to be for the District Commissioners to draft a budget based on the estimated revenue, apportioning the cuts where they will be felt the least, until the investigating committee makes its report and Congress decides to pay its just share of building and maintaining the National Capital.

FRANCE'S PRESIDENT.

Although Aristide Briand richly deserves the honor of being elected President of France, it is perhaps best that he should have been defeated by Paul Doumer. This veteran, president of the Senate, is ready to retire from active life, while Briand is in the midst of important affairs and can not well be spared. The French presidency will not overtax the strength of Doumer, and his stern nationalism will exert a steady influence over his countrymen. Briand as president might have been a little out of his element, at any rate, while his energy and versatility remain in such astonishing vigor.

No doubt Briand's generosity in dealing with other governments worked injury to his cause among the ultra Nationalists. The national assembly seems to have preferred a president who is not on intimate terms with statesmen of other nations. Nevertheless Briand's foreign policy is approved by the great majority, and it might be that a desire to see him complete his great plans of international concord induced many members to cast a vote that will tend to hold him in his place as foreign minister.

There is no reason to suppose that Briand will leave his post. He works well with a premier who is strongly nationalistic, such as Poincare or Tardieu. These premiers come and go, but France finds it advantageous to keep Briand at the outer door, dealing with other nations. At that post he can accomplish more for France than he could as president.

MACHINE AGE BENEFITS.

Historians of the future will speak of Ford and Lenin in the terms that the past has used for Buddha, Jesus Christ and Mohammed, according to Maurice Dekobra. In the preface of his new book on Hollywood this French writer holds that we shall soon have to choose between integral communism and standardization. "Ford, the symbolic trail-blazer of a new civilization, already shows the way," he says; explaining that another century will see dress, food, locomotion, and even thoughts and love standardized. Mates will be selected for talents and physique, as race horses are now bred. This automatic existence, M. Dekobra believes, will be the result of Fordism. Emotions and individuality will be things of the past when the machine age comes into its own.

These conclusions may be logical deductions from the premises M. Dekobra has formulated upon the Ford system, but they apply more fittingly to communism, which he calls the other pole of attraction in modern civilization. The chief aim of communism is to make the individual lose sight of himself in the good of the whole, stressing always that every thought and action must be in terms of the proletariat. There individuality, even of thought, becomes a crime. Uniformity is the conscious aim of this system.

Large scale production makes for uniformity within limits, yet it provides the masses with types, designs, colors and styles in far greater variety than was possible under former conditions. It offers the poor more varieties of materials at cheaper prices, for it was not they who profited by the beautiful hand-loomed goods of fine weave and design. It gives this class better furniture, food, transportation and housing than they could obtain under the ancient methods. Yet it has not robbed those who are able to pay of the creations of art. Your medicine comes in a standardized little bottle so cheap that you throw it away when empty, yet Venice makes more hand-blown glass than ever before, Bavaria still produces rare bottles, and the Lalique brothers have made a fortune in the delicate and beautiful flacons they create. There are more painters, sculptors, etchers and other original creators in the United States today than at any former time. These men produce works of art that have a wide demand because of their individuality. The fact that we can buy reproductions of every great painting in the five and ten cent store does not decrease the value of the original, nor curtail the demand for new masterpieces. There has always been standardization for the poor man, except that formerly he had fewer and inferior things. Special individual products are still in demand by those who can afford them.

COMMUNISTS HARRY SPAIN.

Spain is beginning to feel the travail that always attends the birth of a new government. For a brief spell an ominous tranquillity hung over the country. But a nation of 23,000,000 people can not be transformed overnight. Each faction has been solidifying its strength. The overthrow of the monarchy has inspired new hopes in the Communist factions, which have plans of their own for Spain. It would have been a miracle if rioting and bloodshed had been avoided.

The republican government has been put in an embarrassing position. It must protect the Catholic Church, even though it is well known that the sympathies of the church are with the monarchists. A bitter struggle has developed between the republicans and the radicals, who had previously joined forces to depose King Alfonso. No doubt this anomalous position accounts for the spectacular charges that are now made against the king. Attorney General Gallarza has started a movement to have Alfonso tried for inciting riots against the republican government, when as a matter of fact the riots were directed against the Catholic Church.

It would be strange, indeed, to find the king inciting riots against his most loyal supporters. Cardinal Segura y Saenz, Primate of Spain, has urged Spaniards to vote for monarchist candidates in the forthcoming election. Charges that the king is responsible for the present disorders, therefore, appear absurd. Obviously the republican administration is making those sensational accusations to stir up antimonarchial feeling in the hearts of its followers.

This anti-Catholic movement has all the characteristics of a Communist uprising. The monarchists are in sympathy with the church, but the Communists abhor all religion. Communism has been flourishing in Spain for many years. Barcelona is a hotbed for radicals of every stripe and the foremost Communist center outside of Russia. There seems to be no question that this element is chiefly responsible for the current outbreaks.

Last week a prominent official of the Communist International, which is the propaganda machine of the Soviet government in Russia, called upon Communists in Spain to take advantage of the unsettled conditions to strike a blow for the world revolution. In view of this public declaration it seems probable that Moscow has its own agitators in Madrid and other strategic centers directing this uprising. It is quite natural that the first blow should be struck at the Catholic Church. That move is doubtless calculated to foment trouble between the republicans and the monarchists, so that the Communists might more easily clamp a Soviet dictatorship upon Spain.

Rioting seems to be spreading throughout the country. Communists everywhere are taking advantage of their opportunity to carry the revolutionary movement to excess. Having looted the churches and convents, they now turn their attention to banks and commercial establishments. Liberties proclaimed by the republic have been turned into license to loot and destroy property. The new government is put to a severe test. All of its strength and resources will be necessary to save Spain from the ravages of communism.

In view of the success of the King of Siam it is to be hoped that a few American politicians will take steps to have the obstructions to their vision removed.

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., May 13.—A great many people will regret the announcement that another leading university no longer will require Latin and Greek for the degree of bachelor of arts. Such a change breaks with a very long tradition in education. While it does not mean that the study of the classics is to be abandoned, no doubt the numbers pursuing these courses will decrease.

Because Greek and Latin had long ago become stabilized they afforded a common bond of understanding among scholars. Proficiency in these studies required real mental discipline. Being the foundation of much of our own language and much of our thought, as well as many of our political and social institutions, a familiarity with the language and history of Greece and Rome has been considered a necessary preparation for exact scholarship. It is difficult to imagine genuine science even without these supports.

Modern languages and the sciences provide a medium for a different kind of mental discipline. They have the appeal of being immediately practical. But, broad scholarship, when it seeks for the source of things, for the idea of liberty and law, for many of the spiritual impulses of life, must still turn to the classics. CALVIN COOLIDGE.

FATE OF THE UNIVERSE

From the Indianapolis News.

Sir James Hopewell Jeans thinks that he has discovered that the universe is going to pieces, the victim of its own expanding power. The final catastrophe will be an explosion—and what a one it will be! Indeed, we seem to be exploding now, since we are "expanding with the explosive force." The universe, it seems, is doubling its size every 14,000,000,000 years, which can hardly be said to be a startlingly rapid rate. The sun is destined to an enormously long life. Though of that life it has lost one-third, it will continue to endure the monotony of rising and setting for 150,000 billion years. Our earth is believed to have attained the venerable age of 30,000,000,000 years.

If these figures may be taken as even approximating accuracy, the sun will survive the explosion, and consequent death of the universe, that is unless the extremes of longevity be allotted it—150,000 billion years, in which case its death will be contemporary with that of the sun. By the "short-time scale," the universe will last from 10 to 100 billion years, the sun surviving it. But by the "long-time" scale, which Prof. Jeans prefers, 10,000 to 150,000 billion years, the sun at best will perish with the universe, though it may long survive it. The sun has 150,000 billion years to live, while the universe may have only, even by the long-time scale, an expectancy of 10,000 billion years.

It would be a wonderful experience—though, of course, impossible—to wake up some morning and find the universe gone, and the sun still at work. A queer cosmos it would be to those of us inhabiting this part of it. It would be something like a great building of which only the windows were left standing after all the rest of it had been destroyed. To be told that the universe may live anywhere from 10 billion to 150,000 billion years is not very satisfactory. Here is a margin of 140,000 billion years in any one of which the universe may close down—or up, since it is to explode.

Senator La Follette is a generous platform maker. He outlines a nine-point one for Progressives, and point I contains ten general subjects.

It's an old Spanish custom, attacking churches after Liberal victories, that has spread at times to some Latin-American countries.

Rather rubbing it in for the French General Assembly to go over to Versailles and elect a president right under Alfonso's window.

Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow you diet. Oscar of the Waldorf is restricted to spinach.

Senator Hiram Johnson is a week late in protesting that the international commerce visitors should have been told we were not going to cancel war debts. They heard hardly anything else but—except that the tariff would be maintained.

Are the evaluators of captured rum chosen from the ranks of the fiction writers, or do they degenerate thereinto, thereupon?

It takes considerable impudence, to use a polite term, for Senator Brookhart to be making political pronouncements as though he were "inside" the Republican organization.

The Prince of Wales proposes to "pool" his recently acquired knowledge of South American trade with British exporters. Evidently there are no antitrust laws over there.

It is something to have nineteen months of the longest slump on record behind us.

Chairman Shouse readily minimized the prohibition issue in his Texas speech, where he was under the watchful eye of the Sheppard of the dry flock.

Anyhow, it would have been a great disappointment for Aristide Briand if, as President of France, he had missed the international row at Geneva.

Peru hasn't seen a revolution for so many weeks that Lima just had to have a little diversion in the nature of strike riots. P. H.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

JURY SERVICE.

Some there are may fishing go, and some may sail the sea,
But the narrow space of the jury room is the great wide world for me.
Some may follow the golf course 'round
when the skies are wondrous clear,
But I must gaze on the souls forlorn which the law has gathered here.
Some may walk where the grass is sweet and the woods with music chime,
But I must trudge through the fetid halls of sin and filth and crime.

Now the spring is here and the flowers bloom and the song birds sweetly sing,
And the joy of life is in the throat of every living thing.
But I've taken an oath that I'll truly judge my fellowman's right and wrong,
So I shut my eyes to the budding trees and I close my ears to song.
And all through the day, it seems to me, this pitiful court is filled
With the sordid tales of the troubled souls who have stolen or forged or killed.

Now here I sit as the hours drag by,
held fast in the jury room,
The awful peer of my fellowman with the power to speak his doom.
And all that I see are faces pale and troubled and hard and sad,
And the drab parade of the women folk whose men have been labeled bad.
Oh, some may lie on a river bank where glorious dreams are built,
But I must sit in a judgment court to ponder my fellow's guilt.

Why Spend Money for Lifeboats if You Can Build a Ship That Won't Sink?

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

YOUTH pictures war as a great adventure. Idealists think of it as a crime that modern wisdom and decency never again will permit.

But fathers and mothers see it as an ever-present threat to maim or kill the sons they have nurtured and trained for nobler things.

It is to these that reason must appeal if war is to be averted.

How, then, can the parents of America prevent the slaughter of their sons?

By their united demand for a defensive armament so great that no nation or combination of nations will dare attack their country.

It is not enough to win a war once begun. Victory does not mend the cripples or bring back the dead. War must be prevented.

America is rich beyond computation. She can afford protection. And in any case the cost of prevention is but a fraction of the cost of war.

Well-meaning pacifists will argue that preparedness never has prevented war and never will.

Their argument is sound if applied to all the nations of the world, but it is not true of America.

Nations, like men, are more aggressive when armed.

As the man who carries a pistol consciously or subconsciously watches for opportunities to use it and stands his ground where he might retreat if he had no weapon, so the nation that has built up a great military machine is eager to see it in action.

What man can build a machine and without impatience postpone the trial of it?

Yet what is true of emperors and even of governments dominated by military cliques is not true of democracies.

In America the men who make a profession of warfare and live in readiness to justify their training have no power to declare war.

Congress alone has that power, and armament does not tempt congressmen to make war any more than a policeman's weapons tempt the private citizen to pick a quarrel with his neighbor.

America can be trusted with armament. Her people want peace. An occasional wrong-minded statesman may use military force to bully a small nation, but he would do the same if he had but one battleship to use.

The nation will not make war, except in self-defense; and it need not make war at all if its defenses are strong enough to prevent attack.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

In combating the Democratic anti-tariff propaganda in the corn belt, the Republicans are doing well to remind the farmers of a little political history. The contrast between the present law, carrying the highest agricultural duties on record while admitting free about everything the farmer needs in his business, and those two notorious measures passed by the Democrats, the Wilson and Underwood acts, is most striking. The Underwood act put virtually all important farm products on the free list. So serious was the effect on the industry that when the Republicans returned to power in 1921 they found it necessary to pass an emergency tariff for the benefit of the farmers. Impartial historians have remarked that it helped to save large numbers of farmers from ruin.

Depression Psychology.
New York Times.

There was unquestionably a great and foolish excess of optimism in this country two years ago, just as there is now an excess of pessimism. But the new psychology has also a lot to say about unreasoning prejudices and violent dislikes. The subconscious rises up to apportion blame unfairly and to charge responsibility where it does not altogether belong. An ordinary "complex" is one that looks for the villain of the piece where perhaps there is none. In that tendency of mass psychology lies the misfortune of President Hoover at the present time, along with the danger to the Republican party. Since they took all the credit for good times, they can not wholly escape the discredit of bad times.

Those Eastern Incomes.
Atlanta Constitution.

The complaint of Congressman Beck and other Republicans in the East, like Grundy and Moses, that the less populous States of the South and West have too much power in the Senate, and therefore, overlegislation for the Union, is as old as the negotiations in the convention of 1787 which framed the Constitution.

It was negatived and settled by that convention by giving the States equality in the Senate and representation in the House in proportion to population. That was accepted by the people of the States as just when they ratified the Constitution. It was just then and continues to be just, since the popular House holds "the purse and the sword" as the body that initiates and can dictate taxation and appropriations.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

A Tribute to the Memory of the Late E. J. Ayers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your edition of last Sunday mentioned the action of the Society of Federal Translators in honoring the memory of Ezekiel J. Ayers, late chief clerk and administrative assistant of the Department of State, for his efforts in behalf of their higher classification. If all who have been aided in the struggle of life by this wonderful man were to voice their feelings your columns would not suffice; but I, who knew him well, crave some space to say something of public interest about him.

Entering the civil service as a messenger in the Patent Office 35 years ago at $40 a month, he became, successively, chief clerk of three departments: the Interior, Commerce, and State. Such promotion is indeed rare, but it came to him through sheer merit and character. But as he climbed up he did not, as so many are prone to do, forget the poorer associate in the lower ranks. His chief care was to secure generous treatment for the charwomen, laborers and messengers, "the little fellows," as he called them, declaring that the big ones could help themselves better. It is known that he carried even to the floor of the Senate his fight in behalf of better pay for a laborer in the Interior Department.

As an expert in the purchase of Government supplies, Mr. Ayers was unsurpassed and that led him to join Secretary Lane in 1914 in organizing the "Home Club," to enable clerks to lower the cost of living through co-operative buying. He was never so happy as when effecting direct delivery of farm supplies to the tables of the employes under him, or in seeing some humble worker promoted.

The grave that closed over the earthly form of this most unusual man has not extinguished the love of the many who owe him a debt of gratitude. Friend of the friendless, help of the helpless, he still lives in their memory. His passing was a grievous loss to them, as well as to the civil service of which he was an ornament and a tower of strength, but most of all, to those who knew him best.

ONE WHOM HE HELPED.

Illinois Progressive Not Impressed by Democratic Appeal for William G. McAdoo.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I'm a Western Progressive from the State of Illinois. This morning I read in The Post a letter from Mr. Armstrong, of Fort Worth, Tex., in which he burns incense at the deserted political shrine of William Gibbs McAdoo and, incidentally, hurls a few brickbats at Al Smith and Raskob. I'm not at all concerned with the billingsgate that is being hurled hither and thither by the adherents of McAdoo and Smith. Democrats would not be happy unless they were either abusing each other or hurling vituperation at their political opponents. Tearing down and not building is the special mission of the Democratic party.

I should like to be furnished a bill of particulars as to McAdoo's claim upon the Progressives of the West. As an Illinois Progressive I see no prospect of a political union between the Democrats of the South and the Progressives of the West. Southern Democrats eloquently rave about the political sins of Tammany, but I can't remember one instance when Southern Democrats refused to profit by the votes of Tammany. How many Speakers of the House of Representatives could the Democrats have elected without the aid of Tammany?

Let me make a suggestion to Mr. Armstrong. It is this: I see no hope of a political union between the Progressives and the South until and unless the Southern States shall have wiped out the stain and infamy of child labor. The sweat and blood of little children must not be coined into dollars for the profit of Southern mill owners. When this is done the South may ask for fusion with the Progressives of the West—but not till then. DAN DIXON.

Why Should Not Parcel Post Packages Be Left at Nearest Substation.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Added to parking, transit, and other traffic difficulties, local residents are further and unreasonably burdened by the practice of the Washington City Postoffice in imposing on parcel post addressees its harsh regulation requiring a call at the main office, North Capitol street and Massachusetts avenue, for parcel post mail which could not be delivered the first time out, notwithstanding the maintenance of convenient substations throughout the city. It is common knowledge that the Washington City Postoffice is in a congested traffic zone with the heavy Union Station traffic flowing in a steady stream in addition to its own considerable vehicular traffic—not to mention the traffic contributed by the nearby Government Printing Office. The main office, likewise, has no parking facilities, and the street-car access from many sections of the city is poor and circuitous. Nevertheless, the local Postoffice authorities, disregarding the reasonable convenience of local residents, exacts the tribute of extra car fare or gasoline usage, loss of time, and risk of life or limb in threading congested traffic, to retrieve a parcel entrusted to the United States mails for safe carriage through to destination.

The writer lives within two blocks of the U-Street Branch Postoffice, a "carrier station" which in years past held undelivered parcels for nearby addressees, but now the City Postmaster notifies the addressee to call at the North Capitol street entrance of the main office to get such parcel post mail. Why not use the available substations for the reasonable convenience of the citizenry? "DRIVER."

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Despite Gray Skies Horse Show Attracts

Stimson Attends Among Notables Crowding the Boxes.

DESPITE the gray skies and prevailing showers, lovers of good horses and those interested in the social aspect of the meet gathered at Bradley Farms yesterday afternoon for the opening of the National Capital Horse Show, which got under way promptly at 1 o'clock. Saturday's show, beginning in the morning, will wind up the four-day program.

Looking slightly bedraggled and a little cold, a fair crowd turned out. The boxes were well filled with congenial groups, although the grand stand was only partly occupied. Better luck today!

Rain, however, had little effect on the charm of the rolling hills, where the show ring and the picturesque Bradley farmhouse and adjoining buildings are situated.

Tea, sandwiches and other refreshments were served under a marquee, where groups of tables were arranged and, although the setting looked rather cold and uninviting, occasional groups wandered over between classes for refreshments. Cigarettes and riding equipment were on sale at marquees near the stand.

The Cabinet had as its sole representative the Secretary of State, Mr. Henry L. Stimson, who arrived late in the afternoon, accompanied by his aid, Capt. Eugene Regnier. The vice presidential box remained unoccupied, Mr. Curtis, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Gann, having left town yesterday for Louisville to witness the famous Kentucky Derby.

Others noted in the assemblage were Mrs. Owen J. Roberts, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Roberts; the Charge d'Affaires of the Egyptian Legation and Mme. Ismail Bey; Maj. Gen. Blanton Winship, who occupied a box with Mrs. Francis T. A. Junkin and several others; Maj. Raymond McQuillin and his sister, Miss Ada McQuillin; Mrs. John Marshall, Mrs. James Ellwood Jones, and her young daughter, Miss Nancy Jones, who were in a box with Mrs. Joseph E. Davies and her daughter, Miss Rabel Davies; Mr and Mrs. Barrington Moore, Miss Katherine Lowman, in a box with Miss Helen Lee Eames Dougherty and several beaux, and Mrs. Frank Hogan.

Eagerly watching the show was Mrs. Medill McCormick, whose daughter, Miss Katrina McCormick, rode in one of the classes. Making the rounds of the boxes, chatting enthusiastically with groups of friends was Gen. Billy Mitchell, accompanied by Mrs. Mitchell.

Also present were Mrs. Gibson Bahnestock, Mrs. Alexandria Legare, in a box with her son and daughter; Mr. Wolcott Waggaman, Mrs. George Pulver and Mrs. Howard Tucker; Mr. Bowie Clarke with Mrs Walter Tuckerman and Mrs. Wilmer Biddle; Miss Frances Virginia Waggaman with a group of young people; Mrs. Burdette Wright, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Hill and their young daughter; Mrs. Henri de Sibour, Miss Franceaca McKenney and Mrs. Lawrence Baker.

The League of Republican Women is arranging a bridge and tea to be given at the home of Mrs. John Mock on Newark street tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock.

Among those accepting invitations are Mrs. Virginia White Speel, Mrs. Frank Mondell, Miss Edna Patton, Miss Clara McQuown, Mrs. Edward A. Keys, Mrs. Sarah Frizell and Mrs. Jesse E. Moffat, of New York; Mrs. Lulu T. Andrews, of Omaha; Mrs. P. de M. Barbey, of Boston; Mrs. Phillips Gardiner Orme, Miss Irene Juno, Mrs. Henry D. Frye, Mrs. Haines, Mrs. Paul M. Linebarger and Mrs. R. Cleveland Pierce.

Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart, historian of the bicentennial, will address the next meeting of the State historic committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution which will be held on Thursday morning, May 21, in the Willard room of the Willard Hotel.

Miss Kathrina L. Harvey, chairman of the committee, has arranged for Prof. Hart to speak at 11 o'clock on "George Washington and the Original D. A. R." Mrs. Lowell F. Hobart, president general; Mrs. David D. Caldwell, vice president general; Miss Helen Harman, State regent, and other national and State officers will attend this meeting, to which all members of the D. A. R. are invited.

Mrs. Curtis to Entertain Baltimore Visitors.

Mrs. James F. Curtis will leave Saturday for her country home in Roslyn, Long Island, and next week will have as her guests Mrs. Richard Jackson and Mrs. William Keyser, of Baltimore, who will attend the Roslyn Garden Club show. Mrs. Curtis will entertain at dinner in honor of Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Keyser next Wednesday evening.

The University of Michigan Club of Washington will hold its final smoker of the year today at the Army, Navy and Marine Corps Country Club. Outdoor sports will be held all day. Dinner will be served at 7:30 o'clock and the Scoot Turner Trophy will be awarded the golf champion.

Junior League To Dominate Davis Tennis

Girls at Booths to Serve Refreshments at Cup Matches.

Attractive "Junior Leaguers" in smart uniforms at the Chevy Chase Club will alternate at the booths to sell refreshments in conection with the three-day Davis Cup matches there, beginning May 28.

Included in this group, which has as its chairman Miss Laura Tuckerman, are Miss Dorothy Hall, Miss Betty Kennedy, Miss Anne Larner, Miss Caroline Willcox, Mrs. Jasper DuBose, Miss Elizabeth Dunlop, Miss Katherine Martin, Miss Rosa Hayes, Miss Marjorie Talman, Miss Elizabeth Brawner, Mrs. Elmore Cropley, Mrs. Heywood Newbold, Miss Beatrice Patton.

Also Miss Neville Gherardi, Miss Anne Johnstone, Miss Rebecca Davidson, Mrs. Marshall O. Exnicios, Miss Marcia Chandler, Miss Virginia Glazebrook, Miss Mary Louise Johnson, Miss Louise Hoehling, Miss Barendina Gardener and Mrs. Frank Haynes.

Proceeds from the sale will go to the Junior League.

In the last few years the Washington League, which includes on its roster most of the town's smart girls and matrons, has given its members wide scope for their talents.

This season, instead of giving its usual cabaret ball, the league took over the Willard Hotel for a day, sharing liberally in the proceeds, and Junior League girls tried their hands successfully at being waitresses, hotel clerks, bell hops, cabaret artists—for the celebration wound up with a cabaret supper dance—and the girls learned a lot about hotel management.

Later the group broke into automobile salesmanship, collecting "gate receipts" at the winter show of a manufacturer of motor cars as well as a percentage on all sales made. Proceeds from the various benefits conducted by the league go to carry on its charitable work and to maintain its regular assistance to the Children's Hospital.

All through the winter the league conducted an employment bureau, finding jobs for scores of men and women out of work. And from time to time at its headquarters in the Anchorage there have been such pleasant and profitable events as art exhibitions, the work displayed being from the hands of gifted members, and the exhibition of old books—first editions and other rare volumes—old prints, &c., which roused much comment.

Mrs. Francis T A Junkin will not observe her day at home this afternoon on account of the exercises attending the laying of a corner stone at the Washington Cathedral, but will receive on the following Thursdays during the spring.

Mrs. Junkin has as her guests Col. and Mrs. Marion S. Battle, of Roanoke, Va.; Miss Rosalie Hollyday, of Baltimore, and Gen. Blanton Winship. Col. and Mrs. Battle arrived yesterday and will remain for a week, and Friday Capt. and Mrs. Vincent M. Miles, of Fort Smith, Ark., will arrive for a week's visit.

Senora De Aldag Will Address Club.

Senora Consuelo de Aldag will address the Women's City Club at its forum luncheon on Saturday at 1 o'clock. Senora de Aldag, who is a prominent leader of women's affairs in Mexico, will speak on "My Mexico." She is touring the United States, lecturing and promoting a better understanning between the United States and Mexico, on which, according to her, hinges the whole problem of peace on the American continent, as well as the possibility of world leadership by America.

Miss Heinman Is Engaged to New Yorker

She Is Colleague of Miss Morrow, Reported as Betrothed.

Following closely the rumors of the engagement of Miss Elizabeth Morrow, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, to the Rev. Clyde H. Roddy, of the First Presbyterian Church of North Arlington, N. J., comes the announcement of the engagement of Miss Florence Eugenia Heinman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Heinman, to Mr. Carl J. Heyser, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Heyser, of Brooklyn and Port Jefferson, N. Y.

Miss Heinman and Miss Morrow have for more than a year been closely associated in the nursery school established by Miss Morrow in Englewood, N. J.

Miss Heinman was graduated from the Packer Collegiate Institute, Brooklyn, and from the Child Educational Foundation of New York. She is at present assistant to Miss Morrow, in the school which is running most successfully in the Vanderbeck residence, which Miss Morrow leased last March for her enterprise. The pupils enrolled are from the age of 18 months to 5½ years, and Miss Morrow feels that even the youngest of them have receptive minds and says there is a "lot to teach them." She has observed methods used in the schools of France, and in Mexico, where she spent much time while her father was United States Ambassador there, and also in this country and is supplementing them with her own ideas.

Miss Morrow's engagement to the Rev. Mr. Roddy was first rumored last Friday, and though neither of them affirmed or denied the story, it would not be a great surprise to those who know them if the engagement was officially announced in the near future. Senator and Mrs. Morrow have only recently returned from a short trip to Europe, and the former is at present passing a few days in Washington.

The Tennessee State Society will entertain at a dance in the Willard room suite of the Willard Saturday evening.

U. S. Minister Plays Host to Swedish King

Legation in Stockholm Is Scene of Cosmopolitan Group at Dinner.

The American Minister to Sweden and Mrs. John Motley Morehead recently entertained at an interesting dinner at the legation in Stockholm in honor of His Majesty, the King of Sweden.

Invited to meet the king were Count and Countess Von Stedingk, Maj. Hain, aid de camp to his majesty; the Minister of Foreign Affairs and Baroness Ramel, Mr. Iken and Countess Trolle, Count and Countess Adam Lewenhaupt, Count Eugene von Rosen, Mme. Bostrom, wife of the Swedish Minister to the United States, who has been in her home in Sweden for several months; the Netherlands Minister, Baron Sweerts de Landas Wuborgh; Mrs. Erland Bostrom, the Italian Minister and Mme. Elly Colonna, Mrs. Elgood Lufkins, Mme. de Flach, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Crocker.

The company was a most cosmopolitan gathering, and yet all met on the common ground of Sweden, or rather the United States, as the legation is American territory, and all found a mutual liking in the genial and distinguished guest of honor.

Capt. and Mrs. Ralph E. Pope, who are living at Wardman Park Hotel, entertained at dinner there last evening, their guests numbering ten.

THE Federal radio police have been instructed to clean up the outlaw radio stations along the Atlantic coast and the Gulf of Mexico, which are reported to be aiding rum-runners and other smugglers to dodge Coast Guardsmen and revenue agents in entering this country.

William E. Downey, acting director of the radio division of the Department of Commerce, this week estimated that there are scores of such unlicensed radio stations in operation, using both voice and code, and usually utilizing high frequencies.

Although occasionally a licensed station is found to be aiding rum-runners, Mr. Downey said, practically all of the offenses are done by the outlaw stations. Whenever evidence is uncovered of unlicensed operation of radio stations, it is turned over to the Department of Justice for seizure and prosecution.

The radio police division has been operating under the handicap of insufficient personnel, however, although Congress has permitted it to expand gradually. Only about 50 inspectors are engaged in keeping constant check on the operations of all United States broadcasting stations, as well as commercial, Government and ship radio stations.

CEREMONIES in connection with the unveiling of a bust of George Washington in the Capitol building at Richmond, Va., will be broadcast today (WRC, 11:30 a. m.).

The principal speaker will be Albert Bushnell Hart, of Massachusetts, a member of the United States Commission for celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of Washington. Dr. Hart will be presented by John Garland Pollard, Governor of Virginia.

Although the satisfactory reception of a radio program from Bangkok, Siam, by King Projadhipok, listening in White Plains, N. Y., has been reported, the NBC will attempt to rebroadcast another. United States listeners may be able to hear the royal program from the other side of the world by tuning in WJZ between 12 and 12:15 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The clear reception of the Bangkok station on Sunday was unusual, inasmuch as the signals are often badly garbled in their long journey across the Pacific.

Dwight S. Mathis, former director of dramatics at Station WBT, Charlotte, N. C., will join the personnel of WJSV as program director on May 15.

WITH the addition of KGB, San Diego, Calif., the GBS now has a total of 83 affiliated stations. Beginning May 23, WWVA, Wheeling, W. Va., will become permanently a part of this network.

Call letters WXG have been granted by the Federal Radio Commission to the Shortwave and Television Corporation of Boston for use on the new ultra-short or quasi-optical wave lengths of from 5 to 10 meters. Equipment for the new station is now in the process of construction and upon completion will be used to explore this virgin field.

Appearing for the first time in many months, Cornelia Otis Skinner will be guest artist with Rudy Vallee's orchestra tonight (WRC, 7 p. m.), doing a series of character sketches.

The first broadcast in a new dramatic series from station WJSV, sponsored by the grand lodge, Knights of Pythias, Domain of the District, will be heard tonight. "Damon and Pythias" has been arranged for broadcasting under the direction of Robert Downing.

HOW John Howard Payne wrote "Home Sweet Home" will be related, with musical background, in The Story of a Song tonight (WJZ network, 9 p. m.).

Radio Guild tomorrow (WRC, 3:15 p. m.) will present Blythe Daly's "The Girl With the Green Eyes."

Replacing one or two tubes in the radio set often leads to disappointment. This is the warning of radio and tube manufacturers. The set owner naturally expects a marked improvement in performance as the result of inserting one or two new tubes in the sockets, only to have little or no improvement if all the tubes have been in use for some time past. However, the radio set can function no better than its weakest tube.

AL AND PETE, NBC harmony team, are up on the latest snappy come-backs, such as this: "Al: Where are you going Pete?"

"Pete: Going broke, want to come along?"

The drive being conducted by the Social Service League of Montgomery County for an additional $8,000 for welfare work in that county, needed because of the drought and widespread unemployment, will be begun this afternoon by Miss Willie Greene Day (WMAL, 4 p. m.).

Dare Interprets the Mode

Printed crepe in gray, black and white is brilliantly trimmed with red crepe de chine collars, cuffs and vestee in this extremely smart frock. (Courtesy of David, Paris.)

New York, May 13.

THE most sudden and important gleam of fashion's limelight has fallen on gloves—raising that once plain, discreet and humble accessory to undreamed of heights of fame. The glove, after disappearing as an accessory of importance for many years, came quietly back one season, saying in a quiet but firm voice that here it was and here it intended to say. For a long time its chief manifestation was a slowly increasing length. But now there is no end to its infinite variety. Not only are they an important accessory, but they have accessories of their own. Chief among these is a glove bracelet of braided leather, worn loosely, singly or in pairs over the loose wrists of your gloves. These bracelets, of course, you buy separately—and you can get stunning effects by owning several pairs which you change from one costume to another. You might wear a pair of black braided bracelets over your long white gloves—and if you happen to have long yellow gloves to go with a particular costume, the black bracelets make a grand color contrast for them.

I saw a pair of white afternoon gloves with a godet-like incrustation of black lace at the top. Of course, eyelet embroidered, punch work, afternoon gloves in every color, are still very smart.

Pleatings, tuckings, raised tubular effects, appear on gloves for both afternoon and evening. Evening gloves can be much more fantastic—for instance, lace and tulle, and even muslin and organdie evening gloves are seen at smart rendezvous.

And the very elegant lady sitting in the box next to mine at the opera was wearing gloves made of very loosely woven silk mesh—with spaces of about half an inch between each stitch—and really, my dear, her diamond rings and deep red nails were fascinating, underneath these gloves—so called!

* * * *

Doesn't every woman in the world have a hundred uses for a dress that is restrained enough in line to be worn anywhere with a gay sense of rightness? This dress from David that I illustrate today is just such a frock! It is made of crepe de chine, printed in small gray, black and white figures—which is far removed from any hint of drabness by the flaming red crepe de chine collar, cuffs and interesting vestee. And the subtle touch that accents the whole is the large jet and pearl buttons! Clever, isn't it?

There has never been a more charming frame for the pretty face than a large hat. The one I show you today is especially becoming, with its wide, floppy brim. It is of stiffened black peau d'ange, with hand-fagotted openwork.

* * * *

A few days ago I saw the most delightful coat! It was one of those things that just stood out from the crowd—worn as it was by a charming lady who wore with it a contrasting scarf and beret! The more I thought of it, the more thrilled I was! For it was just perfect for this weather, 'n' tailored enough to wear on any kind of motoring trip—and of a cut and material that would be worn much this fall. So the only thing to do about it was to write all about it in this week's leaflet, which you may have by sending your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post. Honestly now, isn't such a three function coat an economical marvel?

Only in the Sunday Washington Post, in the Capital, can you read Dare's weekly fashion letter every Sunday. You should look for it.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

"Please tell me what is heliophila. It is new to me."

MRS. NANCY C. L.

A heliophila is a new species of blue-flowered annual. The plant comes to us from Africa. It was listed for the first time in the 1930 catalogues. It is especially desirable, for you know blue flowers are rather scarce.

"Is March 16 too early to transplant roses? Also, when shall I prune a maple tree?" MRS. JOSEPH B.

It is not too early to transplant a rose about the middle of March. You can prune a maple tree at almost any time. I imagine you merely want to cut away the terminal shoots in order to increase the bushiness of the tree.

"Please tell me something of the culture of cannas. Are they suitable for planting in a circular bed in the center of my lawn? Will roots planted this spring bloom this summer? In planting a circular bed, must I set the roots in a ring so they touch, or space them like geraniums?" L. T. A.

Cannas require a sunny location and respond to a rich, well-manured soil. If the bed was manured the previous fall, no further application will be necessary, but a good dressing of sheep manure and bonemeal will work wonders, if well mixed with the soil. You may plant the roots at this time. Cannas may also be grown from seed. Plant dwarf cannas 12 inches apart and the taller varieties 15 to 18 inches apart. The canna will withstand more dry weather than any other plant, but it grows to perfection if water is supplied during long droughts. Canna borders or beds are as a rule better planted on the side than in the center of a grass plot.

"Please tell me when to prune my honeysuckle. I am rather new at gardening and do not want to harm my vine." MRS. THOMAS T. H.

It is almost impossible to harm a honeysuckle vine. As a rule, it should be pruned every month. Most gardeners go over their honeysuckle vines every time they cut their grass. By constantly removing the terminal ends of the shoots you keep the plant within bounds and at the same time prevent it from becoming a tangled mass.

"Please tell me when to remove my spring-flowering bulbs, such as tulips and hyacinths. The leaves are yellow to the ground."

MABELLE H. F. B.

They can be removed at this time.

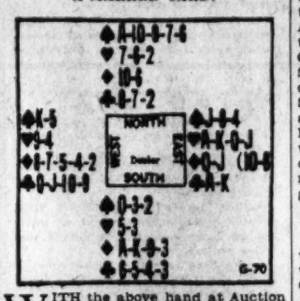
A MARKED CARD.



WITH the above hand at Auction Bridge East would obtain a Heart contract without much opposition.

When the hand was played at Contract, South passed. A four-card suit headed by the Ace-King should not be bid originally with less than a King on the side. West and North passed, and East, with eight sure tricks, called three Hearts. South again passed, and West ended the contracting with a bid of four Hearts. West's raise was sound. A bid of three does not require partner to hold normal trump support in order to raise—one probable trick is enough—and West thinks he can furnish a trick in either Spades or Clubs.

South's opening lead was the King of Diamonds. When North dropped the Ten, South continued with the Ace, but did not go on in response to the signal when East had played the Queen and Jack. To the third trick South led a small Spade through dummy's King. Declarer feared that South was underleading with the Ace and that North had the Queen, so he played dummy's King. North's Ace won and his return of a Spade set the contract one trick. Did the Declarer misplay or merely make an unlucky guess?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

South's Spade lead, ordinarily, would have forced Declarer to guess whether North held the Ace or the Queen. (If either adversary held both Ace and Queen, West's play would make no difference.) In this case, however, North's Diamond signal marked South with an original Diamond holding of Ace-King-Nine-Three. If South had held the Ace of Spades in addition, he would have bid one Diamond instead of passing on the first round. North, therefore, must hold the Ace of Spades, and Declarer's only chance for game is to find the Queen with South. The play of dummy's small Spade would permit Declarer to win one Spade trick, regardless of whether North plays the Ace or the Nine, and no matter what happens (with the Queen of Spades in the South hand and the Ace in North) will ensure game for Declarer.

What Today Means to You

"TAURUS."

IF May 14 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 a. m. to 11:10 a. m., from 3:10 p. m. to 5:15 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. The danger hours are from noon to 2:30 p. m. and from 5:45 p. m. to 7:15 p. m.

The planetary aspects of May 14 indicate a morning of successful activity. Something worthwhile attempted means something done. However, an afternoon of disappointment caused by others' meddlesome interference, and an evening of stimulation, well suited to social amenities.

A child born on this May 14 will have a varied character. It will be fond of outdoor life, have a great deal of energy, and yet rarely make a complete success of anything. There will be lacking the determination to see it through, and it will be satisfied with spasmodic and intermittent effort.

Born on May 14, you are especially fond of art and the beautiful things of life. You find it hard to adapt yourself to any environment that is not "just exactly so." You also find it difficult to associate with those whose standards do not conform to yours. Many think you are snubbish, and it must be confessed that your attitude rather justifies this criticism. On the other hand, it is an innate sense of what is fitting that makes you as you are. You could no more hide your feelings, than you could conceal a wart on your nose.

You are, fortunately, indifferent to outside opinion, and are self-contained. You pursue the even tenor of your way, regardless of snubs or isolation. By careful study and much reading, you have acquired a great stock of valuable information, and possess the happy faculty of being able to impart it to others. You are no idler, although many of your efforts end in failure. You are a "wash out" as an executive, and cannot assume that spirit of comradeship which so often turns failure into success.

You have a heart of gold with it all, and those who comprise your family circle will, with gladness, always testify to your kindness, sympathy and thoughtfulness.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, PH. D.

THE family names "Lind," "Lynde," "Lynd" and "Linden" are found in early English records with a variety of spellings. These names, of Teutonic origin, mean "the linden tree" (now generally "the lime tree"), and indicate an original place of residence. An English document of the year 1300 bears the name of Henry de la Lynde. The modern German equivalents of the above names are most numerous. Some of the most frequently found are "Linde," "von der Linden," "Linden" and "Linder." A Swiss document of the year 1299 bears the name of a certain Conradus zur Lindun who was living in Basel. The common Scandinavian forms of these names are "Lind" and "Linde." Some Irish families have adopted the name "Lind" as the supposed English equivalent of the original Irish "O Loinn." "O Loinn" is a variation of "O Floinn," which means "the descendant of Flann." The personal name "Flann" means "red."

The personal name "Jenny" is an English variation of the French "Jeanney." "Jeanney" is a feminine diminutive form of "Jean." "Jean" (English "John") is ultimately of Hebrew origin and may be translated "the Lord's gracious gift," or "the Lord is gracious."

The family name "Lindhurst" is the modern form of the Old English "lind-hyrst." It means "the lime-tree wood" and indicates an original place of residence.

The family name "Ludgate" is derived from the Old English "ludgeat." It means "the postern gate" or "the folding gate," and points out an original place of residence.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

DEAR Frances McDonald: I get a lot of comfort and help from your column, sometimes it makes me ashamed, sometimes it cheers me up. I never miss it, no matter where we are going or what there is to do, and so I would like you to give me one of those grand scoldings you hand out—or in some way make me sit up and take notice for I am doing something that I know to be most unfair. But I can not help it to save my life.

It is this. When we were married four years I was called home to care for my mother who had a stroke. She was expected to die but rallied and I had to stay nearly a year. Mistake No. 1. Then my father at 70 came down with pneumonia. No leaving then for another three months, as father died and mother was inconsolable.

Well, the expected happened. My husband wrote me to come at once as he had succumbed to temptation and been untrue to me. At first my impulse was to ignore the letter and let him go his way. But I felt responsible for what had happened. He had been begging me to come and offering to pay a woman to take my place in caring for mother. But I felt no paid nurse could take my place with mother.

He was at the station waiting and at sight of him all my resolves to be decent and understanding vanished. I have never been able to decide what did happen, for I had written him that everything was all right and we would never speak of it. Then when I saw him I was disgusted, and could not be even civil. When he tried to take me in his arms at the house I repulsed him. He has told me a thousand times that we are too young to try to live like this, that we should either patch up our trouble or part. At such times I tell him that I am willing to part. But he is not, of course. He tells me at other times that he prefers a half-life with me than a full life with any one else. He said that last night and I did the lowest thing I have ever done in my life. I said, "Has she turned you down?" He was not any more shocked than I was. But he said I would never hear another word of love from him as long as we both lived.

That is why I am writing you now. I love him. I have forgiven him. But I can not stop digging up the past. Now tell me how I can conquer this cruel streak. ESTELLE.

What you are doing is about comparable esthetically to eating today's dinner from yesterday's dirty plate. Your sin as compared to his, is so much greater as to make his seem negligible by contrast. He was weak but not wicked. You, in destroying another's self-respect, pride and happiness are downright wicked.

Begin to eat and clean dishes. And may your husband be more merciful than you have been. Men usually are—heaven help them.

POST-ZAIN CONTEST ENTERS SIXTH WEEK

Time of Announcement of $1,000 Prize Winner Fast Approaching.

A new day has dawned and again a new period of The Post Zain Ad Writing Contest is started. This is the beginning of the sixth week of this contest. Get busy and write those prize winning ads. The day when the $1,000 prize winner will be announced is fast approaching. Be the winner. Following are suggestions you might use in your ads. Remember, these helps are listed daily and feature different firms each day.

In writing ads about the Potomac Electric Power Co. tell the story of the company's low electric rates. Each year for seven consecutive years the Potomac Power Co. has reduced electric rates until Washingtonians are now enjoying the lowest rate in the country. The rate is now 58 per cent less than it was in 1924. Thus more household appliances can be used. Tell about the major appliances rate. This is an extraordinarily low rate. Call the Potomac Power Co. and get additional information on the company's "Matchless Service" and low rates for your ads.

Another concern you are asked to write ads about is the Edgar Morris Sales. What do you think about first? Westinghouse refrigerators, of course. The newest, most modern up-to-date refrigerator on the market. Make a real ad on this refrigerator. List some or all of the 24 reasons why this refrigerator is superior to others. Explain the many conveniences of having one of the refrigerators in your home. Feature the easy payment plan. Bear in mind that the Westinghouse Refrigerator's perfect performance has been achieved because it has satisfied a variety of owners under a variety of conditions met in the actual usage of the refrigerator.

If you do not know the splendid values of D. J. Kaufman's three convenient stores acquaint yourself at once. Excellent ads can be written about this concern. Here is one written by Mrs. R. S. MacLaren, 2702 Ontario road northwest, which tells their story. "It is easy to step up to the fashion plate and connect with 'Radio Joe's' budget plan. No inshoots, no curves, no trick windups—just a plain, straight 'across the plate' sensible easy payment system. It's a safe hit every time, and enables every man to wear the smartest up-to-the-minute clothes. Drop in at one of Kaufman's stores and make a complete circuit clout by letting us fit you out with an entire new spring outfit." Maybe that ad will help some of you ad writers get the prize winning idea that will win that smart $45 suit Kaufman's is giving as a special prize at the close of this contest. Read the box of special prizes telling all about this suit.

Prize winning ads about the Fairfax Farms dairies should be easy. Their rich wholesome "Hi Test" Jersey milk and cream are splendid subjects. The low price of 14 cents per quart for this Jersey milk is an added feature. The fact that their products are obtainable only at the Fairfax Farms Dairies, Inc., and not at stores is another fact you might incorporate in your ads. Remember, too, they are Washington owned and operated. That one quart per day for one week of health giving "Hi Test" Jersey milk that the writers of the five best ads each week will receive is an added incentive for good ads. Write more and more ads, win more and more prizes.

Gas Execution Bill Passed.

Sacramento, Calif., May 13 (A.P.). A bill substituting lethal gas for hanging as the manner of execution in California was passed by the Assembly today, 56 to 10. The bill, having passed the Senate, goes to Gov. Rolph for his approval or rejection.

Rules for the Contest

1. The contest can be entered at any time before midnight of Wednesday, May 27, by sending an ad to Post-Zain Amateur Ad Editor, The Washington Post, Washington, D. C.
2. It is open to everyone except professional advertising men or women or the employes of any newspaper.
3. The Post will award $1,000.00 in cash for the best ad submitted during the entire contest. To be eligible for this award, entrant must have written at least one ad on each concern listed.
4. Write about one or all of the concerns. Submit as many ads as you can. Lots of weekly prizes every week.
5. Each ad submitted must be on a separate piece of paper. Write your name and address also telephone number plainly on the back.
6. Contestants are under no obligations and do not have to be subscribers to The Post to compete.
7. The names of judges will be announced next week. Their decisions are final.
8. All ads are the property of the concern about whom they are written and may be used by them as they see fit.
9. Remember contest closes May 27, 1931.

SUMMER FURNITURE GOOD AD IDEA

Nothing in Europe or America approaches the new summer furniture that is now being shown at the P. J. Nee Co., located at Seventh and H streets northwest. It has exquisitely upholstered permeter washable fabric that the rain and sun cannot damage. May we suggest that you plan to see these new designs, sit in them, note how cleverly they are shaped, so comfortable that you can't help leaning back on the deep cushions.

In fact, each smart pattern was especially chosen for design, color and harmony by P. J. Nee. You'll instantly visualize this summer furniture in your home, bringing character to a difficult corner, lifting a whole room out of the ordinary type. Placed on the terrace, it should enable you to acquire your sun tan this summer.

One may purchase this inexpensive furniture at a very reasonable price. Let us have that $1,000 prize winning ad for the Post-Zain Ad-Writing Contest, bringing out some of these facts.

Fifth Period Zain Winners Will Be Listed Tomorrow

Start of Sixth Week Brings End Nearer in $10,000 Ad-Witing Contest; Field Still Open to Qualify for $1,000 Grand Prize.

We are nearing the close of the $10,000 Zain ad writing contest. Will you be that $1,000 winner? We are now starting on the sixth week of this Post contest and every one who wants to win the grand prize at the close should put forth every effort.

Your golden opportunity is now. Capture one of those big awards which include the $100 first prize in the sixth week, while you are striving to win that $1,000 cash prize. If you don't win one of those big prizes don't become discouraged. You still have unlimited opportunity to win one of the many worthwhile merchandise prizes.

The fifth week of the test closed at noon yesterday and all ads received after 12 o'clock automatically go into the sixth period and will be judged next week. A luncheon for participating concerns and judges will be given today. The ads will be judged and the prize winners will be published in tomorrow morning's Post.

If you are a winner keep on being a winner by writing more ads each day. If you haven't won remember that quitters never win. The next ad you write may have the winning idea. Never give up. That coveted $1,000 can be yours if you will just keep on and keep in mind that old slogan "practice makes perfect."

Think what might have happened if those famous folks whom we read about in history had turned back and had not accomplished what they started out to achieve, simply because they became discouraged. Just supposing Columbus had turned back. He didn't, and his determination gave us this great country in which we are living. Have that same determination to win yourself, and the winning of the grand award of $1,000 will be easy.

All you need to do is write many ads each day. As you write they will become easier and easier, and in releasing your ideas in many different types and forms of ads you may capture some of those worth-while prizes that will be given at the close of this current period, as well as that $1,000 prize at the end of the contest.

Don't let another day go by without putting your ideas on paper and submitting them in form of ads to the editor of The Post-Zain contest at The Washington Post. Winning prizes is so easy! Read the rules and the boxes of special prizes carefully and get busy today. Don't forget, you must write at least one ad about each of the 35 participating concerns to be eligible for that grand award. Let it be your name that heads the prize-winning list at the close of this sixth ad-writing period. Remember, a winner never quits and a quitter never wins.

Portable Schools Face Early Doom

Only Five Will Be Used After February of Next Year Crane Declares.

Only five portable school buildings will be left in Washington by next February, according to an announcement yesterday by Jere J. Crane, business manager of the District school system.

Of the 58 portables now in use, 53 will be eliminated by the first of the year, Mr. Crane said. Thirty portables are being used for the last time this term and will not be in use when schools reopen next September, he added.

Crane's announcement followed a statement from Senator William H. King, of Utah, that he will advocate an increase of $280,000 for the school building program in the next appropriation, making a total for this work of $3,000,000.

SETTLEMENT LOOMS IN COLLEGE RIOTING

Conferences in Three Ohio Institutions With Students Promise Adjustment.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 13 (A.P.).—Disturbances affecting the student bodies of three Ohio colleges were in the process of settlement tonight, after conferences of students and officials. Although minor violence accompanied the disturbances at two of the institutions, the view of the officials was that there was no cause for alarm.

Officials of Heidelberg College, Tiffin, blamed "town hoodlums" for a fire which today destroyed a small wooden building used as athletic headquarters, but the officials said unidentified students probably were responsible for the recent stoning of President Charles E. Miller's office.

Students said the Heidelberg trouble was started by failure of trustees to reappoint Prof. Newell Sawyer, and by the desire of the student body for broader social privileges. At Marietta College and the University of Akron, the disturbances were attributed by school officials to student elections.

Police investigated the stoning of the Delta Upsilon Fraternity House at Marietta last night, but did not learn who did it. Delta Upsilon had supported Miss Sarah Leake, of Lowell, Ohio, as candidate for president of the junior class, and she was elected against the opposition of other fraternities.

A mass meeting of men students at Heidelberg today went on record as opposed to vandalism, and appointed a committee to draft resolutions demanding broader social privileges than this college has heretofore allowed.

Under present rules, Heidelberg students are forbidden to smoke, play cards or dance, on the campus. The committee said the retention of Dr. Sawyer, although desired by numerous students, had become a "minor issue." The committee will submit its resolutions to the student body later, and when approved, will give the demands to the trustees.

Sturgeon Bay, Wis., May 13 (A.P.).—About 350 pupils, virtually the entire enrollment in the Sturgeon Bay High School, went on strike today in protest against the refusal of Superintendent J. A. Vannatti to renew the contracts of Arnold Bahr, athletic coach, and E. S. Dunkel, mathematics teacher. No explanation for refusal to continue Bahr and Dunkel during the next school term was made by the superintendent.

WINNERS IN PRIZE CONTEST

Frank Cartwright (left), of this city, civil engineer for the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, who won $500 from the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. in its cigarette contest, and James Thomas Sharkey, 32-year-old Boston milkman, who won the $25,000 first prize, for the best letter on the new moisture-proof wrapper used by the company.

SCHOOL STRIKE ENDS COLLEGE HEAD'S JOB

Dr. Simon S. Baker Quits as President of Washington and Jefferson.

Washington, Pa., May 13 (A.P.).—A strike of the student body of Washington and Jefferson College, oldest college in western Pennsylvania, yesterday had its fruition in the resignation of Dr. Simon S. Baker, president.

Dr. Baker's resignation was accepted by the board of trustees of the college without comment at a special meeting called to consider the complaint of the students against his administration.

The students, approximately 450 men, walked out of chapel meeting April 18 as Dr. Baker rose to address them. The classrooms were vacant for two days.

The strikers asserted that Dr. Baker was not in sympathy with their activities, academic and athletic.

In his letter of resignation the president said he had tried to win their friendship, but was not successful.

"Sometmes I think the fault is mine," he wrote. Of the students he said, "As a whole, they are serious-minded and well behaved."

"As you know," he wrote, "I have not recovered my health and, believing it to be for the best interests of the college, I hereby tender my resignation."

Dr. Baker succeeded Dr. Samuel Charles Black as president of the college in 1922. He formerly was a school principal and assistant superintendent of schools at Pittsburgh.

The board of trustees appointed a committee on April 25 to investigate the students' complaint, but in view of Dr. Baker's resignation it was believed the report would not be disclosed.

"Pilotless" Plane Damaged in Crash

Craft Takes Off Without Anyone at Controls, but Wrecks in Landing.

Baltimore, Md., May 13 (A.P.).—An airplane whose sponsors claimed it could land and take off safely with no one manipulating the controls apparently proved the claim once here today, but in the second demonstration it came to grief.

The ship turned over and the propeller was broken and the fusilage damaged. A. L. Janes, the pilot, and John M. Ballou, a passenger, escaped injury.

The plane was brought here from North Beach, N. Y., for demonstrations before delegates to the national aeronautics convention held under the auspices of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Mr. Ballou, president of the company making the plane, said the mishap was caused by a soft spot on the field.

GREATEST BATTLE IN BRIDGE TO OPEN

This plan will bar no one from the second games of a series, because of having made a poor score in the initial session, but will give those making a low score opportunity to recoup in the second session.

Pairs who play in the afternoon pair matches of Thursday and Friday afternoon will, if they have so registered, as most entrants have, also participate in the evening games in one or the other of the forms of contract or auction. The program will enable entrants to play as they desire either in afternoon or evening sessions, or in both.

Entries for the tournament closed on May 1, with more than 750 persons, all of them residing in Washington or within 25 miles of the Capital, having filed applications to participate. Of these approximately 440 will play in the contract form and something more than 300 in at auction. Not even in the big league matches in New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, and Chicago have so many lovers of the game ever been brought together, a fact that attests the enthusiasm with which local devotees have indorsed the enterprise.

R. E. Needham, the tournament manager, arrived in Washington yesterday and concluded the final arrangements for the tourney, so that everything will be in readiness to "play bridge" when the gong sounds at the New Shoreham at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Participants are urged to report early in order to facilitate the seating.

The 32 beautiful loving cups which The Post is offering as prizes to the winners of the several series of plays were transferred from R. Harris & Co.'s store and placed on exhibition yesterday at the New Shoreham, where they were much admired, not only by the prospective players, but by crowds interested in the game.

Dean estate, lying along the east side of Connecticut avenue between Columbia road and Florida avenue, one of the high points in the District.

Sponsors of the plan proposed that the National Capital Park and Planning Commission purchase the Southern part of the tract and develop it as a park in connection with the buildings on the northern portion. The new temple would be built on the northern end of the tract.

The price asked for the southern portion, lying between Florida avenue and the line of T street, which is not cut through the tract, has caused the planning commission to reject this proposal. The owners are said to have proposed purchase of the land by the Government at the price they paid for it plus taxes levied on it for the last ten years. This would bring the cost to between $3 and $4 a square foot, which members of the commission feel is too high, especially in view of the limited possibilities of development as a park or recreation center.

The visit of the committee to President Hoover yesterday, it was said, had nothing to do with any effort to enlist his support in negotiations with the planning commission or Fine Arts Commission, but simply was to acquaint him with what it is proposed to do inasmuch as the President signed the measure giving special privileges for building on the tract.

Members of the committee refused to discuss the visit, saying that whatever was said would have to be made public at the White House. Mr. Dunkum said there was nothing secret about the plans, but it was felt it would be better if public announcement of details were withheld until they were definitely completed. It still is hoped, he said, that the development will be a joint effort of Washington Masonry.

Constitution Avenue Widening Is Ordered

The widening of Constitution avenue, between Fourteenth street and Virginia avenue northwest, was ordered yesterday by the District Commissioners at a total cost of $168,500. The new width will be 80 feet.

Of this sum, $101,100 is to be paid by the District government, while $67,400 is to be transferred from the fund for the construction of the Arlington Memorial Bridge. Authority for this work was included in the 1932 appropriation act, and the money was included in that made immediately available.

Bladensburg Girl, 14, Is Reported Missing

Helen Elizabeth Manning, 14 years old, of Bladensburg, Md., is the object of a police search, having been missing since Monday. Washington police have been asked to watch for the girl, although her parents gave no description of her.

The child, who is said to be large for her age, was a student at the Bladensburg Junior High School.

EIGHT YEARS' USE HAS PROVED THE ECONOMY OF AMOCO-GAS TO MR. W. T. COWAN

MR. W. T. COWAN operates a fast motor freight service between Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia—keeping a fleet of 25 trucks on the road.

Naturally enough cost per mile is a most important consideration to Mr. Cowan, and the choice of fuel and lubricants has received careful study.

For the past eight years he has specified Amoco-Gas and Amoco Motor Oils for his trucks—and here's what he says:

"Due to the continuous use of Amoco-Gas and Amoco Motor Oils for the last 8 years, we have been able to save quite a sum of money in our fleet operation—having in mind the bills we formerly paid for grinding valves and cleaning carbon. Since using your products, these bills have not come to our attention for payment—and we are gratified to know that we have saved a lot of money in this respect.

"We have actually secured more mileage on our twenty-five trucks through the use of Amoco-Gas, which very definitely supports your advertising slogan, 'More miles to the gallon'.

"You can count on us as one of your many permanent and satisfied customers."

W. T. Cowan

No need to add a word to what Mr. Cowan says! He's told the story of Amoco economy clearly, concisely, completely!

DELIRIOUS
"LIRA" IS THE LATIN WORD WHICH DESCRIBES AN IRREGULAR RIDGE LEFT BY A PLOW. SO THE LATINS USED "DELIRUS" TO DESCRIBE ONE WHOSE MIND WAS NOT PROPERLY TILLED OR CULTIVATED. THAT'S THE PROCESS THROUGH WHICH WE ACQUIRED OUR WORD "DELIRIOUS."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

WHY CRIMINALS?

DR. AMOS O. SQUIRE places the use of drugs at or near the top of the list of causes of criminality. He bases his conclusion on an experience of more than a quarter of a century of attendance at Sing Sing Prison and a fairly intimate acquaintance with many thousand criminals of the type that are sent to institutions.

About 2,000 tons of opium are produced in the world annually. Of this large tonnage about 75 tons is sufficient to supply the entire legitimate need. The remaining 1,925 tons goes into illegitimate trade and supplies most of the needs of those who use dopes, and leaves enough for the purposes of the racketeers whose business it is to make a new supply of dope users.

When Dr. Squire began his services the use of dope by convicted persons was not an item of importance. The story is different now. In telling of the harm of drugs he limited himself to heroin, morphine and a few other opium products, and cocaine.

A large group of criminals are psycopaths. These are not insane, but at the same time they are not normal mentally. They have twisted personality and mental qualities which make them enemies of society unrestrained by the rules of the game, religion, family training, symfpathy, fair play, conscience or any group, family or personal consideration. Unless we can find a way to prevent this type of personality from developing we must establish a legal class, called enemies of society, and then confine for life at productive labor all those who have been proved by law to be members of that class.

While there is this personality type that is known to be criminalistic, Dr. Squire has not found any physical qualities or features by which criminals can be recognized. Lombroso's old science of the stigmata of degeneracy finds no support from Dr. Squire. Nor is inheritance any great factor. On the other hand, environment is. Among the preventives of criminality ranked high by Dr. Squire are: Home influences, parental love, training, religion, the Boy Scouts, hiking boys' clubs, doing one social act a day, playgrounds and parks.

ECZEMA.

J. S. J. writes:

1. What is the difference between fiery eczema and weeping eczema?

2. What causes eczema?

3. What is the best treatment for fiery eczema? I mean the kind that burns and itches until it nearly drives you crazy, but no pus.

REPLY.

1. "Fiery eczema" is a term that is applied to a chronic inflammation of the skin, accompanied by considerable redness and itching. In weeping eczema there is oozing of fluid and oftentimes formation of crusts.

2. Eczemas is a group of skin disorders with little in common. Some have one cause, some another. An eczema such as you describe is liable to be due to poisoning of the skin by some chemical, or possibly to a diet to which you are sensitized.

3. If you will find the cause and avoid it you need do nothing else by way of treatment.

WILMA AND I WERE FLASHING ON FROM ATLANTIS TO AMERICA WITH THE TREATY WHICH WOULD OPEN UP THE CITY BENEATH THE SEA TO WORLD TRADE—BUT A MYSTERY SHIP HAD ARRIVED BEFORE US—BEYOND THE RANGE OF DETECTOSCOPES, IT HUNG AN INVISIBLE SPECK, HIGH IN THE STRATOSPHERE

A MOMENT LATER A TRAP POPPED OPEN AND A TINY CRAFT PLUNGED FROM IT LIKE A STONE.
BUT THE TINY CRAFT WAS NOT BUILT FOR OPERATION IN THE NEAR-VACCUUM OF THE STRATOSPHERE—IT PLUNGED WITH TERRIFIC ACCELERATION.
I DON'T LIKE THIS AT ALL!—WHEN I DO HIT THE ATMOSPHERE THE AIR FRICTION IS GOING TO BE AWFUL!
AT LAST DOWN INTO DENSER AIR.
IT'S GETTING RED HOT! IF I DON'T CHECK THIS SPEED THE SHIP WILL MELT!!

BUSINESS LEADERS DISPLAY OPTIMISM

Chieftains of 36 Countries Banqueted in Chicago; Urge Understanding.

Chicago, May 13 (A.P.).—Business men of 36 nations were banqueted by the Chicago Association of Commerce today in an atmosphere of optimism toward world economics.

Nearly 2,000 guests, gathered in celebration of Chicago's ten-day trade jubilee and in honor of delegates to the recent International Chamber of Commerce convention in Washington, heard commercial leaders of the world appeal for mutual understanding of diverse viewpoints.

M. Georges Theunis, president of the International Chamber and former Prime Minister of Belgium, spoke for the shortest period by "introducing a resolution omitted at the Washington meeting."

"Are we downhearted?" was M. Theunis' "resolution," and his hearers thundered, "No." With that he concluded his speech.

Silas H. Strawn, of Chicago, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, spoke to correct a "misunderstanding" which he said existed throughout the country regarding a resolution on allied war debts and tariffs passed at the Washington convention.

"I submit," he said, "that the attitude of the American delegation is plain, that we do not oppose the right of any nation to ask for reconsideration of its war debts and that we favor adjustment of inequalities in all tariffs, creating embargoes only against dumping and other unfair practices.

"We must remove all possible barriers to world trade. The international chamber assembles the business and financial leaders of the world as does no other agency. In 1923 at Rome it suggested economic conferences which did much toward causing arrival at the Dawes and Young plans."

Josef Sachs, Swedish merchant prince, recommended that national debts should be reduced to conform to the present value of money as an antidote for restriction on competition, and that all trade barriers between nations be removed, "as they will accentuate and prolong the economic crisis."

Four Are Nabbed In Kidnaping Case

Texas Men Charged With False Imprisonment of Bank Head's Son.

Corsicana, Tex., May 13 (A.P.).—Four men were held in jail tonight charged with false imprisonment in connection with the kidnaping and $15,000 ransoming last December of Robert Gerf, 28, son of Isaac N. Cerf, Corsicana bank president. A fifth man was being sought.

Those prisoners are Jimmie Nash, 21; Doyle Nash, 22; Currier W. Caldwell, 26, and Charles Hassell, 23. The Navarro County grand jury began an investigation of the cases.

County Attorney Cleo G. Miller said Caldwell, Jimmie Nash and Hassell had made statements. Authorities have been working on the kidnaping since it became known early in January. After the ransom had been paid at Dallas, a second demand for $3,000 and a third for $10,000 were received, causing the affair to be reported to officers.

Walker Will Receive Mayors on Paris Trip

New York, May 13 (U.P.).—Mayor James J. Walker will receive visiting American mayors on their way to France as guests of the French authorities, at City Hall Friday, an hour before they parade aboard the Ile de France, which is to take them to Havre.

Jean Tillier, president of the French Chamber of Commerce, and general manager of the French Lines in America, is giving the mayors a dinner on board the Ile de France Thursday evening. The French government will be represented by M. Jules Henri, counselor of the French embassy. Mayor Walker, George Harvon Phelps, head of the American committee of the French Exposition, and Parmeley Herrick also will speak.

Housewife Becomes 2d Mayor in New Jersey

Weehawken, N. J., May 13 (A.P.).—Mrs. Clara Graubert, 73, who has spent most of her life "being just a housewife," today became the second woman mayor in New Jersey. She was chosen to fill out the unexpired term of her husband, E. W. Graubert, who died recently after holding office for 7 years. His term would have expired January 1, 1932.

If the mayoral duties don't become too strenuous, she said she still will do a little bit of work around the house."

PLANS TO MOBILIZE 4,000,000 OUTLINED

[illegible] no one would be able to escape [illegible] share in the ensuing loss.

The administrative committee of the Federal Council of Churches [illegible] ded the United States could best establish its security by "exalting the significance and authority of the institutions of peace" and by working for reduction of armaments rather than by perfecting elaborate war plans.

"We regard the adoption by Congress in times of assured and progressive peace of detailed and comprehensive plans for the potential, complete and instantaneous war-time control by the United States Army of the country's industrial, commercial and transportation systems as fraught with grave dangers to our country," the council said.

The council urged all nations to [illegible] the Paris peace pact effective [illegible] to stress the functions of the World Court, arbitration treaties and other institutions of peace.

Mr. Payne said the plans prescribed by Gen. MacArthur were adequate for [illegible] mobilization of economic resources and industry. He emphasized [illegible] control of industry would be under civilian management in time of war and not under the War Department.

Meanwhile, Chairman Wood of the House appropriation committee suggested the appointment of a civilian purchasing agent for the Army to increase economies and efficiency in purchasing equipment.

FRENCH NAME PAUL DOUMER AS PRESIDENT OVER BRIAND

were turned back at the doors because there was only one diplomatic card among the party. The matter was arranged later and all were admitted, but this was only one of numerous similar incidents.

Hall Too Small for Crowd.

The premier conferred with Briand and other members of his cabinet just before the voting started. The hall is not big enough to hold all the members of both houses and most of the deputies stood tightly packed in the aisles, leaving the seats for their elder colleagues.

Briand was unusually well groomed. He had had one of his rare haircuts—there is a political tradition that he visits the barber only when he is about to become premier again, and that has happened twelve times in the last 21 years.

The Communists raised a cheer for the Soviet Union and their deputy, Duclos, insisted on making a speech despite the rule that there shall be no debate at this session. His own colleagues pushed him back in his seat as Doumer pounded with his gavel.

Actress Shares Honors.

When order was restored, Doumer called for the vote amidst applause and boos. Paul Painleve, unsuccessful presidential candidate in 1924, brought a rousing cheer which was interrupted by the simultaneous entrance of the actress. Yvonne Printemps, and her husband, Sacha Guitry. They stole the applause as they took their seats in the gallery.

The president is chosen by a majority vote of both houses of the Parliament. Doumer was short only ten votes of a majority on the first ballot.

Doumer an Austere Man.

Doumer is an austere man, unlike Briand, who always has been close to the people. Before the final result was known Briand started back for Paris after shaking hands with Doumer and assuring him the day's events would have no effect on their old friendship.

His election to the presidency crowns a long career in the government service. He served in Indo-China and held many cabinet posts. France never forgets that he lost four sons in the World War.

Doumer was warmly congratulated by numerous senators and deputies. An impromptu reception was held in the Salon Herengo.

Pledges Self to Peace.

Replying to speeches of congratulation, he said:

"I want to thank the Parliament for this great honor and I am convinced that I am interpreting Parliament in affirming that France intends to remain faithful to the policies of peace she has followed.

"Inspired by examples of a long list of predecessors, particularly by Gaston Doumergue, who is retiring from the post which, if filled with such distinguished authority, I shall seek above all and outside all parties to maintain that peace at home and abroad which is ardently desired by all French people."

Many deputies expressed regret at the absence of Raymond Poincare, whose physicians had advised him not to come to Versailles because of his recent illness.

Berlin Papers Bemoan Aristide Briand's Defeat

Berlin, May 13 (A.P.).—The Berliner Tageblatt and the Vossische Zeitung, Berlin Liberal papers, tonight were pessimistic in their comment on the failure of Aristide Briand to achieve the French presidency.

"May 13 must now be reckoned a black day for French politics," the Tageblatt said.

The Vossische Zeitung stated that Briand's failure was caused by petty parliamentarians, distrustful of a man of his caliber who is rare in postwar Europep.

"There is no one in Europe to succeed him," the Zeitung added. "Should he make good his word and resign as foreign minister, the loss would be irreparable, and not to France alone."

JOE COOK GRANTED DIVORCE IN SECRET

Comedian Given Custody of Four Children by Court on April 15.

Newark, N. J., May 13 (A.P.).—A divorce surrounded by secrecy has been granted Joe Cook, funny man of vaudeville, who became one of Broadway's highest-priced musical comedy stars.

A long search through legal files in Trenton disclosed today that he obtained an uncontested divorce on April 15 from Beatrice Helen Cook.

Cook now is in Chicago playing the leading role in "Fine and Dandy." Mrs. Cook is said to be with her mother in Detroit.

The divorce ended what had been considered one of the White Way's most devoted romances. While playing here the comedian motored almost every night to his estate at Hopatcong, N. J. Some time ago there were rumors of disagreement, but the comedian denied them.

The Cooks were married in 1914 at Harrisburg, Pa. Under the divorce decree the comedian is given custody of their four children, the oldest of whom is 16.

Cook started as a $50-a-week vaudeville performer and won his way to the top by showing his audience why he would not "imitate four Hawaiians," and by other stunts and gags. He is said to be earning $2,750 a week now. Besides "Fine and Dandy," he also appeared in "Vanities" and "Rain or Shine."

Cook's real name is Joseph Lopez. He was adopted as a child by a family named Cook in Evansville, Ind., after his parents died.

Violation of Milk Act to Be Charged

Cleveland Concern Is Hit as Lacking District Cream Permit.

A Cleveland concern which has been shipping canned cream into the District will be prosecuted in Police Court for violation of the milk act of 1925 upon recommendation of Health Officer William C. Fowler.

The cream has been persistently shipped into the District without a permit being asked, Dr. Fowler said yesterday in turning the case over to the corporation counsel. These permits are issued, as to dairies, only after a rigid inspection has been made of the source of supply.

A warrant will probably be served today on an agent of the concern. Meanwhile, the name of the shipper is being kept secret by the Health Department.

New Egyptian Data Are Found.

Cairo, Egypt, May 13 (A.P.).—A flood of light on ancient Egyptian language and religion is expected to come from the discovery at Sakkara of 800 lines of religious text inscribed on the walls of the burial chamber of Queen Neith. She was a daughter of Pepi I, a sixth dynasty king.

Honduras Attacks Rebels.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, May 13 (A.P.).—The government has ordered a campaign against rebel forces of Gen. Ferrera in the Copan Mountains. An effort will be made to surround them or drive them into Guatemala.

to start work on a proposed $700,000 new ward which would contain not less than 250 beds. The hospital is so crowded at present, it is said, that old wooden buildings that should be razed are being utilized.

Proposals to consolidate the metering houses and the heating plants on the reservation, which includes Gallinger, the District Jail, the quarantine station, the smallpox hospital and the crematorium, are made in an estimate of $2,200. Money will be saved in the long run, however, by the mergers.

Considerable improvements in the grounds of the District Training School, including a swimming pool and an athletic field, are proposed at a cost of $100,000. The grounds are said to be "deplorable in rainy weather," having scarcely no walkways or roads.

Nineteen additional employes at an extra cost of $16,440 are requested along with increased maintenance, a chief engineer's cottage at $10,000, and fire prevention for the farm buildings at $7,500.

Twelve new employes are asked for the Tuberculosis Hospital at a cost of $14,060. Provision is also made for increasing the number of patients by sixteen or twenty through the inclosing of the porches. The hospital has a long waiting list.

An estimate of $50,000 is given for the purchase of a new site and erection of new buildings for the Industrial Home School, now located in the Naval Observatory Circle.

The Home for Aged and Infirm asks a new administration building at a cost of $20,000, a storeroom at $8,500, and in addition to the colored men's ward at $12,500.

St. Elizabeths Hospital's estimate is $1,889,000, based on an average of 2,650 patients at the rate of $1.96 a day.

The District Jail requests three additional guards, an engineer, and another matron. Other employes are asked by various other institutions.

Yesterday the Commissioners took up the estimates of the Police Department, amounting to $3,676,181. The increase of $187,281 over the 1932 appropriation takes into account the reorganization in effect after July 1.

A new grade, to be known as "probationary detectives," is proposed in the personnel needs. These posts will merit an extra compensation of $300 a year. All precinct detectives and the 22 plain-clothes men assigned to the precincts to investigate liquor and vice offenses would be included in this group.

Eight more radio-equipped automobiles for use of precincts are asked. There is no estimate for bicycle patrolmen.

A salary raise of $600 is asked for Private James Kelly, supervisor of the police radio station. He would also gain the title of radio supervisor.

No increase in uniform personnel is asked, but a number of policemen may be relieved of clerical duties and replaced by civilian employes.

Former Rheem Aid Gives $10,000 Bond

Brewer, Facing Embezzlement Indictment, Granted Liberty on Bail.

A $10,000 bond was posted yesterday in Criminal Court by J. Newton Brewer, indicted former officer of the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co. Edmund R. Rheem, at liberty on a $25,000 bond on a charge of embezzlement, was allowed to continue under that bond.

Rheem was arrested on a United States commissioner's warrant shortly after the investigation into the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co. was started. He was taken before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage, where he posted the bond.

Brewer and Rheem were indicted Tuesday for embezzling and concealing writings. The indictment of Brewer was a surprise, inasmuch as Rheem had indicated he personally had handled most of the company's affairs.

Courtauld, Rescued, Is Thin but Happy

London, May 13 (A.P.).—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Copenhagen tonight said Capt. Ahrenberg reported from Angmasgsalik, Greenland, that Augustine Courtauld, rescued British scientist whom he brought there today in his plane, was very happy, but very thin and unrecognizable because of his long hair and beard.

When Courtauld was rescued, Capt. Ahrenberg said, he had been living chiefly on seal meat and had long before run short of bread, candles and petroleum.

Policeman Replies To Divorce Action

John O. Hite Denies Claim of Wife That He Admired Another Woman.

Policeman John O. Hite yesterday filed an answer to his wife's suit for a limited divorce, denying that he was enamored of another woman. On the contrary, he said, the other woman's husband was a friend of his and when she visited his home she was always with him.

The policeman seeks the custody of a 3-year-old daughter, who is now in Boston, where she was taken by her grandmother several days after the grandmother had been ordered from the house by Hite, because she was "nagging." The admission is made that on one occasion he did slap his wife.

A mutual separation agreement entered into by the couple May 1 is appended to the bill. It is sought to have this agreement validated by the court.

EMPLOYES OF BANKS MAKE FEW CHANGES

Staffs Remain Stationary as Deposits and Activities Increase in Capital.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

That there was a smaller turnover in banking personnel last year than for a long period previous was revealed yesterday by Eliot H. Thomson, publicity manager, Washington Loan & Trust Co., in a talk on "Banking as a Vocation," sponsored by the vocational guidance bureau of the Kiwanis Club, of Washington, and broadcast over station WRC.

"While bank deposits have been growing," he explained, "the general lines of banking activities have not been so much in evidence, and the additions of new employes have been few."

Two qualifications that a bank demands of every employe and officer, he said, are absolute loyalty to the institution and inviolate confidence regarding the business of its customers. Banks desire to start new employes at the bottom and train them for higher positions as they prove their worth. While this means low pay and long hours for beginners, he reminded, promotion from the ranks is the general practice in banks, as it encourages employes and provides thoroughly trained forces.

Trust Elects Baille.

The board of directors of Selected Industries, Inc., have elected as chairman Earle Baille, chairman and president of Tri-Continental Corporation, stock in which is held locally to the extent of $10,000,000. Yesterday's announcement of the meeting of organization states that Francis R. Randolph, vice president of Tri-Continental Corporation, was elected president, and John W. Hanes, of Charles D. Barney & Co., chairman of the executive committee. Other officers are Robert V. White, Henry C. Breck and A. I. Henderson, vice presidents, and J. Bernard Miller, secretary and treasurer. Mr. White is a vice president of Tri-Continental and Mr. Miller is vice president and treasurer.

Members of the executive committee, in addition to Mr. Hanes, are Messrs. Baille, Randolph, White, Bayard F. Pope, president of Stone & Webster and Blodget, Inc., and Eugene W. Stetson, vice president of the Guaranty Trust Co.

Election of the new officers followed approval by the stockholders of Selected Industries of a contract under which Tri-Continental Corporation will supply investment advice and service to Selected Industries.

Stock Control Approved.

The stockholders also approved an agreement under which Tri-Continental may purchase at its option during the life of the contract up to 200,000 shares of Selected Industries common stock at $15 a share.

Selected Industries will retain its corporate identity and will be operated as an independent investment company. Investment research for both corporations will be handled by the staff of Tri-Continental Corporation.

Officers and directors of Anacostia Bank reelected at the annual meeting of stockholders and directors meeting of organization held yesterday, are the following: Maurice Otterback, president; S. A. Merchants Will Spend $2,000,000 Advertising

New York, May 13 (A.P.).—At least $2,000,000 will be spent for newspaper advertising by retail merchants in connection with National Cotton Week, June 1 to 6, George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton-Textile Institute, Inc., announced today. Mr. Sloan based his estimate, which he said was conservative, on a survey of department stores, chain stores and mail order houses.

"Widespread stimulation of retail trade and business generally," he said, "is expected to result from this movement initiated by the cotton textile industry in cooperation with the Department of Commerce and the Department of Agriculture. Newspaper advertising will be one of the most effective methods to be used."

In its reportt to the United States Department of Commerce for office use, the association, composed of 44 companies, said new business in April amounted to $1,024,539,000, against $1,194,174,000 in a similar period in 1930. The companies covered by the report have in force 82 per cent of the total insurance outstanding in all United States legal reserve companies.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THE only Oriental male star in American film history, Sessue Hayakawa, will return soon to Hollywood to resume the motion picture career which he abandoned twelve years ago for vaudeville.

It is reliably reported from the West Coast that on June 3 Hayakawa will arrive in San Francisco by steamer direct from his home in Japan. His first new picture will be in cocellar association with Anna May Wong, the Chinese-American actress who also has made her mark both in the films and on the stage.

When Hayakawa deserted the films for the stage he left the memory of an eminently successful career in the minds of the world's picture lovers. He appeared in many films that ranked high among the foremost releases of their day.

It must be said, however, that he left no concise or widespread notion of how to pronounce his name!

Another flash from the coast brings word that B. P. Schulberg, in charge of West Coast production for Paramount, yesterday made public the announcement that Clara Bow will start work on a new film for his company as soon as she recovers from the nervous breakdown she suffered ten days ago.

Dr. J. Wesley Hommel, Miss Bow's physician, said his patient was showing steady improvement, but uttered no word concerning the present condition of the director over whose head she is alleged to have smashed a mirror in the excess of her hysteria.

This is one of those weeks for the motion picture commentators. With only tonight intervening after the de luxe preview of "Dirigible" at the Metropolitan last night, Rodney Collier, of the Rialto, plans to see to it that the boys and girls of the local press get no sleep whatever by screening "Seed," especially for them tomorrow midnight.

"Seed," as, of course, you know, is Universal's picturization of the novel of the same name by Charles G. Norris, in which the three pivotal roles are played by Lois Wilson, John Boles and Genevieve Tobin. This film was given its premiere in the Carthay Circle Theater in Los Angeles while Mr. Boles was recently making his week of personal appearances at the Rialto. It will be next week's attraction at the Ninth street house.

Speaking of next week's attractions, the complete roster for the impending seven-day period will be as follows: Columbia, Marlene Dietrich and Victor McLaglen in "Dishonored;" Earle, Dorothy Mackaill in "Party Husband" and Blanche Sweet headlining the vaudeville bill in person; Rialto, "Seed," as above; R. K. O.-Keith's, Jack Holt and Aileen Pringle in "Subway Express;" Fox, Thomas Meighan, Dorothy Jordan and James Kirkwood in "Young Sinners," and Fanchon & Marco's "Society Circus" idea with Johnny Marvin on the stage; Palace, Gary Cooper, in "City Streets," and "Riviera Revels" stage revue; Metropolitan, Jack Holt, Fay Wray and Ralph Graves in "Dirigible."

Bringing the record completely up to date, the National Theater Players next week will be seen in "That's Gratitude," a comedy by Frank Craven, originally produced by John Golden, never before staged in the Capital.

This genial slice of life and human nature is said to be one of the greatest laughing plays ever placed upon the boards and one that will afford the excellent company assembled by the Messrs. S. E. Cochran and Clifford Brooke opportunity to demonstrate again their complete command over this form of sprightly entertainment. Stanley Ridges, Nancy Sheridan, Adelaide Hibbard, Daphne Warren-Wilson and all the other members of the sterling ensemble will be happily cast in this merry concoction which, for all I know to the contrary, its author is still presenting with signal success on the road.

Having himself temporarily retired from the list of active thespians decorating the boards of his Ninth street temple of burlesque, Mr. Jimmy Lake announces the "Jingle Jingle Girls," a new Mutual organization, for next week, with Ann Corio, a perennial favorite, as the guest artist.

For the fourth time in succession Leon Brusiloff, musical director at the Fox, has been called home from attempted vacation outings by unforeseen events. Having just left Washington for Wachaprague, Va., on a projected fishing trip, Mr. Brusiloff, after having finally been located, was summoned back to the conductor's stand by reason of the serious illness in New York of a member of the family of Max Rosenstein, assistant conductor, whom he had left in charge. During the absence of them both the Fox orchestra is being led by Tom Gannon, no stranger to Capital fans.

"Jim" Flaherty, one of Washington's most popular crooning tenors, associated, I believe, with the Eynon Motor Co., of this city, is an extra attraction at the Fox this week. Although not added to the bill until the third performance last Friday, Mr. Flaherty has been knocking the customers for a loop ever since.

Wel, it's saving a lot of wear and tear on the garden hose, anyhow.

Consumption of crude rubber by manufacturers in the United States in April was estimated by the Rubber Manufacturers Association at 33,321 long tons, an increase of 1.6 per cent over March and the highest for any month since June, 1930. Imports in April were 46,648 tons, compared with 40,338 in March and 49,927 in April last year. Total domestic stocks on hand and in transit overland April 30 were 228,382 tons, an increase of 4.9 per cent over March and 54 per cent over April last year.

The pronounced price declines during April resulted in an increase from 7.42 per cent to 8.58 per cent in the average yield on the 348 active cash dividend paying stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, the monthly computation by Moody's shows. The most recent average compared with 9.5 per cent at the low price of December 17 last.

C. W. Churchill, general sales manager of Buick Motor Co., said May output is likely to be slightly below the April production of 13,939 units.

Notwithstanding the substantial downward trend in earnings as a whole, approximately 100 companies of the total number considered, registered an increase in net income in 1930 over the preceding year, a study by Standard Statistics Co. says. A majority of these companies attained their goal through more efficient operation, or because of being situated in industrial groups that lagged behind in the general downward movement.

Eastman Kodak Co. directors declared the usual extra dividend of 75 cents a share on the common stock in addition to the regular quarterly disbursements of $1.25 on the common and $1.50 on the preferred stocks.

The Iron Age composite price for heavy melting scrap has declined from $10.33 to $9.83 a gross ton, the lowest figure since november 19, 1914. The composite prices for finished steel and pig iron are unchanged at 2.114 cents a pound for the former and $15.79 a gross ton for the latter.

Reorganization of Burns Bros., wholesale and retail dealers in coal and fuel oil, will be undertaken immediately as a result of the denial of a receivership for the company in chancery court in New Jersey, it was said at the offices of the company. No public financing is to be involved in the reorganization.

Production of news print by United States and Canadian mills in April totaled 308,288 tons, a decrease of 29,727 tons from the like month last year. The total, however, showed a substantial increase over the 287,595 tons produced in March of this year.

Sales of American military and commercial aircraft and aircraft engines totaled $9,018,914 in the first three months this year, the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce announced. The figure is an increase of $39,252 over the corresponding period last year.

Directors of Miller & Hart, Inc., Chicago pork packers, have declared a quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share on the cumulative preference stock, placing the issue on a $1.60 annual basis, against $3.50 previously.

Production of electricity by the electric light and power industry of the United States for the week ended May 9 showed a decrease of 2.4 per cent from the corresponding week last year, but the decline was less than the 3 per cent drop shown by the previous week. The total for the week was 1,599,939,000 kilowatt hours. The Atlantic seaboard showed an increase of 2.7 per cent above last year.

Edward Clark, president of Cerro de Pasco Copper Corporation, said in answer to a question at the annual meeting that the dividend policy will depend upon conditions and circumstances prevailing two months from now, when directors meet for action. "While the company has been liberal in dividends to the stockholders during the last year or so," he said, "this has been because directors in times of good earnings have built up a large surplus for just such a situation as now exists. Possibly the management has been as liberal as could be expected under present conditions."

An additional issue of $2,200,000 W. F. Hall Printing Co. first mortgage and collateral trust sinking fund gold bonds, Series A, 5½ per cent, due May 1, 1947, is being offered by a group headed by Lee, Higginson & Co. The bonds are priced at 90 and accrued interest, to yield 6.5 per cent.

F. W. Woolworth's 70 directors, who are large stockholders, have approved a plan providing for a stock dividend and the alteration of the capital structure of F. W. Woolworth & C., Ltd., of England. The action was taken on the suggestion and plan presented by the managing directors of the English company and will have the effect of making it a public company instead of a private one.

A special meeting of stockholders of Capital Administration Co., Ltd., has been called for June 5 to act on a proposal of directors to reduce the stated value of the outstanding Class A stock from approximately $20 to $1 a share, or from $2,778,850 to $143,405 on the 143,405 shares of this class of stock outstanding. Melvin E. Sawin, president, said approval will result in an increase in surplus and will not affect the present asset values of any of the stocks of the company.

Group to Convene At Mount Vernon

Women's Association Will Open Annual Parley This Morning.

The Mount Vernon Women's Association will open its annual meeting this morning on the Mount Vernon estate and will remain in session for ten days. The meetings will be presided over by Miss Alice Richards, of Maine, president. The report of the superintendent of the estate, Harrison H. Dodge, who has held this position for the past 42 years, will be given. Members of the association will make their headquarters in the special building erected several years ago inside the Mount Vernon grounds.

The association was founded in 1859 by Miss Ann Cunningham, of South Carolina, and the estate is now held by the association under a charter granted by the State of Virginia.

It is expected that Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia, an ex-officio member of the board of visitors, will visit Mount Vernon during the session.

National Banks Lose In Number, Resources

(Associated Press.)

A decline in the number and resources of national banks from December, 1930, to last March 25 was announced yesterday by Comptroller Pole. The Comptroller said 6,935 banks had resources of $28,126,467,000 on March 25, the date of the last national bank call.

That represented a decrease of $673,217,000 since December, when there were 7,038 banks, but a $777,967,000 increase since March, 1930, when there were 7,316 banks. A steady decline in the number of national banks in recent years has led Comptroller Pole to recommend to Congress revision of existing law to give them privileges held by State banks.

Barrel Business Changed.

St. Louis, May 13 (A.P.).—The barrel business is not what it used to be, E. A. Powell, Memphis, Tenn., president of the Associated Cooperage Industries, told the organization's annual convention here last night that prohibition and the tendency of the housewife to make small purchases were largely to blame. "Prohibition," he said, "took between 25,000,000 and 30,000,000 barrels a year from the industry, and gave birth to a tendency in mankind to make home-brew in bathtubs."

Arguments to the jury will begin tomorrow morning. Wallace B. Davis, president, and C. N. Brown and Dr. J. A. Sinclair, directors, are charged with mimimizing the bank's overdrafts and deposits due public officials, and inflating its individual deposits and cash reserve, in order to deceive the State Corporation Commission and the public.

Neuritis

There is no pain like Neuritis. There is nothing quite so torturing—so utterly unbearable as Neuritis. It robs life of all joy—and makes people desperate. But Neuritis is not hopeless—it responds to proper treatment. A well-known physician has written us. "Have been drinking Mountain Valley Water for six weeks for Neuritis and am feeling better than I have for two years." Mountain Valley Mineral Water from Hot Springs, Ark., brings relief in Neuritis because it gets at the root of the trouble—it tends to neutralize the acids which are irritating the nerves and retards the further accumulation of these acids by aiding healthy, normal elimination through the kidneys. Renew your hope—learn how Nature can help you. Phone for our booklet today. Met. 1062.

NOVEL SEASONING GIVES LAMB CHOPS SAVORY FLAVOR
Blend of Sugar, Salt, Vinegar and Oil Is the Secret
This seasoning may be used for roast shoulder or leg of lamb as well as the chops.
First make a mixture of ¾ teaspoonful salt, 1 level teaspoonful sugar, 2 teaspoonfuls lemon juice or vinegar and 5 tablespoonfuls of salad oil. Pour this well-shaken mixture over the chops, shoulder or leg of lamb a few minutes before cooking. If you wish you can use the mixture for basting the meat as it cooks. You will be delighted with the way this seasoning heightens the flavor of the lamb.
The sugar is an important ingredient in this mixture just described because it blends the salt, lemon juice and oil into a smooth, zestful goodness.
A combination of sugar and salt is a good seasoning to use in vegetables as well as meat cookery. Some cooks use equal parts—others increase salt or sugar content to taste. Most foods are more delicious with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

IN congratulating the winners in the great Camel contest we want at the same time to thank most cordially the approximately million men and women who displayed their friendly interest by sending in an entry.

We wish also to thank the millions of smokers throughout the country for the appreciation they are showing for our new Humidor Pack as is evidenced by the notable increase in the sale of Camel cigarettes.

By means of this dust-proof, germ-proof, moisture-proof Cellophane wrapping the rich aroma and full flavor of choice Turkish and mellow Domestic tobaccos have been air-sealed in Camels for your enjoyment.

If you have not tried Camels in the Humidor Pack all we ask is that you switch over to this brand for one day.

After you have learned how much milder, how much cooler, how much more enjoyable it is to smoke a perfectly conditioned fresh cigarette, go back to the harsh hotness of stale cigarettes if you can.

STOCK PRICES LOSE AFTER EARLY RALLY

Professional Trading Marks Day's Total Sales of 1,600,000 Shares.

New York, May 13 (A.P.).—Professionals seemed to have the stock market well in hand today. Industrials dropped with the rails after the opening, regained their losses and then joined the merchandising and chain store issues in an afternoon rally which also softened the declines among the carrier issues. However, bears used the higher prices for their take-off on a late selling drive, which more than eliminated the improvement. Net losses, however, were small and total sales were only 1,600,000 shares.

With the notable exceptions of Union Pacific, Atchison and Baltimore & Ohio, virtually all of the rails reached new lows. Although some issues closed above the bottom, American Can touched a new minimum in the morning and United States Steel was flopped under its previous low on the final transaction, closing at 109½, off 1½.

Woolworth was buoyant, soaring 3 points to a new high and holding two-thirds of its rise, helped by the proposal for a stock dividend and capital adjustment by the British subsidiary. Alaska Junea climbed more than 2 points. American Brown Boveri preferred and Grand Union preferred advanced rapidly under light buying. Westinghouse and Johns-Manville firmed, but there were small net losses in American Can, Radio, Allied Chemical, Anaconda, Union Carbide, Consolidated Gas and Texas Corporation. American Telephone dropped 2.

New York Central Loses.

New York Central yielded a couple of points in the forenoon, then more than recovered and finally closed with a small fractional loss. Atchison cut a 4-point drop to 1½ and Union Pacific, after losing 5½, finished a point off. Pere Marquette broke ten on a single transaction. Net declines in the rails generally averaged much less than yesterday.

The undertone of the money markets eased, partly because the 1½ per cent stock exchange renewal rate brought out more funds and partly because of another cut in bankers' acceptances, the fourth in three weeks. The reduction was initiated by the Federal Reserve Bank, which took an eighth of 1 per cent off its bill buying rate apparently in an effort to enliven the bull acceptance market. Today's action indicated the insistence of the central banking authorities' campaign for cheap credit.

The midweek business news was somewhat less negative than in the recent past. Iron Age said steel demand showed a tendency to "level off rather than to decrease further" and that the decline in ingot output which began late in March "had been arrested." Production for the country was estimated at 47 per cent of capacity, unchanged from last week.

More Steel Ordered.

Automotive demand and the needs of the construction industry appear to be giving steel more support than had been expected; however, the weakness of prices is disquieting.

Bradstreet's forecast that construction "will probably be one of the first major industries to recover from the depression," basing its prediction on the 6.4 per cent increase in April building permits over March, a gain that was much larger than seasonal, and a rise of 57 per cent in comparison with January. This index was one of the first to slump about two years ago.

Wheat closed steady, up ¼ to down ¼. Winnipeg reacted and the Kansas crop report was bearish.

Good weather in the Southwest and weakness in the cash market prompted selling of corn which lost 1 to 1½. Cotton, mostly lower, finished with losses of 60 to 80 cents a bale.

Foreign currencies made no response to the lower bill rates here. The Spanish peseta steadied, getting back to the vicinity of 10 cents. Sterling cables were slightly off.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 13 (A.P.).—Influenced largely by spreading operations that consisted of a simultaneous buying of wheat and selling of corn, wheat averaged higher today and corn lower. Indications of continued moisture shortage in spring wheat territory, both Canadian and American, stimulated wheat buying. Corn was sold on account of larger receipts West and Southwest, with better weather for field work in the corn belt and for newly planted grain.

Wheat closed irregular, ¼ cent off to ¼ up, corn 1¾ down, oats unchanged to ¾-½ decline, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 5 cents.

Wheat showed decided strength most of the time, but as a result of profit-taking failed to hold well at the finish. Earlier, the upward trend was helped by reports that Canadian drought conditions were more serious than generally was realized. Winnipeg dispatches said that all over Canada the skies were cloudless to an extent seldom witnessed and that temperatures had reached as high as 94 in the West, a rarity at this season. Prospective reduction of 8 per cent in Canadian spring wheat acreage also was announced.

Highest prices since May 4 were attained by wheat before the late reaction. Considerable purchasing of wheat here against sales at Winnipeg was a feature. Notice was taken also of Australian advices of excessive rains which had interrupted sowing operations and had made the Australian crop outlook poor. Overseas purchases of 500,000 bushels of Canadian wheat were reported, and there were indications that United States hard winter wheat too was being taken in fair volume for transatlantic countries.

Corn, which has been relatively strong for several days, was the weakest cereal today. It was generally believed that one of the leading bulls in corn was letting go of his holdings. Oats were bearishly affected by word that new oats had arrived in San Antonio, Tex., the first of the season.

Provisions weakened, responsive to downturns in hog values and also to the drop in corn.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July, 63½@64, 64@64½; September, 62¼@62¾, 63¾@64. December, 65⅞@66. Corn—May, 60¾@61¼, offers: July, 59¾@59¾; 61⅛@61¼; September, 58, 59¼@59¾; December, 50¾@51⅛.

CROSS CURRENTS AID RISE IN BOND PRICES

Gilt-Edge Issues Are Firm With New Record Gains; Foreign Loans Lower.

New York, May 13 (A.P.).—Cross-currents marked the bond market today.

Gilt-edge issues of all descriptions were consistently firm and some of them even reached new peak levels for this year. The more volatile obligations experienced varying degrees of weakness, but a certain amount of recovery developed in the afternoon and a number of them closed substantially above the day's bottom prices, and in a few instances with net gains. The reduction in yield rates on acceptances was a factor tending to favor the market for short term securities of gilt-edge rating.

United States Government obligations were quiet until the latter part of the trading session, when they became active, and they closed generally higher. The First Liberty 3½s and the Fourth 4¼s, the Treasury 4¼s of 1947-1952, and the 3⅛s of March, 1941-1943 reached new peak prices for this year.

First-class corporate issues, such as Union Pacific 4s of 1968, Southwestern Bell Telephone 5s of 1954, Public Service Electric & Gas 4s of 1971, Canadian National Railways 4½s of 1957 and 4½s of 1968, Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania series B 5s and American Telephone debenture 5s of 1965 and of 1960, all reached new high prices for this year. Many other comporable bonds gained.

The sharpest fluctuations occurred in foreign issues, which closed irregularly lower. Argentina obligations established a series of new low levels, but the recovery among them was one of the outstanding events of the afternoon. Their net losses in several instances were less than half their declines represented by the day's low levels. Irregularly higher final prices in Brazilian issues were another feature of this group. Chilean and Australian obligations were usually lower.

The trend in secondary domestic corporate bonds was irregularly lower.

NATS POUND FERRELL OFF MOUND TO BEAT TRIBE, 9-3

Brown Coasts to Victory Behind an 18-Hit Attack; Indians Drop 4th Straight

S. Rice Steals Home in First, Shows Way to Nats at Bat.

Myer, Manush Are Prominent; Averill Hits Homer.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staf Correspondent).

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 13.—Adding 18 hits to their total of 34 gleaned off Detroit pitchers in the two preceding games, the Nationals this afternoon handed a fourth straight defeat to the Cleveland Indians, 9 to 3, and exchanged places with them in the league standing, pulling up close behind the second-place Yankees.

While winning their third straight this afternoon was most pleasing to the Nationals, the fact that they pounded Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland ace and the best right-hander in the league, off the mound, made victory doubly sweet for the Johnsons in general and for Lloyd Brown, who went the route for Washington, in particular.

Both teams scored in the first inning, but Brown saw to it that the Tribe was stopped, while the Nats continued on, molding markers in four of the eight succeeding frames. The way the game started off, no one had any inkling of the trouble in which Ferrell soon found himself. With one dead, Sam Rice was credited with a double when Vosmik failed to make a shoestring catch. An out advanced Sam to third and, noting that Ferrell was taking an extra-long wind-up, he made a clean steal of home.

Indians Collect Two Runs.

In the home half, Porter's real hit, Bluege's error, a scratch hit by Averill and Morgan's useful out gave the Tribe two runs. Brown had no more trouble from then on, however, granting but six more hits. These he kept well scattered and the only extra-base one was Averill's homer over the right-field wall opening the native ninth.

Manwhile the Nats started to work on Ferrell after it looked as though they had "blown" a chance in the third. With one dead, Manush doubled but was nipped at third when he tried to advance on a short passed ball. Then followed singles by Cronin and West and doubles by Kuhel and Bluege and the Nationals had gained a two-run lead.

In the next frame, they picked up where they had left off in the third. Brown opened with a double and Myer followed suit. When Sam Rice scored both men with a single to center, Ferrell did not have to wait for any advice from Manager Peckinpaugh, but quit the game cold. As his slants had yielded ten hits, six of them doubles, with still none out in the fourth, it must be admitted that he had good basis for deciding he had had enough.

Shoffner Yields Other Scores.

To all intents and purposes, the game ended then and there, but the string was played out. Milburn Shoffner, Ferrell's relief, stopped the Nat rally in the fourth and passed through the fifth easily, but singles by Myer, Rice and Manush gave the Nats one more in the sixth, while four safeties in a row, by the three named above, and another by Cronin, were good for two more in the eighth.

Belve (String) Bean faced the Nats in the ninth and escaped unscathed, although he hit Bluege, Spencer singled and Brown sacrificed both runners for only the first out of the frame.

Every member of the Washington cast took a hand in the attack, with Sam Rice getting the lion's share of bingles. He had a double and three singles to show for his efforts, while Myer and Manush were credited with three hits apiece, each of them getting a two-bagger. Earl Averill, with his homer and a single, accounted for one-fourth of the Indian hit total.

JONES FACES CLEVELAND TODAY

Nats, Seeking 4th in Row; Miller Likely Foe on Mound.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 13.—With Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland's mound ace, beaten, and the series here cut to two games because of Tuesday's postponement, the Nationals are hopeful of making a clean-up at the Indians' expense tomorrow.

"Sad Sam" Jones, always an enigma for the Tribe, will do the Washington flinging and, as he has been showing steady improvement of late, his chances of copping appear quite bright, provided, of course, his mates get a few runs.

Walter Miller, whose southpaw slants have been quite effective in past seasons until last year, when he beat them but once, is due to toil on the slab for the home gang. The Nats will be seeking their fourth straight win.

Lloyd Brown this morning complained of being sick last night. "But I'm O. K. now," he told Manager Johnson before today's game. And he certainly told the truth.

Vosmick made a great try for Sam Rice's Texas Leaguer in the first, and for a moment it looked as though he had made the catch. The ball got away from him when he fell, however, and fast sprinting by the Nat veteran gave him a double.

Porter hit Brown's first offering for a single to left.

Umpire Campbell called Fonseca safe at first on Bluege's error before either the runner or ball reached the base in the opening round. As it was, the Nat third baseman made a quick recovery of his fumble and apparently had the runner thrown out by at least a yard.

Usually passed balls are helpful to the team at bat, but one cost the Nats a run in the third today. Manush, on second, tried to go to third when Sewell let a pitch elude him and was tossed out by the catcher on a close play. Three hits followed.

Brown fell down while rounding first starting the fourth, but still got to his feet in time to turn his hit to left into a double. Myer followed with another, making six hits recorded by the Nats before one was out in the fourth. When Sam Rice cleared the bases with a single Ferrell calmly walked out of the box, not even waiting to see the ball.

Bones Chevy Chase Golf Medalist

Shoots 76 to Beat Eynon, Naiden by One Stroke.

Pitt Loses in Play-Off; Stevinson Picks Up; Marston Absent.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THOMAS P. BONES, Jr., of the Columbia Club, yesterday won the medal for low gross score in the qualifying round of the Chevy Chase Club invitation golf tournament with a card of 38—38—76, one stroke lower than the 77's turned in by Everett Eynon and Maj. Earl Naiden, fellow-members of the Columbia Club. Three players at 82 played off for the two last places in the first sixteen and scores as high as 94 qualified in the fifth and last flight.

Not since John F. Dalley, Georgetown University, and Reginald Loftus, Chevy Chase, tied for the medal at 76 in 1924, has the qualifying score been as high as on yesterday. Bones' score was all the more creditable because he was in no less than five sand traps during his round and on three of these occasions he was skillful enough to chip out and hole a single putt.

Bones Makes Remarkable Brassy Shot.

His most remarkable shot, however, was on the third hole, which is 348 yards in length. He skied his drive, so that the ball was barely out of the rough, and then with a magnificent brassy shot laid his ball on the green with only a 12-inch putt for a birdie 3, which he promptly negotiated. Another stroke which gained the medal for him was played on the seventeenth hole, when his second shot was in a deep trap, but he pitched out to the green and holed out his par 4.

Although he missed his drive on the eighteenth and did not get home until he had played his third shot, he went down in two putts and then his total of 76 was all-sufficient for the medal. He had no three-putt greens, three one-putt greens and only one birdie on his card, which was as follows:

Out ..... 4 4 3 4 5 5 4 5 4—38
In ..... 3 5 4 4 4 5 4 4 5—38—76

The day was notable for its surprises. In the first place, Max Marston, former national amateur champion, sent word from Philadelphia that it would be impossible for him to play, and then Fred J. Beger, captain of the Georgetown University Golf Team, notified the golf committee that he had been called to New York. The absence of these two well-known players was only the beginning of a series of eliminations.

Stevinson Picks Up On Fourteenth.

Miller B. Stevinson, Columbia, runner-up in the Chevy Chase event for the past three consecutive years, was out in 47, which placed him out of the running, and finally picked up on the fourteenth hole. B. Warren Corkran, Baltimore's star player, could not do better than 86 and withdrew, and J. Monro Hunter, jr., Indian Spring, and medalist in the Woodmont event, finally managed to get into the championship flight by winning in the play-off.

The play-off was between Thomas S. Pitt, Argyle; Alex. Baumgarten, Argyle, and Monro Hunter, and proved a proper sequel to the high scoring which had marked the day's competition, for Pitt, after several adventures into the rough, finally picked up after playing six strokes, while Baumgarten won with a 5 and Hunter with a 6. J. William Harvey, jr., Indian Spring, should have figured in the play-off, for when he had reached the home green he had played only 78 strokes. He took five putts on the green and finished with 83, landing himself in the second sixteen. The pairings and times of play this morning are as follows:

Derby Is Seen Preakness Replica

Old Problem of Mate, Equipoise, Twenty Grand Foremost.

West Is Counted Out; Greentree Ace May Go Even in Mud.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 13.—The Derby to be run Saturday will be a replica in many details of the Preakness, so far as the leading horses are concerned. The finish may be different and probably will be, but the horses that figured in that race are the ones that are figuring in this one. The Western horses seem to be outclassed.

The old question of Mate or Twenty Grand? Will it rain or be dry? Will Anchors Aweigh be substituted for Twenty Grand if it rains? Will Equipoise recover? are banded about and pondered over just as they were at Pimlico. It is showery here and has been all week and half the local prophets are trying to make you believe that it will rain Saturday and half that it won't.

Believes Twenty Grand Favors Track.

The opinion of this correspondent is that Twenty Grand will go wet or dry, that he will like the Churchill Downs track by three lengths better than he did the Pimlico track, that he will be the solid favorite and that he will be the winner of the fifty-seventh Derby, that Mate will repeat his good race, but this is further than the Preakness; that Equipoise is the third and unsolved angle of a triangle of thoroughbreds that will figure in the puzzle of the Derby, and that this three-cornered situation will last through the year, or at least until the horses meet Jamestown in New York, with this reservation: Equipoise may get worse or he may improve. He made a move this morning at the track and it was very good, but he does not look the horse that he was in his first start of the year at Havre de Grace.

Equipoise Works Nine Furlongs in Mud.

Equipoise worked today in the mud with the dogs up on the outside of the track. He went a mile and a furlong in 0:13 3-5, 0:26 2-5, 0:39 4-5, 0:53 2-5, 1:07, 1:20 2-5, the mile in 1:48 3-5 and finished out the 9 furlongs in 2:02 1-5. He was jogged a mile.

Ladder, after jogging along for a mile, was let down five furlongs in 1:07. Up went a half in 0:51.

Pittsburgher Best Of Westerners.

Pittsburgher is the best of the Western horses, but failed to measure up to the Easterners. The horses which have been trained at Churchill Downs have not been worked hard enough, is the complaint. Pittsburgher has started five times in races this year and won three, two of which were at this track. He has beaten the other Western pretenders.

Col. Matt J. Winn predicts the crowd this year will measure up to the outpourings of the past. The Camden sale in Lexington yesterday was attended by 1,500 visiting horsemen, and this is an index to the interest that will be evinced all over the country. The hotel reservations and the advance information of the publicity bureaus in touch with the movements of various groups are of the most flattering kind. By tomorrow night the throng will be moving into Louisville from the East and West. Chicago advance delegations note no falling off of the attendance from that city.

There will be at least twelve starters in the derby. Up will be a starter, and he beat Mike Hall and others easily. There is a wager of $5,000, made last winter, that he would start.

ST. LOUIS, May 13 (A.P.).—George Blaeholder, Brown righthander, hel dthe New York Yankees to two hits for the first six innings today, but weakened in the seventh and eighth and the invaders won the opener of what the weather has made into a two-game series, 3 to 2.

The winning run was scored in the eighth when Jimmie Reese singled, Ruth walked and Lou Gehrig pounded a double to center. Gomez relieved Pipgras in the seventh inning for the Yanks and held the Browns to two hits the rest of the way.

MACKS DOWN WHITE SOX IN 11TH, 7-5

Faber Weakens After Miller's Homer Ties Game in Ninth.

CHICAGO, May 13 (A.P.).—Bing Miller hit a home run in the ninth inning off Tommy Thomas this afternoon, and the hit kept the Athletics in the ball game until the eleventh when they scored twice off Red Faber on two hits and a double steal to defeat the Chicago White Sox, 7 to 5.

Thomas was removed to start the eleventh and Faber was the losing pitcher. The Sox erred in the fifth and Thomas himself failed to cover first on one play, the Athletics scoring two runs to tie the score. The Sox got two more but Cochrane's homer in the eighth and Miller's in the ninth took the game into overtime.

Big Ten Chief Speaks for Sports

Defends Football in Colleges at Annual G. W. Dinner.

Dr. Marvin Indicates Institution Will Have Field in 1932.

FOOTBALL and college sports in general were defended last night by Maj. John L. Griffith, athletic commissioner of the Western Conference, at the annual athletic dinner of George Washington University at the Willard Hotel.

Answering the charge that American college football has been commercialized, Maj. Griffith declared that the game and college athletics art commercial only in the same sense that the schools, the colleges, the art galleries, public libraries and hospitals are commercial.

Football is "a commercial philanthropic rather than a mercenary commercial enterprise," Maj. Griffith said. "Colleges for the most part that are making a profit from football, are playing the same institutions that they played in the earlier days when football was conducted at a loss and the games would still be played by the majority of the colleges if the receipts were very materially reduced.

Carnegie Report Called Untrue.

Maj. Griffith characterized the Carnegie report which attempted to show professionalism and proselyting in college football as "not a true report since it depicted largely the bad side of athletics and resulted in the public gaining the impression that college athletics were, for the most part, corrupt.

D. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University, intimated that during the coming year when George Washington should be the recipient of an endowment totaling $600,000, that plans for expansion of the athletic facilities of the institution would be promulgated.

He declared it his purpose to make athletics an integral part of the institution's program and expessed the belief that George Washington would be playing its 1932 games on a field of its own to be acquired.

DERBY FIELD OF 12 OR 14 LOOMS IN STAKE SATURDAY

Starting Gate Makes Debut In Classic

Don Leon and Prince D'Amour Doubtful Starters.

No Fillies to Start; Plan for Crowd of 50,000.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 13 (A.P.).—Now that all preliminary races have been run by Kentucky Derby eligibles and nothing remains for them to complete their training but short workouts, indications today were that perhaps not more than twelve or fourteen 3-year-olds will face the post in the $50,000 added race Saturday.

Should the entries be fourteen or less, the Derby field will be sent on its 1¼-mile journey from a starting gate for the first time in history. The gate in use at Churchill Downs accommodates fourteen horses, and its operation so far during the meeting has been highly satisfactory to turfmen and the public.

Field Includes No Fillies.

The field of probable starters this year includes no fillies, though some may be entered at the last minute. In the event the field is composed entirely of colts, each will carry 126 pounds. A filly is conceded 5 pounds in Derby weights.

Latest speculation as to the Derby field follows: Mate, Twenty Grand, Surf Board, Anchors Aweigh, Equipoise, Ladder, Sweep All, Pittsburgher, Insco, Spanish Play, Boys Howdy, Up, Don Leon and Prince D'Amour. Of these fourteen crack colts, Don Leon and Prince D'Amour were considered doubtful starters because of their lack of form evidenced while training here.

Louisville police today laid their usual plans for handling Derby Day traffic and for preventing petty thievery and shipment of liquor into the city. A crowd exceeding 50,000 is expected to witness the fifty-seventh running.

THE town jail of Kappa, Ill., consists of a tiny bare room with one loosely barred window. In the 40 years of its neglected existence it has had but one prisoner and he was released after a few hours' confinement. Incidentally, this unfortunate fellow was merely arrested for disturbing the peace and was placed in the "jug" to sleep off the effects of overimbibing.

Walter Johnson struck out 3,497 batters during his 21 years of service with the Washington team. This total by no means represents the grand total of men he has fanned, for Barney was making them whiff regularly before he ever thought of the major leagues. The number would be close to the 5,000 mark if exhibition games and minor league strike-out records were included. Johnson's official record would make an average of about five strike-outs in each nine-inning game.

Any reader wanting further proof of anything depicted here should address the author, care of The Washington Post, and inclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope for reply.

Hauser suffered a shoulder injury while at bat in the opening game of the season, played here April 15 with Montreal. Hauser was at bat four times today and got one hit.

—Churchill Downs Selections—
By J. B. SNODGRASS

Special to The Washington Post.

CHURCHILL DOWNS, Ky., May 13.—With the track in heavy condition, an ordinary program of races will be served the regular racing fans here tomorrow. Judging from the present condition of the trip, it is more than likely that the classic on Saturday will be contested over a slow course.

The feature, an allowance affair for 3-year-olds and upward, attracted a select field of six sprinters to contest the honors over the 6½ furlong ground.

Two-year-olds will parade to the post in the third event, which will bring together a smart band of juveniles in the 5-furling dash which [illegible] support the feature.

In the headliner, TOWN LIMIT, from the J. W. Parrish Stable, appears to have the edge on his five rivals. The Parrish 3-year-old finished a fast-closing third in his previous effort and figures to annex the purse. SKIRL, a fast-stepping Whitneyite, battled the top-notchers and should force the pace. KENASHAW, in the D. D. Canfield string, lightly weighted with 105 pounds, is the show selection. KINCSEN is reported ready.

TELLECO, a recent winner at this track, stepped the 4½ furlongs in 0:54 3-5 over a heavy track and under similar conditions should defeat the field of sixteen juveniles pitted against him in the secondary feature. CATHOP has trained well and is given the place call. OUR FANCY, from the J. B. Respess string, scored impressively in his last winning effort, but is moving up here.

The busy American gelding figures best of the others for the show award.

FIRST RACE—In the opening sprint, a limit list of twenty maiden 2-year-old fillies, will contest the issue over the 5 furlong route. PREFER, owned by H. P. Headley, has had the benefit of several races and on her education figures to graduate from this field of nonwinners. GREENLEAF has enjoyed a brief rest and may prove troublesome. SHAKER LADY, from the Fairview Farm Stable, finished third last start and should do as well here.

SECOND RACE—Ten 3-year-old claimers will match strides over the 6-furlong ground of the second heat. DON ALVARO has been freshened up and has turned in some fast works, which gives him the call. SILVER LAKE, from the Everglade Stable, disappointed when installed the choice and is capable of extending the top one. TOMMY BOY, carrying the Dixiana silks, should get into the picture. GETTINEVEN is rounding to form and may surprise.

FOURTH RACE—PLUMAGE, from the Gallaher & Coombs string, has shown speed in heavy going and should romp to an easy victory over the ten 3-year-olds and upward she will meet in the 6-furlong dash of the fourth event. DEWET tired in her last start after setting the pace, and with that race as a tightener should furnish the opposition. THISTLE BILLIE, in the G. Collins stable, is the show selection. CHENE, from the C. V. Whitney string, is an outside possibility.

SIXTH RACE—In the mile and sixteenth sixth number, STUPENDOUS, a fleet mud runner, appears the best bet of the card, and figures to lead the field of fourteen platers to the finish line. GOTOIT, from M. Goldblatt string, raced well during the winter, and in his start here ran in spots. LORETTA B., racing in the Mrs. Brooks' interests, should save the show.

SEVENTH RACE—Fifteen platers will parade to the post in the mile and a sixteenth gallop of the concluding number, with BUNCH OF LILIES as the choice. This Parrish filly, with 107 pounds, is bred for mud and figures best of a poor lot. STAR LASSIE should gain the place, with PRINCESS EDITH as the show selection.

Hemsley, A. W. O. L., Suspended by Bucs

New York, May 13 (A.P.).—Manager Jewel Ens, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, made known today that Catcher Ralston Hemsley had been indefinitely suspended. Hemsley was given permission last Tuesday to visit his home at Syracuse, Ohio, and was supposed to report back in time to start East with the team last Saturday night. He arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday and reported he had been ill.

COTTON TOPS H. SMITH IN ENGLAND

Briton Leads by One Stroke; All U. S. Men Among Leaders.

SOUTHPORT, Eng., May 13 (A.P.).—Young Henry Cotton, whose quarrel with the British Ryder Cup team selection committee featured the early British golf season, today led the field in the $7,500 Southport Professional Golf Tournament, his first round 70 being a stroke better than the score of Horton Smith, the young Missourian.

Cotton played fine golf, but was fortunate in starting early before rain and wind complicated the play. Smith finished his round under threatening conditions and with a strong wind blowing.

The three Americans competing with Smith in the tournament all were well up with the leaders at the end of the first round, Joe Kirkwood being tied with seven others for third place at 72 and Joe Turnesa and Tony Mareno getting 73s.

Easterbrook Ties Smith With 71.

Syd Easterbrook, who is fighting for the Ryder Cup team berth that Cotton scorned, tied with Smith for second place at 71.

Among the eight in third place with Kirkwood were two Ryder team players, Charles Whitcombe, the captain, and Archie Compston. Ted Ray, the aged British professional, also was in that select group, as was Marco Churio, one of four Argentine players in the tournament. The other three at 72 were Rufus Stewart, Moses O'Neil and Ernest Kenyon.

The fight for the sack of gold and the honor of winning the first major event of the year promises to be a warm one, as half of the field of 107 players was bunched within six strokes of the leader. Eighteen more holes will be played tomorrow and the final 36 Friday.

Kirkwood's Shot Felis Aged Man.

Kirkwood had a little adventure as usual today, his second shot to the long seventeenth hitting an old man who guards a railway crossing there and laying him out for several minutes.

Churio and Tomasco Genta, the Argentine open champion, gave a courageous exhibition to mark up scores of 72 and 73, respectively. They played their round while the wind and rain were at their height. The poor conditions proved too much for their fellows, Jose Jurado and Hector Frecerro, who turned in cards of 80.

American Colt Beats Epsom Derby Eligibles

Newmarket, England, May 13 (A.P.).—Although not considered as an outstanding candidate for the Epsom Downs Derby, to be decided June 3, William Woodward's American-owned 3-year-old, Sir Andrew, defeated a classy field of Derby eligibles in the $5,000 added Newmarket Stakes today.

The speedy son of Sir Galahad III, sire of Woodward's Gallant Fox, which swept the 3-year-old stakes in the United States last year, was given a well-judged ride by P. Beasley, to defeat W. Singer's Linkboy by a full length, under wraps.

Sir Andrew was an outsider, paying 8 to 1.

Before the race, the American-bred colt was being quoted at 4 to 1 in the Derby future books, but the next call over the latter part of next week is almost certain to see him as one of the favorites. Sir Andrew will be asked to go one-quarter mile farther in the Epsom Downs feature, but in today's race he displayed plenty of stamina.

EIGHT TEAMS SEEK INSECT CLASS TITLE

League Play Will Start Saturday

Georgetown, Wonder Boys, Lionels Are Again Entered.

Capital City League Flag Is Aim of Youngsters.

INSECT SCHEDULE FOR SATURDAY.
(All games at 11 o'clock.)
(Doamonds to be announced later.)
Menorah vs. Washington Orioles.
K. of C. vs. Langdon.
Swan's Shop vs. Wonder Boys.
Georgetown vs. Lionels.

EIGHT of the fastest insect teams ever gathered in one league will toe the starting mark Saturday morning when the opening games in the insect section of the Capital City League, sponsored by The Washington Post, will be played. All of the games will commence promptly at 11 o'clock.

Whole-hearted cooperation with league officials on the part of the various team managers and stricter eligibility rules will make this loop the best of its size in town. The players are well drilled in the rudiments of good baseball and in a great many of the cases they have performed together ever since they were knee high to the proverbial grasshopper. This has also benefited their work on the diamond.

Carefully selected umpires will officiate at all of the Capital City League games, insuring correct and fair decisions. It is to the credit of these arbiters to state that not a protest was received concerning their work last season. A rare tribute when one considers the seriousness with which the youngsters take their baseball.

The teams will meet each other once in the first round play of the league, following which a second round will be played, with the winners meeting in a three-game playoff for the city championship and The Post's gold baseballs.

The Montgomery County section of the Capital City League, sponsored by The Washington Post, will get underway with German's Bakery opposing the Takoma Tigers, 1930 Capital City League champs, on the Rockville diamond, and the Bethesda Fire Department coming in for a battle with the Chevy Chase aggregation. Old Colony the fifth team entered in the race drew a bye for the first round. Due to the odd number of teams entered in this section this year one team each week will draw a bye, giving each club three open dates during the entire league schedule.

All of the nines are looking forward to a banner year despite the small number of entries. The cry which has resounded this season appears to be, "Small but good." This is only too true. Last season the Takoma club after winning the Maryland championship went on to defeat the District and Virginia champs to earn the title of Capital City League champions which embraces not only Washington but the surrounding suburbs.

Chevy Chase has fortified itself for the coming campaign by obtaining the services of Mr. E. K. Morris, a personage long identified with baseball, and one who is sure to bring his team close to the very top, if not landing them right in the championship.

There is no outstanding favorite in the entire circuit, all of the clubs are better prepared for the campaign than they were last season. Better sportsmanship has been in evidence this year, which lead to the prediction of a successful season. The fans, too, are looking forward to the race with great hopes of seeing another Capital City League champ come from out this way.

Whalen Takes Lead In "Big Four" Bowling

Jack Whalen went into the lead in the "Big Four's" private sweepstakes match, the third block of which was rolled on Henry Hiser's Hyattsville Alleys last night. Whalen's set of 602 not only sufficed to pick up 26 pins separating Hiser and himself, but also gave him a 12-pin lead over his rival. Henry finished the evening with a total of 576. Bradley Mandley collected 591 sticks, while Astor Clarke again trailed with his effort of 541. The fourth and final block will be rolled Saturday night at Convention Hall. Summaries:

son and the boys all felt pretty glum, but after the seventh game when our standing was two won and five lost Connie called us aside and said:

"'Well, boys, we haven't done so well, but don't worry, we're going to get going yet. We've got a great team and don't forget it. Your pitchers have been going good and the fielding has been great. We just haven't started to hit yet. Guess we're not early spring hitters. But we're going to hit from now on. I feel it.'

"And his feeling was right. We started hitting and we've won nine of the last eleven games, exclusive of today. We're back hustling and our spirit never was higher."

As usual, Connie refuses to make any predictions about the pennant race except to say that it looks like a close one with Washington, New York and Cleveland the biggest threats to the champions.

Navy Crew Works Out On Severn, Despite Rain

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 13.—The Navy varsity crew worked out in a cold drizzle this afternoon as its final preparation on home waters for the triangular race against University of Pennsylvania and Harvard on the Schuylkill River Saturday. Coach Glendon put his pupils through a stiff drive, and some improvement was noted, compared to the showing against Syracuse last Saturday when the Tars bowed in defeat by two lengths.

The crew, however, has not developed the speed which such a ponderous combination whose average weight is around 183, Glendon believes it capable of making. Since the Syracuse brush, Glendon made an experimental shift between Crinkley and Jewett, who row No. 4 and No. 6, respectively, which meant more than ten pounds greater weight near the stern of the shell, but it made no noticeable difference as far as speed is concerned. The oarsmen will therefore be boated the same as against the Orange.

The Middies' shell was shipped to Philadelphia by train tonight and the party of oarsmen will leave tomorrow afternoon. Workouts will be held on the Schuylkill both morning and afternoon Friday.

MARYLAND NINE IDLE.

Charlottesville, Va., May 13.—Rain compelled a cancellation today of the Maryland-Virginia baseball game. The Marylanders returned home, where they will meet V. M. I. Friday.

Gallaudet Trackmen Beat Maryland Cubs by 4 Points

Rayhill and Ringle Lead Blues to Victory on Slow Track; Quinn Wins Three Events; Dobson Wins.

GALLAUDET'S cinderpath aggregation yesterday afternoon defeated the Maryland yearling squad on Kendall Green by 60 2-5 to 56 3-5. The rain-soaked track prevented good times.

This was the first victory for the Kendall Greeners this year. Jimmy Rayhill, Gallaudet first year man, was high point man of the meet with 19 points. Rayhill took part in five events, capturing firsts in the pole vault and high jump and taking second in the 100 and 220 and broad jump. Capt. Johnny Ringle showed his prowess in the weights, winning the shot and discus and taking seconds in the hurdle events with ties for third in the high jump and pole vault. Ringle checked up 16 7-10 points. Ed Quinn, Maryland sprinter, captured the century, furlong and broad jump.

Chester Dobson's final sprint in the quarter-mile, furnished the feature of the meet. Dobson nosed out Cronin, who had led up to the home stretch, by a margin of 4 inches at the tape.

AGREEMENT SETTLES LEITER ESTATE ROW

Joseph Leiter and Countess Sister Both Resign as Trustees.

Chicago, May 13 (A.P.).—Eight years of litigation among heirs to the late Levi Leiter's $30,000,000 estate are due to end tomorrow.

Counsel for Joseph Leiter and Lady Marguerite Hyde, Countess of Suffolk and Berks, only surviving children of Chicago's pioneer merchant, presented a compromise agreement today to Judge Denis E. Sullivan before whom Lady Suffolk brought suit in 1923 to oust her brother, Joseph, as administrator of the estate.

Judge Sullivan said he would sign the decree tomorrow. By its terms Joseph Leiter will resign as trustee. Lady Suffolk and Daniel V. Harkins, Chicago banker, the third trustee, will then appoint Darrow Fulton, veteran auditor for the estate, to replace Leiter. Lady Suffolk will then resign and William Scott Bond, a trustee of the University of Chicago, will be named the third agent of the Leiter estate.

Levi Leiter's will required there be at least two trustees at all times.

The agreement awards $1,027,000 to eight law firms for their services to the estate and to the heirs of Levi Leiter's dead daughters, Lady Mary Leiter Curzon and Mrs. Nancy Leiter Campbell, who like their sister, Marguerite, married Englishmen.

Attorney fees will be paid by the estate. First heirs must return $422,746.82 of their accumulated income to the estate at once and $356,337.21 more within nine years. Joseph Leiter will be absolved of financial liability to the estate.

The British heirs contended he mismanaged the estate which included Illinois coal mines, Wyoming ranch land and Chicago merchandising projects. In 1926, Judge Sullivan declined to oust him, and the British heirs appealed. The appeal was denied by three judges sitting en banc last March 24.

NORRIS INDICTMENT DROPPED BY COURT

Nebraska Grocer May Be Faced by New Action in His Campaign Probe.

Lincoln, Nebr., May 13 (A.P.).—Perjury indictments against George W. Norris, the grocer, and Victor Seymour, Republican leader, based on their testimony before the Senate's campaign fund investigating committee here, were dismissed today by Federal Judge T. C. Munger, who also held that the committee's inquiry into the 1930 Nebraska Republican senatorial campaign was valid.

Demurrers filed by the grocer and Seymour were sustained by the court on a technicality. Charles E. Sanrall, United States district attorney, said the Government probably will seek new indictments.

The defense challenged the constitutional authority of the committee headed by Senator Gerald P. Nye to investigate a primary election campaign. Judge Munger held the inquiry was legal, but that the indictments failed to specify the materiality of the defendants' answers.

Omaha, May 13 (A.P.).—United States District Attorney Charles E. Sandall said late today that the Government probably would ask for a re-indictment of Grocer George W. Norris and Victor Seymour, who were freed on a perjury charge by Federal Judge Munger in Lincoln today, in connection with a senatorial campaign funds inquiry.

Chairman Nye, of the Senate campaign funds committee, yesterday expressed the hope that new perjury indictments would be drawn against Victor Seymour and George W. Norris, former grocer, in connection with their testimony before the committee last year while investigating the Nebraska senatorial primary.

"I think that case of perjury is an unquestionable one, and those prosecuting it have as clear a case of perjury as ever has gone before the courts," Senator Nye said.

Capital Firm Wins School Contract.

The contract for erection of the second-story addition to the Francis Scott Key School, Hurst Terrace and Dana place northwest, was let yesterday by the District Commissioners to Bahen & Wright, of Washington, on its low bid of $49,975.

HIGH SCHOOL PITCHING NO BETTER

Series Hurlers Have Been Nicked for 124 Tallies.

"HIGH SCHOOL series may come, and high school series generally go, but mediocre scholastic pitching remains with us unending," is an old bromide, but it continues to remain true, a glance at the pitching statistics for 1931 show. The calibre of the pitching in the series this year is true to all high school traditions.

The flingers have been bothered by the customary number of errors this year, 34 "between the shoes", hits having been made in the seven games to date. Western leads the error league with ten misdemeanors, with Business coming in close behind with eight. Eastern has committed six errors, while Central and Tech are tied with five apiece.

Pitchers Have Allowed 124 Runs.

The high school pitchers this year have been nicked for 124 runs, about 18 a game. The thirteen pitchers who have been used have allowed 150 hits, an average of approximately 21 hits a game. Eighty-four boys have been given a free trip to first base, 12 per game. On the other hand, the flingers have retired 104 batsmen by the strikeout route, about 15 a game.

Dick Lanahan, pitching his last year of high school ball for Eastern, is again the leader of the moundsmen, but this year he has found his usually unmolested title usurped by wildness and the pitching of Emmett Buscher, Central flinger, whd won two games before being knocked out of the series box by biology and declared scholastically ineligible.

Lanahan Has Walked 21 Batters.

Lanahan has walked 21 batters in two games, and has struck out an equal number to take the lead in both divisions. For number of innings pitched he has allowed the fewest hits, 10 hits in 15 innings. Buscher allowed 20 hits in 18 innings and struck out 13. He walked only four.

Everett Russell, called to the box from first base twice, and a starting pitcher in the other Tech game played, has struck out 24 opponents, to lead this category. George Clarke, of Western, has been the easiest to hit, his offerings having been nicked safely 22 times.

NAVY BEATS INDIANS BY 6-4 SCORE

Davenport Allows 4 Hits to William and Mary Nine.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 13.—William and Mary College, of Williamsburg, Va., bowed to the Annapolis Midshipmen on the diamond here today, 6 to 4, a drizzling rain falling throughout the game, and as a result fielding of both teams was loose at stages.

Davenport, lanky right hander, went the full route for Navy and held the enemy to four scattered hits. The first comedy of errors occurred in the third inning, when the Navy infield went to pieces for a trio of errors, which, with a base on balls, enabled the Indians to get a pair of runners home. The Tars came back in the same session to register three times when William and Mary's inner works also cracked, although a single by Ashworth and a two-bagger by Hurley were the main factors in the scoring.

The visitors were blanked for the next three frames, but Navy got one run in the sixth on a pass to Byng, a single by Bunce and an error. The Indians scored one in the seventh when Sundin drew a base and Maxey tripled to right field. A hit batsman, base on balls, loose fielding and a single put two more runs on the Navy's side of the ledger. William and Mary's final counter was Scott's drive to deep center for the circuit. It was one of the longest hits on the local diamond this season.

V. M. I. Teams Close Season This Week

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., May 13.—Virginia Military Institute teams will close their seasons away from home this week, the ball players being on foreign diamonds for three straight games, and five members of the track team competing in the Southern Conference championships at Birmingham.

On Thursday, Coach Bill Raftery's greatly improved club will tackle the Marines at Quantico, moving on the next day to College Park for a return game with Maryland. The Old Liners defeated V. M. I. early in the season, and a victory for V. M. I. would even the series and leave the Cadets near the top of the Tristate League. The season will close with a game in the Richmond Municipal Stadium against Frank Dodson's University of Richmond Spiders.

Lefty Williams, who won his second pitching duel of the season from Reggie Mapp, V. P. I., star right-hander, will probably take the mound against Maryland.

JONES TO OPPOSE CLEVELAND TODAY

ing for any suggestions from Manager Peckinpaugh.

Home fans were given one of the few laughs they had enjoyed until that time when Myer was being run down between second and third in the sixth. After singling, Myer rounded second too far on Sam Rice's safe bunt. Sewell hustled to line up on the rundown and dropped the ball. Then Myer fell over Goldman and he was finally caught while crawling on his hands and knees for the third sack.

Myer showed some rare speed in beating out his grounder to Morgan in the eighth. The first sacker, who lost his job to Fonseca when he was a holdout this spring, is now holding down third because of his hitting. He made a good stop of Myers' tap, but had to turn and peg while almost on the third sack.

Porter made a nice running catch of West's foul in the eighth, and then Kuhel sent Averill to the fence in deep center for a long looper. Two Nats were on the runways at the time.

Seeds, who pinch-hit for Shoffner opening the home eighth, lined the first offering to left. It would have been at least a double had it not been aimed directly at Manush.

Sam Rice raced over toward center to make a nice catch of Vosmik's drive in the ninth, just when the Indians thought they were off to a rally.

When the Washington team was in Philadelphia on its first visit, it was generally understood that if the Pennsylvania "House" put its approval on a bill permitting Sunday baseball in the Keystone State, the Senate and governor would give it their okay. Thus with the passage of this bill by the Pennsylvania House of Representatives yesterday, indications are that Sabbath baseball will be permissible.

Whether or not the American League schedule will be revised so as to use some Sunday dates in the Quaker City, if the bill does become an act, is not known, but League Secretary William Harridge intimates that this matter will be left up to the Philadelphia Club. The question was put up to Mr. Harridge by telegraph today and he wired The Washington Post's correspondent as follows:

"Can not give you any advice on schedule dates in Philadelphia until I have conferred with our club officials there."

JOE HARRIS SOUGHT.

Toronto, May 13 (A.P.).—Steve O'Neil, Manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs, today said he was negotiating with Joe Harris, former big leaguer who was released recently by the Buffalo club, to sign on with the local club as utility fire baseman and coach.

CROWDS BRAVE RAIN TO ATTEND OPENING DAY OF HORSE SHOW

Events Halted by Darkness, With Redmon Entries Capturing Honors.

STIMSON SPECTATOR, DESPITE DOWNPOUR

Loving Cup Is Given Burrows for Victory in Local Saddle Class.

Darkness had fallen before the last events at the annual National Capital Horse Show's took place yesterday, the opening day of the meet which has acquired a recognized high standing with Eastern horse lovers.

Exhibitors in the show number 180 of the best known horsemen and horsewomen from the heart of America's racing section, Virginia, Kentucky, Maryland and Pennsylvania, while 250 of the country's best mounts have been entered.

Rain spoiled the opening day of the show, on Bradley Farms, near the Congressional Country Club, but despite the unpleasantness, many of the Capital's elite, led by Secretary of State Stimson, sat through most of the show either under the grandstand roof or under hundreds of umbrellas lining the ring.

Redmon Entries Win.

The first event yesterday afternoon was the showing of 2 and 3-year-olds, suitable to become hunters, which were shown in hand. Portlight, owned by E. S. Redmon, took first place in this class, with Oswegatchie, owned by E. M. Wolfe, of Upperville, Va., taking second. Your Way, also owned by E. S. Redmon, took third, and Sky Line, owned by D. B. Smith, fourth.

Flashing Through, belonging to J. U. Kuhns, took first place in the novice saddle class, with Likely Maiden, owned by John T. Harrington, second. Third place went to True Love, owned by Mrs. Allen Potts, and fourth to Winnie Winckle, owned by Mrs. J. B. Berry.

Portlight, owned by Mr. Redmon, who seems to have brought several winners from his Middleburg, Va., stables, took first place in the 3 and 4-year-olds, and his Your Way, which took third in the first event, came in for fourth place in this one. Second place was won by Oswagatchie. Third went to Flam Boy, also owned by Mr. Woolf.

Mainspring, another Redmon horse, took first place in the middle and heavyweight green hunters class, with Portlight, from the same stables, taking second. Third place went to Skyline, owned by D. B. Smith, of Warrenton, Va.

Model Saddle Competition Keen.

In the model saddle horse class, which only had ten entries, competition was especially keen. First place went to Likely Maiden, owned by John T. Harrington, of Youngstown, Ohio, with Happy Days, owned by the Bell-Ho Stables (Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bell, Ho-Ho-Kue, N. J.,) second. Third place went to Flashing Through, and fourth to Love Token, owned by Mrs. Allen Potts, of Gordonsville, Va.

In the local saddle class, which included only entries owned by residents of the District, a large loving cup was presented to W. Frank Burrows for his Happy Time, the presentation being made by Mrs. Simon Patterson. Second place went to Harriet Lee, owned by Vernon G. Owen, and third to Sarilou Smart, owned by Karl W. Corby. Fourth place went to Sporty McCann, owned by Miss Emlen Knight Davies.

Horrent, a horse owned by John W. McComb, of Wilmington, Del., gave a beautiful performance in taking first place in lightweight green hunters. Your Way, the Redmon horse, took second; Clean, owned by Capt. Peter G. Carpenter, third, and In the Way, owned by Miss Julia B. Whiting, fourth.

Hunters Furnish Thrills.

Qualified hunters furnished one of the most thrilling events yesterday. First place was won by Royal Earn, from the Rolling Rock Farms of Richard K. Mellon, at Ligonier, Pa.; second place went to Hukupu, owned by Maj. G. S. Patton, jr., this city; third place to Tamerlane, owned by Miss Helen W. Buchanan, of Warrenton, Va., and fourth to Windsor, from the Rolling Rock Stables.

Mr. Kuhns' Brown Man took first place in the novice saddle class, with Birdwood Treasure, owned by Henry L. Fonda, Charlottesville, Va., second. Glenn Allen, from the Bell-Ho Stables, third, and Bay King, owned by Fairfax Oyster, of this city, fourth.

In the class for hunters other than thoroughbreds, first place went to Mr. Redmon's Mainspring, and second to Maj. Patton's Hukupu, with Windsor, from the Rolling Rock Farms, third, and Diamond Joe, owned by Roger Bayly, of Upperville, Va., fourth.

Darkness Delays Decisions.

Darkness came on before the judges had given their decisions in the modified Olympia class and the decision in the third and fourth places will be made today. The first place in that class was given to By Request, owned by the Trillora Farms, of Shrewsbury, N. J., with second going to Windsor, winner in two previous events.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon the program will begin with the light class of qualified hunters. Other classes which will be shown include saddle horses, green hunters, touch and out class, thoroughbred hunters, the American Remount Association class, local hunters and thoroughbred saddle horses, climaxing with the handicap jump.

SAILING OVER JUMP AND LOOKING AT ENTRIES

Underwood & Underwood. Harris & Ewing.

Miss Katrina McCormick, attractive debutante daughter of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, sails over the barrier in fine style on her favorite steed at the National Capital Horse Show. On the right, Margretta Rowland and Roland Dawson are shown looking over the entries for the next event.

ROCKVILLE COUNCIL ACTS IN BOND ISSUE

Water and Sewer Program Will Be Pressed as Fast as Possible.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post. 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

An expansive program of improvement for Rockville, the county seat of Montgomery County, was outlined yesterday by Mayor J. Roger Spates following a meeting of the town Council Tuesday night. The council acted on the $50,000 bond issue which had been authorized by the Maryland General Assembly at its last session.

The improvements are to be made in accord with plans recommended by the engineering firm of Whitman, Requhardt & Smith, of Baltimore, which made a survey of the town's needs several months ago. Improvements are expected not only to provide adequate water and sewerage facilities for the town, which, for several years, has been subject to a water shortage in summer, but to make improbable a threatened increase in fire insurance rates which had been suggested by the board of underwriters because of the inadequate water supply.

An additional well will be sunk and a standpipe with a capacity of 100,000 gallons constructed, together with a new filter bed at the sewage disposal plant and water and sewer main extensions. These water and sewer extensions will bring about the inclusion of sections of the town which have developed since the systems were installed a number of years ago.

William F. Prettyman, attorney for the town, was directed by the council to prepare advertisements for bids for the bonds, which are to be sold as soon as possible to take advantage of a favorable market. The bonds will be redeemable serially, beginning in 1934 and culminating in 1954, and will bear interest of 4½ per cent per year.

The town has a taxable basis of $1,800,000 and its bonded indebtedness at present is $54,000. Mayor Spates said that the issuance of the bonds will not increase the town's tax rate to more than $1 per $100 of assessed value. The present tax rate is 90 cents per $100.

The meeting was held unexpectedly on the night prior to the one which had been announced as meeting night. Those who attended were representatives of the engineering firm; Bernard T. Brosius, president of the Rockville Chamber of Commerce; William F. Prettyman, president of the Rockville Rotary Club, and former Mayor Charles G. Holland. The latter three form the advisory board which was provided for in the bill authorizing the bond issue.

Work on the improvements is expected to start as soon as it is possible to comply with the legal requirements and is expected to be completed this summer.

The children of the Woodside School will hold Community Day exercises at the school today, starting at 11 o'clock this morning. A luncheon will be served at 11:30 o'clock by the Parent-Teacher Association. Girl Scouts of the local troop will sell candy for benefit of the Scout organization.

The Queen of the May will be crowned at the afternoon session, having been selected from the seventh grade. At the close of the exercises the queen will crown her successor for next year, who will be chosen from the sixth grade.

The Glenmont Parent, Teacher and Patron Association will hold a meeting at the school tonight at 8 o'clock. In addition to a talk on teeth by a doctor from the oral hygiene bureau at Baltimore, the children of the first grade will present a play, "Belling the Cta." Children of the fourth and third grades will present a rhythmic band number.

Committees to work for the annual dinner and benefit of the Rockville Volunteer Fire Department, which will be held at the firehouse May 27 and 28, have been announced by George Peter, manager, as follows:

Bolt Spares Only Room of Children

Lightning Wrecks House Near Monticello; One Is Hurt.

Charlottesville, Va., May 13.—A bolt of lightning coming in the midst of a thunderstorm at 1 o'clock this morning wrecked the residence occupied by R. T. Brown and family at Sunnyfields, just east of Monticello. All of the occupants escaped injury save the tenants' uncle, Wallace Brown, who was rendered unconscious.

The bolt tore a gaping hole in the side of the frame structure and rocked it to its foundations. Both chimneys were shattered and all of the nine rooms except the one where several children slept were wrecked. Every pane of glass was broken.

The owner, William G. Moler, reports the loss fully covered by insurance.

KIDNAPING OF GIRL IMPLIED IN NOTE

Ward of Berwyn Heights, Md., Couple Missing Since Last Thursday.

A scrawled note, implying that their ward had been kidnaped, was received yesterday by Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Turner, of Berwyn Heights, Md., after Ruth Wanamaker, 25 years old, disappeared from the Union Station last Thursday night.

The note, printed in pencil on plain paper read: "Pennsylvania House, 497 Pennsylvania avenue. Girl in basement. Kidnaped. Girl held."

Upon receipt of the note, detectives visited the place but were unable to locate the missing girl. A few days ago the foster parents received a note that the girl was being held as a hostage in a Seat Pleasant, Md., house. This also proved false.

The girl disappeard from Union Station about 11:10 p. m., Thursday night, where she was awaiting the arrival of a train with her foster-mother. The girl had been in ill health, according to Dr. Turner. At that time she was wearing a crepe dress, tan coat, with a pink collar and a black hat.

Dr. and Mrs. Turner adopted the girl 15 years ago. They returned from Florida about a month ago, where they had spent the winter. Dr. Turner is a retired physician and served in the Army with rank of major. He believes the child may be a victim of amnesia.

Carolinians in Row Over School Sums

General Assembly Closes 127th Day and Nears New Record.

Raleigh, N. C., May 13 (A.P.).—Approaching a record for length of a session in this State, the North Carolina General Assembly today completed its 127th day still deadlocked over finances for schools.

Not since 1869-70, in reconstruction days, has a North Carolina legislature remained in session more than 127 days, and the end of the present session is not in sight unless sine die adjournment is taken before a revenue bill is passed.

Only three legislatures in the history of the State have been in session longer than the present, the longest being the 148-day session of 1868-69.

PROPERTY PURCHASE IS GIVEN APPROVAL

Land for Underpass Ordered Bought; School Project Sites Are Favored.

Five pieces of property were ordered purchased yesterday by the District Commissioners at a price of $29,557.01, for construction of an underpass beneath the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks in the vicinity of Chestnut street. The project was included in the 1931 appropriations.

Negotiations for the purchases were conducted by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. Some of the prices are reported to be "out of line with the assessments," but the total is declared by Maj. H. L. Robb, assistant engineer commissioner, to be "as low as could be obtained in condemnation."

The pieces of property, the owners, and the prices to be paid are:

Lot 809, Ella J. Townsend, $10,411.11; lots 2 and 800, Susanne Lerch, $12,855; lots 801,802 and 803, Takoma Park Syndicate, $5,301; lots 804 and 806, H. Y. Dawkins, $828.50, and lot 808, E. H. Davis, $161.40.

Two school property deals also were ordered yesterday by the Commissioners.

Three purchases to provide a playground for the Morgan School, Champlain street near Florida avenue northwest, were approved. They are: Blanche C. Freeman, $9,000; C. R. Cranmer, $18,000, and Sarah E Cranmer, $5,500, making a total of $32,500.

Land to provide a site for an addition to the Harrison School, Thirteenth and V streets northwest, was ordered bought from Dora Rosendale for $5,100.

Virginia to Unveil Her Prize Statue

Richmond, Va., May 13 (A.P.).—Virginia's premier art possession—the Houdon portrait statue of Washington, regarded by experts as the most valuable piece of marble in the United States—will be unveiled tomorrow.

The exercises in the rotunda of the State Capitol will take place just 135 years from the date the statue was erected there, but so far as available records show, no dedication ceremonies were ever held.

Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart, emeritus professor of history at Harvard University, who has been engaged by the United States George Washington Bicentennial commission to prepare a 22-volume biography of the first President of the United States, will be the orator at the exercises. Among those expected to attend are 40 descendants of the revolutionary hero.

Silver Spring Youth Held in Holdup Probe

William B. Read, 20 years old, of Silver Spring, Md., was arrested yesterday by Detective Sergt. Norman S. Hodkinson, for investigation in connection with a hold-up on May 4, at Fifth and Rittenhouse streets northwest.

Mr. and Mrs. William Saunders, of 518 Roxboro place northwest, were held up by two armed youths, who obtained only $1. Read denies implication in the hold-up. He was taken into custody by Rockville, Md., authorities at the request of local police.

Bicentennial Official To Speak in Richmond

(Associated Press.)

Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart, official historian of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, will deliver an address on George Washington at the State Capitol in Richmond, Va., today on the 135th anniversary of the placing of the Houdon statue of Washington there.

Gov. Pollard will present Dr. Hart.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ENTITLED "THE GUNMAN."

"TWO GUN" WHOZISS, bully and assassin, shoots down his third policeman and escapes.

The scene of the crime is carefully roped off pending the arrival of newspaper and movie photographers so that graphic pictures can be brought to every American home.

The investigators are photographed singly and in pairs.

"Two Gun" is located in an apartment house and his surrender demanded.

He refuses to surrender until satisfactory publicity arrangements have been perfected. Asked for his terms, he replies, "One hundred camera men, 300 reporters and 50 special writers."

Just when the terms are about to be accepted he asks for a delay of one hour so that his "moll," trapped with him, can get a chance to go out and buy some new clothes for the photographs.

An hour elapses and the attack on the "stronghold" is begun under the direction of four motion picture companies.

"Two Gun" could be captured without much trouble by three or four old-school cops, but for picture purposes the arrest takes half a day.

"Two Gun" is captured and is about to be taken to the lockup, when he is taken back into the apartment house and the battle is staged all over again for a "retake" at the request of a movie company late in arriving.

"Two Gun" refuses to surrender all over again unless he can change from a blue to a gray sports suit and be photographed in a close-up kissing his girl. This is agreed to with the understanding he will also pose kissing a district attorney.

THE prisoner is photographed in a hospital where he is being treated for flesh wounds.

The doctors, nurses, internes and board of directors are also photographed.

The district attorney, his staff and high officials of the police department are photographed on the hospital steps.

The crime is "rehearsed" for the camera men at the scene of the shooting by the gunman's "sweetie," who has been gowned for the occasion by a leading women's wear house. (Hats by Binklebaum. Shoes by Swonk Bros.)

Harmony is threatened by a complaint from two assistant district attorneys that unless they are allowed to stand in the front row for the group photographs they will appeal to the courts.

Proofs of the pictures reveal that F. Ambrose McWeelch, a prominent court official, did not screen well and the picture is retaken.

The grand jury indicts "Two Gun" for the Flash News Weekly.

"Two Gun" signs contracts to write poems on "Home and Mother Love" for the tabloids.

The trial begins under auspices of the North American Federation of Motion Picture and Newspaper Photographers.

Trial broken up by serious illness of presiding judge due to flashlight poisoning.

New trial set for following year, with agreement for new scenario and color pictures.

The classic will be "Twenty Grand."

Trio With 28 Watches Makes Sale During Police Inquiry

Three bored young men patiently submitted to questioning yesterday by Prince Georges County police who sought to learn how the youths had come by 28 expensive-looking watches found in their pockets.

Questioning by policemen is no novelty to Joseph Zoppo, Victor Carlucci and Carmine Filipone, of Newark, N. J., they said. Although they buy the watches from a firm which rebuilds them, authorities never believe the story until after long quizzing. Carlucci said that they are arrested at least once a day as they try to sell the timepieces for considerably less than their original cost.

The trio was released yesterday after they had produced a bill of sale for the watches, and a number of letters from other police officers saying it was found after investigation that the watches were gotten honestly. Not only were they released, but they managed to sell one watch to George Merrick, Marlboro attorney, who assisted in the questioning.

They were taken into custody yesterday after they had tried to sell a watch to Edward Mazzullo, who has a store at Hill's Bridge. Mazzullo grew suspicious and called police, who caught the youths several miles below Marlboro. They showed a handful of clippings from other newspapers telling of being arrested and released.

DEATH LAID TO MAN IN DROWNING CASE

Pilot of Boat Faces Charge of Manslaughter; Hearing to Be Soon.

Monte de la Vega, held in the supposed drowning of Irving D. Gregory early Sunday morning, has been charged with manslaughter and will be arraigned about May 22, according to Judge John Fainter, of Hyattsville, who issued the warrant.

Meanwhile, Harbor police dragged for the body for the fourth successive day without success. De la Vega was able to show authorities only the approximate spot where Mr. Gregory went overboard. Mr. Gregory, who lived on Mount Pleasant street near Irving street, either fell or was pushed from a launch in the Potomac, near the historic Army post.

Mr. Gregory, with another man and two girls, hired the boat for a night party. It is said that there was an altercation over attentions paid to one of the girls shortly before the supposed drowning.

Bond for de la Vega has been set at $5,000, which has not yet been provided. Other members of the party were released after being held over night when they had agreed to attend the inquest.

Walter Gavin, colored, about 40, is being held by Prince Georges police in connection with the death of Robert Jackson, also colored, whose body was found near the railroad tracks in Bladensburg early Tuesday morning.

Gavin was arrested in the District, about 350 yards over the line in Kenilworth, after a posse had searched for him all morning near his home. He lives at Simon's Hill, Md., about two miles from Bladensburg on the Defense highway.

Police say that they have found no motive for the killing, although they have learned that Gavin and Jackson were going with the same girl. Jackson was killed, according to a coroner's jury, by a fractured skull from a cause unknown. The weapon used has not been found.

Alleging that he suffered personal injuries during a fight with Earle Blackwell, Capitol Heights constable, Joseph Mulitz, a grocer of that town, yesterday filed suit for $2,000 damages against the policeman.

The declaration filed by the grocer says that the fight occurred on February 1, while Blackwell was investigating the theft of a bicycle from Clifford Baden, jr. The fight was followed by the filing of cross warrants, Blackwell charging Mulitz with receiving stolen goods and Mulitz charging Blackwell with assault. Both warrants, however, were dismissed in police court. Mulitz is represented by Attorneys Robert W. McCullough and Thomas J. Luckett.

A married life which lasted less than one month was aired in a divorce petition, filed yesterday by Helen M. Lyons, who asks an absolute divorce and restoration of her maiden name.

The suit names William M. Lyons, whose address is unknown to his wife. She states that they were married on October 7, 1927, and that he abandoned her on November 1 of that year. She prays the court to restore her maiden name of Helen M. Harrison. They have no children.

Two white men were yesterday held for the grand jury by Judge J. Chew Sheriff in Hyattsville police court, charged with the theft of two game chickens valued at $20. The men are Charles Sword and Frank A. Cerrone.

They are alleged to have taken the fowls, a hen and a rooster, from William P. Seymour. Pending action of the grand jury, Cerrone was released on bail of $500, but Sword is still in jail.

Jessie D. Stansbury, of Mount Rainier, was fined $10 for having an improper license. She was arrested in Riverdale by State Policeman W. A. May. This officer also figured in two cases of failing to give right of way, Edward Glover, of Park road near Fifteenth street northwest, paying $10 on this charge, and Hugh A. Rouke, of A street near Third street northeast, pay $5. Both violations occurred in College Park.

Conviction on a charge of reckless driving brought a fine of only $1 to John F. McCabe, of A street near Second street southeast. He was arrested by Walter Acton, new bailiff of Riverdale.

Randolph Gillespie, of Berwyn, was fined $10 for reckless driving and $5 for having no license, after being arrested by Albert Anderson, chief of police of Hyattsville.

Colmar Manor's 263 voters will express their acceptance or rejection of the town road bond bill at a referendum to be held Saturday between

CALHOUN EXPLAINS CHECK TRANSACTION

Details of $30,000 Order Causing Five Arrests Are Described.

Defense counsel for the three men and two women on trial in District Supreme Court on a charge of conspiring to blackmail Capt. and Mrs. Clarence C. Calhoun yesterday played what they represented as a trum card in leading Capt. Calhoun to testify that his $30,000 check figuring in arrest of the five defendants had been drawn on a bank where he had insufficient funds. The check, however, was never presented for payment.

For the most part comparatively slow progress was made in the questioning of Capt. Calhoun, the only witness of the day, after having taken the stand early in the previous afternoon following conclusion of testimony by his wife. He was due to resume the stand at the opening of court before Justice Jesse C. Adkins at 10 o'clock this morning.

Prominent himself as an attorney, Capt. Calhoun matched wits with his inquisitors, who on various occasions sharply cautioned him to confine himself to answering their questions without amplifying his remarks.

Defense Delayed Move.

Although the trial has been in progress since last Friday, the defense waited until the general groundwork in the quizzing of Capt. Calhoun had been laid yesterday before introducing the $30,000 check, which he readily identified as the one which caused arrest of the defendants.

They are W. Clark Noble, internationally known sculptor; Mrs. Noble, Mrs. Anna Hillenbrand, James P. Bird and Stephen A. Armstrong, jr. The charges arose after alleged blackmail was threatened during the activity of the Calhouns in the Women's Universal Alliance, which they organized.

"Did you have $30,000 in the Continental Trust Co. on August 7, 1929, when that check was drawn?" Capt. Calhoun was asked by Richard L. Merrick, a defense attorney, who handled the bulk of questioning during the day.

An objection by Irving Goldstein, Assistant United States Attorney, who is conducting the prosecution, was overruled by Justice Adkins.

"No, I didn't," Capt. Calhoun replied.

"Had you made any arrangement for it to be taken care of at the bank?" Mr. Merrick questioned.

"Yes, I had made an arrangement by telephone with Wade H. Cooper, the president," Capt. Calhoun responded.

"Did any of your organizations have $30,000 there at that time?" Mr. Merrick asked.

"No," replied Capt. Calhoun.

Expenditures Exceeded Revenue.

Capt. Calhoun testified on cross-examination that "expenditures far exceeded receipts" in the several organizations, including the Women's Universal Alliance. He estimated expenditures at about $100,000, with "receipts far less." He was emphatic in declaring that the Woman's Universal Alliance was operating now, although he admitted on questioning that the only memorial ever erected thus far was "a marker used as a sample of stone promised for the mothers' memorial." It was described as 4 by 5 feet in size and placed here on the designated tract on May 10, 1929.

Mr. Merrick attempted to prove that Mr. Noble had been retained to design a memorial for the alliance, but Capt. Calhoun stressed that no satisfactory design had been received from Mr. Noble and that therefore no agreement had been reached regarding compensation.

Noble's Work Rejected.

"I pointed out that Mr. Noble would have to make very radical changes in his preliminary design, but I was willing to be charitable with him and offered to show him every consideration," Capt. Calhoun testified. "We were not willing, however, to accept any of his work and told him so."

He said Mr. Noble wanted $50,000 for the design and $500,000 for serving as official architect and sculptor for the organization. He said that the organization "hoped to raise three, four or five million dollars" for its work, including a motherhood memorial, a fund for the education of mothers and expectant mothers and a fund for the aid of mothers in straitened circumstances.

Lou Arnold, attorney for Mrs. Hillenbrand; Charles W. Arth, representing Mr. Bird, and K. K. Spriggs, representing Mr. Armstrong, also questioned Capt. Calhoun.

Apple Fete Press Row Bears Fruits

Virginia Police Held Back Photographers From Vantage Points.

Richmond, Va., May 13 (A.P.).—T. McCall Frazier, director of the Virginia division of motor vehicles, today said he had received complaints of unpleasantness between photographers and State police at the Winchester apple blossom festival and that in the future he would ask assurance of adequate press arrangements before assigning officers to such celebrations to avoid a repetition.

"I have thoroughly investigated the whole matter and I am of the opinion that the unfortunate circumstances were due entirely to a confusion of orders," Mr. Frazier said. "In the future it will be the policy of the division of motor vehicles not to assign any officers for duty at any celebration until we have been assured that adequate provisions have been made for the press and photographers in order that no such unfortunate circumstances may arise."

The unpleasantness, Mr. Frazier said, occurred when photographers with press badges, which they understood admitted them to a point of vantage at the Handley Stadium, were held back by State police acting under instructions of the director of the pageant. The order to the police was later rescinded.
